

True Grid

Despite some astounding upsets, True Grid kept pace with his previous successes. The best known professional predictor—Major Hoople—and True Grid differed on 11 selections. The outcome: True Grid, 9; Major Hoople 2. The past week's record was 69 right, 17 wrong and one tie—a .802 percentage! It would be unforgivable not to mention Navy's fantastic upset over Duke. It was a pleasure to miss that one! All major powers except Notre Dame and Stanford held true to form, but a number of nationally prominent powers were strongly tested—including Air Force, Tennessee, Alabama and Auburn.

The schedule for Oct. 30 offers the most interesting contests to date. True Grid's critical evaluation indicates that the potential for significant upsets will abound this weekend. The top 10 teams will encounter tougher opposition and there are a number of close conference clashes from the Ivy League to the Pacific Eight. Even True Grid will feel fortunate to get more than 70 percent of these contests right.

As in past weeks, the games involving the nation's top teams will receive special commentary. The winners are listed in italics.

Alabama at Mississippi: The Crimson Tide could make this one a bloodbath. However, 'Bama could be looking a week ahead toward their showdown with L.S.U. Mississippi State just lost to Tennessee 10-7 last week, but in spite of these considerations, look for Johnny Musso to set more records as the Tide rolls to another victory.

Florida at Auburn: The Gators have been a dismal disappointment (2-5). They did upset Florida State and squeaked by Maryland in their last two outings, but Auburn's Tigers remain undefeated and may be ready to fulfill their full potential. The Tigers could swamp the Gators.

Colorado at Nebraska: The nation's number one team gets its most severe test to date. The Buffalos have lost only to Oklahoma, but by a 45-17 margin. Although Nebraska will win, they will not do so as impressively as Oklahoma. Nebraska wins but loses ground to Oklahoma for the nation's number one ranking.

Indiana at Michigan: The top against the bottom of the Big Ten. The Hoosiers have been improving weekly but they are far from ready for the Wolverines. Michigan will put on an awesome display of offensive power and defensive strength before the Ann Arbor crowd.

Iowa State at Oklahoma: The Cyclones have won five and lost only to Colorado. However, their victories have been against lightly regarded opponents and the record-setting Sooner offense will give the Cyclones a taste of big time football. Nobody has been able to stop Pruitt, Crosswhite, Mildren and Company, and Iowa State won't either. Look for another 50 point-plus performance at Norman, Okla.

Louisiana State at Mississippi: In years gone by this loomed as a more interesting contest. L.S.U. has had a week off after their lackluster performance at Kentucky, and Ole Miss is 5-2 but far from its past posture as a national power. The pride of the Rebels will make it a tough contest but L.S.U. should win in a close contest.

Ohio State at Minnesota: The Gophers have put up valiant struggles against some top notch opponents only to lose on costly errors. The Buckeyes have been invincible after their loss to Colorado. This could be closer than the experts anticipate, but the Buckeyes should win a fiercely contested battle with a strong second half performance.

Navy at Notre Dame: The Middies executed the upset of the week by surprising Duke 15-14, and the Irish received their annual upset by Southern California. Irish tempers will flare as they vent their frustrations on the outmanned Midshipmen. The Irish offense finally gets into high gear in a one-sided victory, and Navy's win streak ends at one in a row.

Penn State at West Virginia: The Nittany Lions offense, second in the nation, should be able to roll up the score on the Mountaineers. West Virginia is 6-1 but has had to struggle against the likes of Temple, Richmond and William and Mary. It will be all uphill for the Mountaineers as they try to prevent Penn State's 13th straight victory in this series. Syracuse at Pittsburgh: Although neither team is a national power, this one should be of interest to Eastern fans. After a hesitant start, Syracuse put it all together last week against Holy Cross (63-21). Pitt started well and has gone flat in losing four of their last five. Give the Orangemen an edge on momentum in this traditional showdown.

