Sandy Kableschat

Sandy Kableschat Appears In Local TV Commercials

Viewers of television might recognize the Sandy of TV as Sandy Kableschat of 9 Birch Lane, Dallas, in local commercials. Sandy will also appear in television commercials this winter in Miami, where she attends the University of Miami.

As a fine arts and theatre major, Miss Kableschat is a dean's list student with a 3.97 average. She will be in her sophomore year this fall.

A dedicated student, Sandy, during her freshman year, had leading roles in the University of Miami's productions of "Barefoot in the Park" and "Chamber Music." She also was the stage manager for the university's production of "The Sound of Music."

This summer Sandy is attending the London Theatre Institute at Westfield College for extensive theatre study. In London, she will attend between 25 and 30 plays a week, besides visiting art galleries and museums, in order to see extensive collections of programs, costumes, scenery, and personal effects of great actors.

Field trips will include Stratford on Avon, to visit Shakespeare's birthplace and to see the live theatre there; Hampstead Court, the palace of Henry VIII, to see his famous banqueting hall theatre; the Roman Theatre ruins in North London; and the famous Abbey.

According to Hank Diers, chairman of the drama department at the University of Miami, on completion of this arduous program, the students are better versed in theatre than they might be as a result of formal classroom study. It is an exhausting program for the serious theatre student only.

Sandy is presently in Paris to study plays there.

Future plans for Sandy include graduate study in theatre arts. Upon conclusion of her studies, she would like to go into stage production.
