Man Accused of Drunken Driving

A drunk driving charge has been filed with District Magistrate Leonard D. Harvey against Robert Edwards of 452 W. 8th St., West Wyoming, following an accident which occurred Saturday night near Country Club Road.

Dallas Township Patrolman James L. Gruver reports that several calls were received at police headquarters from motorists who complained of a driver operating his vehicle in an erratic manner near that portion of Country Club Road known as Chestnut Ridge. Police caught up with Edwards when they discovered his car in a ditch in that vicinity.

When he was taken to the State Police barracks in Wyoming, Edwards refused to take a breath-o-lizer test used to determine whether or not a person is intoxicated. His refusal to submit to the test will result in the automatic suspension of his operator's license.

STORM

failure in many Trucksville areas and subsequent lack of heat in the home of Mrs. Peter Drochak made caring for Emma Prehadin, Mrs. Drochak's aged and ill mother, extremely difficult. Mrs. Prehadin died Friday afternoon, although her death was not attributed in any way to the storm.

The actual task of snow removal was lightened in Dallas Borough and Kingston and Dallas Townships by equipment and manpower provided by the Marona Construction Company. Five pay loaders and several out-of-town operators were pressed into service by Marona and worked long into the night Friday to clear major thoroughfares and intersections.

In commenting on the unusual service provided by Marona, the construction firm presently employed by the Dallas Area Municipal Authority, James Sturgeon—a representative of that firm—stated that "since people are good enough to put up with us in bad times, we figure we should do everything we can to help them out when the going gets rough."

The roadworkers in each of the three communities where Marona employees labored agreed that the going would have gotten a lot rougher but for their help.

Dental Services for Low-Income Families

On Dec. 15, the Rural Health Corporation will initiate the delivery of dental services to rural, low-income families residing in the Harveys Lake-Noxen Service Area. A three unit dental trailer facility is now being installed in Noxen adjacent to the Harveys Lake-Noxen Center.

Along with providing dental services the corporation will also begin a Dental Aide Training Program. Three rural residents will be trained as dental aides. The aides will receive three months of intensive on-the-job training and lectures followed by nine months of on-the-job experience. All of the training will be conducted at the Harveys Lake-Noxen Dental Unit. Robert Goulstone, D.M.D., will be in charge of the corporation Dental Service Program and Dental Aide Training Program.

The Rural Health Corporation main office is at 116 South Main Street, Wilkes-Barre. Louis D. Coccodrilli, is corporation administrator and Lester M. Saldman, M.D., is corporation medical director.

Jackson Twp.

by Millie Hogoboom

This Thanksgiving will go down in the record books as one of the most unusual ones we, of this community, can ever remember. To think that we could have 24 official (30 to 36 unofficial) inches of snow on the 25th of November is incredible. And this says nothing of the havoc wrought by such wet, heavy snow. Many of our neighbors were without electricity for many hours. More Thanksgiving dinners had to be cancelled or postponed than were held. But it seems we can be proud that there are still many of our neighbors with a little of the true pioneer spirit left. In Fieldcrest Mary Ann and Owen Williams, Helen and James Diction, and Janet and Conrad Griffith pooled together their resources including a 20 pound turkey which had to be roasted on top of a gas stove. While the women toiled at producing a dinner worthy of the pilgrims, their children played games together and the men folk played cards. When Mr. Tom was done to perfection the three families dined by candlelight.

For Mary and Joseph Emerick of Chase Road it was the first time they had spent Thanksgiving at home alone and they really enjoyed it. Mary has a number of brothers and sisters whom they usually visit on such holidays. In fact they had planned to go to Rahway, N.J. for a family get-together.

The bravest pioneers we have heard of were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pauletti and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilkes of Chase Manor who shovelled a path to Briarwood Terrace to have Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilkes.

John and Pauline Littleford of Chase Manor had unexpected company Wednesday night when their son and his family, the Clyde Littlefords, became snowbound at their house and had to spend the night. They were able to return to their home on the San Souci Highway in Hanover township Thursday night but it took them four hours to make the trip.