The fortunes of pro football continue to be more difficult to anticipate than collegiate level contests. Last week's record was nine right and four wrong: The season's slate reads 41 right and 22 wrong with two ties for a .651 percentage. This week's schedule should be a bit easier and enable True Grid to raise his overall percentage—although it will take considerable consistency to overcome the first two weeks of upsets! Here are the predictions for the coming weekend: Baltimore over Pittsburgh, St. Louis over Buffalo, Miami over Los Angeles, San Francisco over New England, San Diego over the New York Jets, Minnesota over the New York Giants, Dallas over Chicago, Denver over Philadelphia, Washington over New Orleans, Cincinnati over Houston, Cleveland over Atlanta, Kansas City over Oakland, Detroit over Green Bay.

In other collegiate contests: Arizona State over Air Force, C.W. Post over Adelphi, Maine over A.I.C., Amherst over Tufts, Arizona over New Mexico, Arkansas over Texas A&M, Miami over Army, Bowdoin over Bates, Texas Christian over Baylor, Boston University over Connecticut, Bowling Green over Marshall, Brigham Young over Texas-El Paso, Princeton over Brown, Rutgers over Bucknell, Southern California over California, Cincinnati over Memphis State, Clemson over Wake Forest, Hobart over Colby, Colgate over Lehigh, Utah State over Colorado State, Cornell over Columbia, Dartmouth over Yale, Dayton over Youngstown, Delaware over Temple and Georgia Tech over Duke.

Also, East Carolina over Furman, Houston over Florida State, Georgia over South Carolina, Gettysburg over Southern Connecticut, Ithaca over Grove City, Wesleyan over Hamilton, Harvard over Pennsylvania, Holy Cross over Northeastern, Northwestern over Illinois, Wisconsin over Iowa, Oklahoma State over Kansas, Missouri over Kansas State, Virginia Tech over Kentucky, Lafayette over King's Point, West Chester over Kutztown, Louisville over Tampa, Upsala over Lycoming, Maryland over Virginia Military, Vermont over Massachusetts, Toledo over Miami, O., Purdue over Michigan State, Middlebury over Norwich, East Stroudsburg over Millersville, Montclair State over Trenton State, New Hampshire over Rhode Island, North Carolina over William and Mary, Virginia over North Carolina State, Ohio University over Western Michigan.

Sportsmen Urged To Avoid Littering

The Pennsylvania Game Commission urges the state's sportsmen to create a better image for themselves and to help insure the future availability of hunting lands by exerting special efforts to make hunting seasons litter-free in 1971.

The sharp awareness among the general public of our environmental problems will provide an opportunity for sportsmen in the commonwealth to regain some ground lost in the past through senseless, thoughtless acts by a few persons who left behind stark evidence of their presence.

Landowners can't be expected to permit hunting when intruders use property as a garbage and trash depository. Littering on public property is just as bad or worse, because this is an offense against all of society and everyone has to pay to help clean up the mess.

Litter-bugs are reminded that they face $25 fines and possible loss of hunting licenses

Black Knights Lose To Warriors, 23-8

by Tony Ferrara

The Black Knights of Lake-Lehman High School, thwarted by a few key mistakes, fell in defeat to the Wyoming Area Warriors Saturday afternoon at Lehman.

The opening kickoff was driven by Wyoming to the Knights' 30 where they ran out of downs and gave up the ball to the Knights. Here two turnovers occurred in succession. The Knights lost a fumble on a pitchout attempt and on the third play of this Warrior series, a Don McDermott pass was picked off by Knight Bill Kalish.

The Knights drove to about midfield where they ran out of downs and set the Warriors up in scoring position. With a few quick runs by Dave Amico and Mickey Calabrese, the Warriors soon moved the ball to the 15. From here, McDermott slid into paydirt following a fake to Calabrese. The extra point, kicked by Harry O'Dell, was good-setting the score at 7-0.

