the administrative representatives of the local campus of Penn. State. The program will be federally funded through the Governor's Justice Committee through the auspices of Harry E. Russ Jr., director of central region.

Preliminary steps in this innovative surveying program for qualified residents of the local correctional institution were begun June 16, 1971, in an exploratory meeting with George W. Bierly, campus director; Charles Meck, John Kolesar, Frank Johnston, former institution superintendent; Dr. Harry Snyder and Norman Friend, representatives from Harrisburg.

Following a series of meetings and hours of investigative study, a proposal was submitted by the administration of the Wilkes-Barre Campus for Phase I of the surveying program. The program, requiring 320 hours of class and field work on the part of participating residents, when successfully completed will enable these men to accept positions in the field of surveying upon completion of their sentence.

This initial course will include the necessary theory and practicum to enable the students to qualify as rodmen, chainmen or instrument men in the field of surveying. Successful completion of the Phase I program will also qualify the men to enroll in credit courses for an associate degree in surveying.

Following announcement of the university program within the institution, more than 40 residents applied for admission to the course. Thomas J. Figmik, senior psychologist, working closely with Professor Kolesar, carefully screened and evaluated the applicants in selecting the 26 residents able to meet the minimum requirements necessary to participate in the university program.

In an interview with Leonard J. Mack he said, "This is an explosive thrust forward in our treatment program at the institution and here at Dallas, we are delighted with this direction and plan to explore similar opportunities to the utmost. I hope that this is only the beginning and that in the near future we will be able to offer more educational opportunities to all our residents who desire and are able to participate. We will welcome all educational institutions who wish to offer development opportunities for these men."

Both Mr. Bierly and Mr. Meck, administrators at Wilkes-Barre Campus, expressed their enthusiasm over the beginning of the pilot surveying program. Mr. Bierly stated that the ever-increasing growth in real estate development and fewer graduate engineers entering the surveying field has created a nationwide shortage in this area. "I firmly believe", said Mr. Bierly, "that this service to the institution by the Wilkes-Barre Campus can aid in the readjustment to life by these residents in providing new, rewarding careers needed by our society."

Classes will average six hours weekly for the entire year and will include a two week summer camp to enable the students to do actual field work. Mr. Kolesar will serve as coordinator of the program assisted by John R. Hychko and Lee A. Sweinberg. Paul Menapace, business manager at state correctional institution, has assisted in setting up business and financial records as well as in the purchasing and storage of necessary equipment.

Reorganization for Jackson Township

The Jackson Township Supervisors met Jan. 3 for the purpose of reorganizing the board for the coming year. At this time they elected Frank Elenchik chairman of the board. His co-chairman will be Harold Bertram and Henry Zbick will continue to serve as secretary-treasurer of the board. Chief of Police Robert Cooper; Assistant Chief Don Jones, and Patrolman Andy Kasko were retained for the coming year and were given salary increases of $10 monthly. Harold Bertram will continue to serve as road foreman and his new assistant will be Henry Zbick. It was agreed to give the road foreman and all other road workers a straight 5 percent increase in their hourly wages. Two inspections of the township roads are to be made each year for which the inspectors will receive $6 per inspection.

Bob Culp will again be the zoning officer, for which he is paid a monthly salary of $30 and receives $20 for each inspection he makes. Durwood Splitt, whose three-year term as a member of the zoning-hearing board had expired, was re-elected to that board.

Atty. Tom Roberts was retained as solicitor of the township at an annual salary of $200. Berkheimer and Associates will continue to collect delinquent taxes and the Luzerne National Bank will again serve as depository for the township funds.

Although no financial report was made at this time, Bob Allardyce asked the treasurer for an estimate of the financial condition of the township and was told that there probably is a surplus of about $3,500 for the year just ended. The next meeting of the supervisors will be at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 8 at the fire hall.
