On a recent, rainy Sunday afternoon we made a long overdue call at the home of Harold and Jayne Haeefe, Oak Hill, Dallas.

Jayne greeted us at the door and explained that we had caught them in the midst of their regular "children's hour." Urging them to continue we sat and watched mother and father finish the exciting, competitive game of "Trouble" with their two children.

We were quite impressed by the consideration and warm rivalry shown between both generations and we could not help but think how wonderful it is this fine example of families doing things together could be followed by people throughout the world.

Harold and Jayne Haeefe are firm believers in doing things with their children whether it be at home, in school or community groups. They also have a keen interest in other activities but their family events come first.

The Haeefes moved from Wilkes-Barre five years ago into their light green, ranch style home in Oak Hill. They are what you might call "do it your selfers", doing their own landscaping, constructing a new driveway, and renovating the inside of their attractive oak-paneled home.

Harold is a project engineer with Royer Foundry Co. in Kingston. A graduate of Meyers High School, he was graduated from Penn State's Wilkes-Barre Campus with an associate degree in mechanical engineering technology. He is the son of Harold and the late Stella Griffith Haeefe, formerly of Wilkes-Barre. His father now resides in California.

He is a member of George M. Dallas Masonic Lodge No. 531, Jonathan R. Davis Volunteer Fire Co., and the newly-organized Lake-Lehman Booster Club. He enjoys bowling, hunting and basketball, but recently has been spending most of his leisure time renovating his home. In keeping with his and Jayne's philosophy that "family participation" comes first, he is an active committee man for Cub Scout Pack 241 where his son, Daniel, is a member.

Jayne is the former Jayne Searfoss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Searfoss, Kingston. Her cheerful smile and enthusiasm is familiar to all her friends and neighbors.

She is an active member of the Dallas Junior Woman's Club where she holds the position of assistant secretary. She attends Idetown Methodist Church regularly and is Sunday School teacher for fourth grade students. She is assistant den mother for Cub Scout Pack 241. Jayne is also a Vanda Beauty Counselor—"I do this because it doesn't take me away from the children," she explained.

She is a member of the Imperiaettes Bowling League and in her leisure time knits and sews for the children and herself. She did tell us, however, that she spends most of her time doing things for her family. The behavior of Daniel, 8, and Deborah, 5, proved the great amount of time given them by their parents.

During the hours we spent at their home, there was no quarreling or bickering, nor did they have to be told to put away games and books. They did it very promptly making it easy to recognize that this was customary. Deborah made it a point to tell us that "mommy and daddy play and read to us every day."

We asked the Haeefes if they did much traveling but Jayne explained that although they enjoyed doing so they were putting this aside for the future, until the children were old enough to appreciate the benefits of visiting historical sites throughout the country and relate their experiences to their studies.

Dr. John O. Nelson to Give Address at Festival of Faith

Dr. John Oliver Nelson will give the keynote address at this year's Festival of Faith Oct. 24, at 4 p.m. in Walsh Auditorium on the College Misericordia campus. The Festival of Faith is co-sponsored by the Wyoming Council of Churches and the Diocese of Scranton.

Dr. Nelson is director of Kirkridge, a non-deominational retreat center which is located in Bangor. He came to Kirkridge in 1964 after 14 years at Yale Divinity School as professor of Christian vocations. He is an author, editor, and speaker; he has led numerous gatherings in America and abroad dealing with vocations, commitment, and liturgy.

Dr. Nelson has served in various national chairmanships: that of the Association Press, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, The University Christian Mission, the Evangelism Department of National Council of Churches, the Church Peace Mission, the United Presbyterian Peace Fellowship. He has been a trustee of the Earlham School of Religion, and is a corporator of the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund.

The Kirkridge program headed by Dr. Nelson has as its purpose a vital updating of Christianity in contemplation, social witness, parish relevance, and deepened worship.

Dr. Nelson's address will set the tone for the theme of this year's Festival of Faith, "Faith in Crisis." This theme will then be further explored at workshops centering on topics such as the Role of Women in the Contemporary Church, Christians in Community Organizations, New Ventures in Christian Education, and Faith in Crisis.

Reservations for the Festival of Faith may be made through the Wyoming Council of Churches prior to the program's opening session at College Misericordia.

The day will begin with registration at 3:30 p.m. A general session will be held from 4 to 4:45 p.m. and workshops will continue from 4:45 until 6:20 p.m. Supper will be at 6:30 and closing workshop will be from 7:30 until 8 p.m.

Harveys Lake Legion Plans Children's Party

Harveys Lake American Legion, Post 967, met Oct. 12 at Casey's Hill Top Inn. Commander Francis Fisher presided. Plans were discussed for the children's Christmas party which will be held at the Lake Elementary School Dec. 19.

Members were reminded that dues are going to increase after the first of the year, and that meetings, starting with the next one, will be held the first Tuesday of each month at 8 p.m.

Daniel is now in third grade at Lake-Lehman and Deborah is in kindergarten.

Although Harold and Jayne Haeefe have been residents of the Oak Hill and Back Mountain area for only five years, they have become well-adapted members of the community and look forward to many enjoyable years among their many friends and neighbors.

Mrs. William Robbins Will Be 99 Years Old

A member of a well-known Back Mountain family will celebrate her 99th birthday Oct. 23—Mrs. William (Maude) Robbins, formerly of Harris Hill Road, Trucksville, will observe the anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hagenbaugh, Lehman, where she has resided in recent months. Friends are welcome to call.

The nonagenarian is the widow of the late William Robbins of Trucksville. A rather unusual circumstance of her history is that her late father was also William Robbins of New Columbus and Huntsville. The two Robbins families were not related.

Mrs. Robbins has two children, Elma Anderson of White Plains, N.Y., and Robert Robbins of Delaware.

Born Oct. 23, 1870, Mrs. Robbins is described as "pretty active." One of her favorite pastimes is reading; her eyesight still permits her to read newspapers and other periodicals every day.

With a smile, she attributes her longevity to "good clean living."