Following the Wyoming kickoff the Knights were unable to keep up a drive and were forced to punt. The punt was called back on a penalty and the Knights were again in punting position. This time, Knight punter Gary Baker could not hang on to the ball, fell on it, and was pounced on by Fumanti on the one yard line. McDermott slid in for his second TD and connected on a pass to Fumanti for the conversion, setting the score at 15-0, with 29 seconds left in the half.

Following another pass intercepted by Knight Bill Kalish, the Knights drove for their only score of the game; the key play of the drive was a long Stevens to DeCesaris pass which put the Knights on their foe's five yard line. Two plays later, Bob Engle drove in for the score and cracked the same side for the two-point conversion. The score was now 15-8, while the game came to life for Knight fans with a close game and 10:50 left to play.

The Knights stopped the Warriors on the L L 18 on a drive and had a chance to keep possession and possibly score and pull ahead. On a fourth and third play, the Knights gambled for the first down from their own 30, but were stopped when a Stevens pass fell incomplete, giving the Warriors another chance to score.

They did just that. On the second play of the series, Calabrese slipped off three Knight tacklers, and ran 21 yards to the goal. McDermott smashed the right side to end the scoring at 23-8.

The lead rusher for the tilt was Calabrese, totalling 131 yards in 20 carries. For the Knights, Bob Engle led with 71 yards, putting his total yardage at over 1100 for the season. Angelo DeCesaris played a fine offensive game as well as defense for the Knights. Dave Steltz and Bill Lozo stood out offensively and defensively also.

The win for Wyoming Area retains their top position in the A Division of the Wyoming Valley Conference, while the Knights now sport a season record of five wins and two losses. The Knights now have sole possession of first place in the B Division with a 2-0 record there and will fight their third B Division tilt against Hanover Friday night.

(DAVE KOZEMCHAK) Allan Brown, Lake-Lehman end, blocks for Bob Engle, Lake-Lehman's halfback No. 27, as he goes down under a pile of Warriors.

Hunter Safety Course Minimum of Four Hours

The Pennsylvania Game Commission reminds youngsters (and parents) that a minimum of four hours of instruction is required for a hunter safety course. There is no maximum, and some classes run beyond the minimum permissible.

Some hunter safety instructors break up the course into several segments, presenting several hours of instruction at one time and the remainder of the course in a later class session or sessions. Apparently some persons have seen several dates listed for a hunter safety course and have been under the impression that it is necessary to report on only one date. As a result, they miss the first date and then find that they are reporting for only one-half or one-third of the course, thereby failing to meet the required minimum.

If there is any question about how often it is necessary to report to complete the full course, inquiries should be directed to the hunter safety instructor who is teaching the course or to the district game protector.

Nanticoke Rallies to Defeat Mountaineers at Dallas, 34-24

by Jon Jay LaBerge

Dallas lost its first home game of the 1971 season Saturday as Nanticoke rallied back from a 14-0 first half score to defeat the Mountaineers, 34-24.

Neither team could put their offense together early in the first period with the deepest penetration being to the Nanticoke 25. Near the end of the period Dallas began to move as they took possession of the ball following a Trojan punt on their own 30. In seven plays Dallas moved in for its first score with Charlie Griffin carrying on five plays including his 32-yard scoring run. Kostrobala put Dallas in the lead 7-0 with his successful conversion with nine seconds on the clock.

The Dallas defense held again and forced Nanticoke to punt on the series following the kickoff. Griffin led the Mountaineers to their second score by covering 33 yards of the 53 yard drive. The score came on a pitch from Gary Arcuri to Griffin who covered the final 25 yards and recorded his 10th touchdown of the season.

Nanticoke began the comeback on the following series as they ran off 12 plays and 62 yards with quarterback Greg Snyder sneaking in from the 3, to put the Trojans on the scoreboard with 4:05 remaining in the half. Jim Wisnieski ended the threat of a two-point conversion as he trapped Snyder in the backfield without allowing him to unload the ball.

A Mountaineer fumble on the following series gave Nanticoke the ball on the Dallas 30. Three plays later Chet Chapracki broke away for 15 yards and his first of three touchdowns. A pass from Snyder to Ganski tied the score at 14-14.