The Austin Howards of Sutton Road were much more fortunate than most. Their daughter, Karen of Bethesda, Md., and their son and his family, Dick and Ann and daughters Jennifer and Lisa of Knoxville, Tenn., arrived just ahead of the big storm. Only their son, Ward and Carol and children of Split Rock were unable to make the happy holiday gathering. On Saturday Granddad Howard had the fun of introducing his young granddaughters to Santa Claus himself.

Doris and Bob Maturi of Sutton Road just took the line of least resistance and postponed their family dinner to Friday night. With them for the happy but delayed occasion were Michael Black, Gertrude Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Black, all of Wilkes-Barre, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Maturi and children, Michael and Laurie of Dallas.

Johanna and Gary Miller were happy to have a Franklin stove in the family room of their new all electric home when the power failed. Old Ben sure knew his business when it came to designing a good stove. Fortunately for the Millers, they were able to get to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Laskowski, for the traditional dinner (prepared on a gas stove, of course).

Sally and Tom Healy of Chase Road spent more than a few anxious moments Thursday wondering as to the whereabouts of her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Remphrey and three children of Long Island. The Remphreys were bringing a roasted turkey with them for dinner and had left New York not realizing how bad the storm was here. In the meantime the Healys had to make do with Spam sandwiches and worry. But they had a happy ending when the travelers arrived at 6 p.m. in time for a late but thankful dinner.

Now with Thanksgiving a thing of the past, we can begin to look forward to the Christmas festivities. The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Duncan of Huntsville Corners have acquired a reputation for giving lovely parties at this time of year. They have chosen Dec. 9 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. to entertain the members of the congregation of the Huntsville Christian Church and other friends at an open house at the parsonage. Members of the board of the church will assist them.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Jackson Township Fire Company will hold its annual Christmas party Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. at the fire hall. Dollar gifts will be exchanged. Lillian Jamgochian of Penn State Extension will give a show-and-tell session on Christmas decorations, especially decorating with food for children. At the November meeting of the Auxiliary the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Irene Shaffer; Vice President, Mary Emerick; Secretary, Mary Laskowski; and treasurer, Louise Lamoreaux.

Tax Claim Forms Ready After Dec. 11

Kingston Township tax collector Vern Pritchard has been informed by the Property Tax Assistance Bureau that tax collectors will be used to distribute assistance claim forms for all eligible people. Property taxes must be paid before applying. Claim forms can be picked up in the tax office after Dec. 11.

There are three groups of taxpayers who are eligible for this assistance: Persons 65 years of age or older; widows 50 years of age or older, and disabled persons.

Claim forms will be sent to people who applied to the county, but anyone who did not apply can pick them up at the tax office.

The tax collector also would like to remind those who have not yet paid their 1971 taxes that Dec. 20 will be the last day to pay them to the tax collector. After that date, land returns will be turned over to the county for collection. An extra penalty will be assessed on all taxes paid at the court house. Per capita taxes will be turned over to the delinquent collector.

Dec. 15 The ladies auxiliary to the Nuangola Fire Co. will hold their annual Christmas party Dec. 15, at 6 p.m. at the fire hall. Dollar gifts will be exchanged. Reservations may be made by calling Ruth Swithers, Dot Colestock or Bernice Rule before Dec. 11.

Dec. 12 St. Jude's Holy Name Society will hold the annual Christmas Party for the children of Mountaintop Dec. 12, in the school hall. Party will be under the chairmanship of Allan Bayley and Dr. Carl Titlebaum.

The Rev. Edward Nolan, pastor, and Leonard Golda, president of the Holy Name Society, are honorary chairmen. Event will include an appearance by Santa Claus and group singing, with accompaniment by a popular band.

Dec. 19 The Ladies Auxillary of the Nuangola Fire Co. will hold their annual Christmas party for the children of members of the auxiliary and firemen Dec. 19 at 6 p.m. at the fire hall. All children, including 10-year-olds must have a reservation. Reservations may be made by calling Marlene Morgan, Helen Tredennick, or Ruth Ambosie. Deadline for reservations is Dec. 11.

Dec. 12 St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold a family Christmas dinner Dec. 12 at 5:30 p.m.

Dec. 15 The Woman's Club will sponsor the White Haven State School birthday and Christmas party Dec. 15. Group will leave the Crestwood High School at 6:25. Drivers are needed.
