Symphonic Band Twirlers To Be Featured in Concert

Small flag twirlers of the Lake-Lehman High School symphonic band will make an appearance at the annual concert to be held at the high school April 26 and 27.

Frank Wilczewski, concert chairman, announced that this year a new feature in ticket sales has been inaugurated in that Friday night will be "Premiere Night" with only reserved seats being available on a first come, first served basis. Each band member will be given four tickets for sale to family and friends. Each person holding a ticket will be assured of a seat. No tickets will be sold at the door.

On Saturday night, tickets will be general admission and available from band members, by calling the high school, or contacting Mr. Wilczewski. Among those featured besides the small flag twirlers will be the color guard, large flag twirlers and baton twirlers. The program will be an outstanding one. John Miliuskas is director.

Band Sponsors will conduct a bake sale both nights with Mrs. Michael Houssock as chairman. She asks that all mothers of Cadet and Varsity band members bake and send items to the school.

Idetown Firemen Plan Fire Drill

The Jonathan R. Davis Fire Company of Idetown has scheduled a fire drill April 21 from 1 to 5 p.m.

All members are asked to attend.

Combined Choruses Offer Concert at Wilkes College

Popular, folk and classic music will be presented by the combined choruses of the University of Virginia and Carlow College April 19 at 8 p.m. at Wilkes College Center of Performing Arts.

The free concert is sponsored by the Wilkes-Barre Kiwanis Club as a public service gift to the Wyoming Valley and coordinated with the Wilkes Community Effort, a project of Wilkes College.

These two college Glee Clubs are making Wilkes-Barre their second stop in a concert tour which will culminate in New York City April 21. The University of Virginia Glee Club has 55 male voices, while Carlow College has 50 young women in its singing group.

Tickets are available from any member of the Kiwanis Club or Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Wilkes College, 165 S. Franklin St., Wilkes-Barre, or telephone 824-4651 (Extension 339).

The Rev. Kenneth McCrea, Wilkes-Barre, is concert chairman for the Kiwanis Club. Ronald Simms is Kiwanis president.

The University of Virginia Men's Glee Club will be conducted by James Dearing, who holds a masters degree from the University of Wisconsin where he studies with Otto-Werner Muehler and Robert Fountain. He has been assistant conductor to the Seventh U.S. Army Soldier's Chorus in Germany and presently conducts two other choral groups at the university. He has been asked by the U.S. State Department to tour the Soviet Union this summer as tenor soloist for the Robert Wagner Choral.

The University of Virginia Glee Clubs are well accustomed to touring. Since its founding in 1875, the Glee Club has toured the country and two years ago made its first international appearances in Italy and Central Europe during a 17-day tour. Next year the Glee Club will tour Greece and Eastern Europe.

Director of the Carlow College singers is John R. Livey, chairman of Carlow's music department. He has studied at Juliard School of Music, Union Seminary, Columbia and Harvard. He is a noted organist. His group has toured all major population areas in the U.S. Carlow College is the former Mt. Mercy College of Pittsburgh.

The concert program to be presented before the Wilkes-Barre audience includes the original version of the Dvorak Mass in D major. Also included are several Psalms set in a new multidimensional style by the contemporary composer Edmund Najera.

Last week I began the travail of spring housecleaning. This happens to be my 39th such session. So I have made some interesting psychological deductions. Almost all housewives fall into one of two basic categories of home management. The first group keeps their homes presentable at all times. There is no clutter, no stacks of dirty dishes, no unmade beds. They could serve tea to the Queen of England on a moment's notice. Although the Queen's tea cup may be a bit dusty, I call them "surface cleaners." Heaven forbid that you should ever peer under the bed, in a drawer, or into the unused vase on the desk. If they ever houseclean, it is on the surface only.

The opposite category, and the one I personally seem to fit, is the one I call the "slow but sure cleaners." Twice a week we like to clean everything thoroughly and twice a year we like to reorganize all the drawers, wax floors, wash curtains, and polish silver. In between we may have some embarrassing moments: discarded clothes waiting for the rummage sale piled high on the guest bed; stacks of books waiting to be placed on their proper shelf; and a basket of clothes from the line waiting to be folded and put away. But the Queen's tea would be served on a shiny silver tray and her white gloves would never touch a smidgen of dust.

Regardless of which category it does seem to me that most women do derive some satisfaction from their household chores—women's libbers notwithstanding. There is that soul-searching sense of accomplishment when you have discarded all that "don't want," "can't use," "out of date" clutter. Just to know where your postage stamps are, where to find all the road maps, and how many pairs of socks in your son's drawer is such a comforting feeling. Besides you gain a certain amount of admiration from your husband for having done all those back-breaking chores and your children temporarily make an effort to keep your clean floors clean. It may be the original exorcism.

So if you too are in the throes of housecleaning, take heart in the satisfaction of your accomplishments. Then begin to decide what you can live without. Conveniently, the Jackson Township Women's Auxiliary of the Fire Company have arranged to have a rummage sale at the fire hall May 9 and 10. They would like to sell all the used dishes, jewelry, good clothing, small pieces of furniture, odds and ends you can bring yourself to get rid of. If you can not deliver your donations, they will be glad to arrange for pick up service. The officers: Meryl Wagner, president; Caroline Esser, vice president; Grace Fielding, treasurer; and Mary Laskowski, secretary.

Gary N. Harrison

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Harrison, RD 1, Dallas, announce the birth of their first child, a son, Gary Nelson, March 17 at General Hospital.

Mrs. Harrison is the former Judy Misson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Misson, Shavertown. Mr. Harrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harrison, Dallas.

Nothing is really work unless you would rather be doing something else.

—Sir James Barrie

Mrs. Jones is the former Jane Snowdon. They are the parents of two sons, Ben IV, a third grade student at Wyoming Seminary Day School, and Dylan, age 2 1/2 years. Their puppy, Caleb, a Welsh Corgi, is also getting acquainted in his new home.

Austin and Jane Howard, Sutton Road, have just returned from a month's vacation in Ochos Rios, Jamaica, where they especially enjoyed playing golf and sunbathing.

Josephine Radonavitch, Chase Road, recently returned from an interesting motor trip to California. Highlight of her trip was a visit to Disneyland.

Peggy and Bob Weaver, Sutton Road, are sporting beautiful tans collected during their extended vacation south of the border. They spent two weeks in Ochos Rios, Jamaica, before flying to Barbados to visit Peggy's brother-in-law and sister, John and Marion Ferebach, former Back Mountain residents. Then they spent a few days with Ruth and Ray Turner in Marco Island, Fla., before concluding their vacation with a visit to their son-in-law, daughter, and nine-month old granddaughter, Jim, Gwen and Trina Van Landingham, in Satellite Beach, Fla.

Durbin Class Sponsors Tea

The Durbin Class of the Dallas United Methodist Church is planning its annual spring tea which will be held April 23 at 8 p.m. in the church social rooms.

Spring flowers will be used on the tea tables and the program will consist of a fashion show prepared by the Infinity Shop, Dallas. A musical program will be announced at a later date.

Bette Dixon, chairman of the affair, will be assisted by the following class members: tables, Louise Hess, Jean Miers, and Imogene Slocum; program, Helen Eggleston; tickets, Alice Brown and Shirley Goode; plants, Rae Taylor; refreshments, Harriet Miller and Mrs. Paul LaBar, and publicity, Mary Morr and Louise Colwell.

Tickets can be purchased from any class member or at the door.