With only 1:09 remaining, Gary Arcuri showed he could move Dallas as he completed two passes, one to Rich Miskiel for 23 yards, and another to Bud McHale for 21, and he ran for 15 and 13 yards to put the ball on the Trojan 6 with only two seconds showing on the clock. Griffin kicked his second field goal of the year—this one of 23 yards, to put Dallas back on top at half, 17-14.

On the first series of the second half, Dallas moved the ball to the Trojan 27 before they ran out of downs and were forced to give up the ball. Nanticoke took the lead for the first time after moving 71 yards in seven plays, including a 29-yard pass from Snyder to Mausek. The score came on a four yard run by Chapracki. The attempt for the two-point conversion failed, resulting in a 20-17 score.

Dallas came right back with a score on next series. The drive started with a 37-yard pass from Arcuri to Jay Jones to put the ball on the Nanticoke 27. Rob Goeringer, back from a two week absence due to injury, accounted for some crucial yardage in the series, including a 14-yard reception on 3rd and 15, and a one-yard plunge on the following play for the first down at the Nanticoke 4. Three plays later he broke across the right side of the line for two yards and the score. Kostrobala added his sixteenth consecutive PAT kick to put Dallas on top 24-20.

Nanticoke countered the Mountaineer score with another scoring drive starting on their own 32. Nine plays later Chapracki skirted his right end for eight yards and his final score of the contest. Snyder kicked the conversion to put the Trojans in command for good with 7:56 remaining.

Dallas was halted of the ensuing series, but appeared to have cornered Nanticoke on their own 2 followings a 60-yard punt by Roger Howell. From there Nanticoke played control football running 11 plays and covering 98 yards while running out all but 45 seconds in the contest. Kovalich cut around his right end for 27 yards and the game's final score. Snyder again converted the kick successfully to make the final score 34-24.

Kovalich led all rushers with 192 yards with Chapracki adding 106 yards and three touchdowns to the Trojan attack.

Griffin led the Mountaineers with 109 yards on 17 carries and a 6.4 yard average.

Roger Howell and Jim Wisnieske both played fine games for the Mountaineers defense accounting for nearly 30 tackles between them.

Dallas travels to Trippi Stadium next week Saturday to meet the Pittston Area Patriots at 7:45 p.m.

Bob Saffian Quarterback Gary Arcuri, No. 16 for Dallas, fakes a handoff and runs to advance the ball 20 yards against the Trojans of Nanticoke.

Small Game Season Will Open Oct. 30

Pennsylvania's regular small game season will open Oct. 30, at 9 a.m.

All hunters are cautioned by the Game Commission to observe the opening hour Oct. 30. The entire state will be operating on Eastern Daylight Saving Time, so there should be no confusion on the starting time.

Species which will become legal targets Oct. 30 include cottontail rabbits, male ringneck pheasants, wild turkeys and bobwhite quail. The early small game season for grouse and squirrels opened Oct. 16.

The seasons for all of these species, except turkeys, will continue through Nov. 27. Turkey season ends Nov. 20 in all of the state except the north-central area, where the season resumes Nov. 24 (following the two-day bear season) and then closes Nov. 27.

All pre-season reports indicate there will be an adequate supply of all small game species.

The game commission reminds hunters that NO wild birds or wild animals, including migratory birds, may be hunted before 9 a.m. Oct. 30 anywhere in Pennsylvania. Shooting ends at sunset daily.

These are the daily and season bag limits for small game species: Cottontail rabbits, a limit of four per hunter per day and 20 for the combined seasons; ringneck pheasants, the daily limit is two, with a season limit of eight (males only); wild turkey, a limit of one per hunter per hunting license year; bobwhite quail, a limit of four per day and 20 per season; ruffed grouse, the daily limit is two, with not more than ten in combined seasons; squirrels, six per day, and not more than 30 in combined seasons.

A winter season for cottontail rabbits, squirrels and grouse will open Dec. 27 and close Jan. 15.
