Dallas Township Supervisors Approve County Master Plan

Dallas Township Board of Supervisors approved the Luzerne County Master Plan for Waste Water at their meeting Monday night in the Township Municipal Building, Dallas. The plan had been submitted to the township last year for passage, but was rejected by Dallas Township until now.

Township solicitor Frank Townend presented a prepared amended resolution and reported that he and supervisor Glenn Howell had met with members of the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) July 26 to discuss the ordinance. Eugene Borofski, W. Gilbert, P. Fosko, Ron Ptashinski and Dennis Coyne represented DER. Atty. Townend noted that Dallas Township had written a letter to DER in September 1973, criticizing the ordinance, but had not received a reply.

Township supervisors objected to passing the ordinance because the township is a member of the Dallas Area Municipal Authority (DAMA) and they felt that there was no need to accept another plan. The township also objected to some of the provisions in the county ordinance.

DAMA contacted county representatives and the county agreed to adopt a plan to agree with the DAMA Master Sewer Plan with the exception of the time schedule. DAMA then wrote to the municipalities involved in the Back Mountain, namely Dallas Borough, Dallas Township and Kingston Township, and suggested that the County Master Plan be accepted. This was done by Dallas Borough and Kingston Township, but Dallas Township refused to approve the county plan.

At the July meeting of DAMA, it was noted that DER had refused to approve a plan for Fox Hollow, a housing development in Dallas Township, because Dallas Township had not approved the County Master Sewer Plan. DAMA had also attempted to assure the township supervisors at an earlier meeting that it was perfectly alright to approve the county plan, and DAMA was assured that some action would be taken soon. This was several months ago.

The meeting with DER representatives in July resulted in the final approval of the County Plan by Dallas Township supervisors.

Atty. Ben Jones III, representing C. Warren Koehl and Paul Schalm, owners of the Fox Hollow development, was present at Monday night's meeting and asked for some definite action, or a reasonable explanation of the whole affair. He was presented with a copy of the proposed amended ordinance and was also assured that the DER representatives agreed that the amendments would meet with the approval of the county.

Solicitor Townend noted that the approval by the supervisors was the first step and that the Dallas Township Zoning Hearing Board would have to approve the ordinance at their meeting scheduled for Aug. 19. The approved ordinance would then be sent to DER.

A preview of the latest fall fashions will be presented by Elaine's of Pittston for the benefit of all the dinner patrons at the Newberry Recreation Center Aug. 15 at 7:15 p.m. Marilyn Gauntlett's Modeling Agency will provide the appropriate pulchritude. This could be an interesting evening since we are hearing more and more from the dress industry and less and less about slacks and pants suits for women. Of course, there is a possible exception that knickers may be on their way back.

For the younger generation, the latest fad to make its mark locally is the bib overall. The unbleached white bib overall popularized by painters and plumbers is now the ultimate for the girls, while the blue denim farm overall or the blue and white stripe carpenter's overall is in more demand among male teenagers.

Speaking of teenagers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, Orchard West, had as their guest last week, Charlie's grandson, David Borland of Albion, Mich., who thoroughly enjoyed tennis and golfing at the Newberry Estate.

The Sadie Hawkins Mixed Doubles Round Robin July 28 proved to be a huge success. Sixteen teams entered the competition. The winners were Mrs. John Ruggles Jr. and Dr. William Russian.

Remember last week I was telling you about the cute three and four-year olds in our neighborhood? While I was typing that very column, those same darlings were drawing chalk pictures on the side of our house. At first I thought it was the older generation-seven and eight-year olds-because the drawings were quite good, but then George (not Washington, my son) said he and his friends did it.

After scrubbing it off, I commented to my husband about how really good the pictures were and he said "with all the art lessons, nursery school and library hour, those children had, it's a wonder they didn't paint the Last Supper."

The Batkas, Charlie, Eileen, Karen and Chuck, have returned from a week in cloudy Point Pleasant, N.J.

Birthday greetings to Jack Thompson who will celebrate a birthday Aug. 7. Jack, Elly said, "is 21 plus a lot, multiply, divide and subtract a little."

Sincere sympathy to Joseph Paglianite and family upon the death of his father, Anthony. Lehman Township Board of Supervisors will conduct a meeting August 12 at 8 p.m. at the Lehman Jackson Fire Hall. The most famous man in Oak Hill just has to be Fred Mitchell-former neighbor and still good friend. Every time he and his lovely family come for a visit, Oak Hill throws a "wing ding" of a party.

Lovely Karen Passarella, daughter of Mike and Irene of Pine Street, was guest of honor at a shower Sunday afternoon at the Kosy-K Restaurant. Many friends and neighbors were in attendance.

Jack and Mary Gesmundo are entertaining their son Joe and his family from Long Island, N.Y.

The Hosles, Fred, Julie and Wendy, have returned from a three-weeks vacation in beautiful Italy where they visited their son, Ronny, who is stationed in Giata with the U.S. Navy.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Andrusik is a surgical patient at Geisinger Medical Center in Danville.

There was wall-to-wall, ceiling-to-floor "Sweet" as the Oak Hill Civic Association enjoyed another great dance Saturday evening. Under, over, and through the chairmanship of "Legs" Iwanowski, the group danced to the music of "Chickie and The Revelations". Let me tell you when Chickie plays, you dance, unless you die somewhere along the way. I'll let you in on a little secret, Chickie has been contracted to play for a New Year's Eve dance that Gate of Heaven will sponsor. What a way to welcome in 1975!

Not all state civil service jobs require a written examination. For some jobs the "examination" may consist of an oral examination, a rating of the applicant's education and experience in his or her field, or a combination of these two.
