'Auction 44' Volunteers Soliciting Contributions

Public television's auction at the WVIA Channel 44 studios is only as good as the merchandise and services it offers the bidding viewers.

This year's fifth annual "Auction 44," June 10-15, has hundreds of volunteers who are now visiting area merchants, business and industry in quest of auction merchandise donations. Last year's auction raised $58,288. The 44 "go-getters" hope to surpass that figure but need more merchandise contributions to write auction success. All funds raised are used for WVIA public TV and FM radio operations.

All merchandise donated to "Auction 44" is tax deductible. In addition, merchants receive television exposure for their goods and products during the six nights of "Auction 44" telecasting. A telephone call to Channel 44 at 655-4561 will bring an auction "go-getter" to Mr. business or industry to pick up their merchandise donations.

This year's auction will have 20 telephones, giving the bidders at home an opportunity to telephone toll-free to auction headquarters their bids on merchandise on the auction boards.

As a special to this year's auction, an arts and antiques exclusive auction will be telecast, June 9, starting at 1 p.m. for those interested in the arts. All arts and antiques may be seen during a public exhibit June 9 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Channel 44 studios. Two citizens of Honesdale have joined the arts and antiques "go-getters" committee. They are Mrs. Richard Van Horn, antiques, and Richard Frisch, arts.
