

Misericordia Players Start Dress Rehearsals

The Misericordia Players have started dress rehearsals in final preparation for their production of "Wild, Wilder, Wildest" this week, according to director Walter C.J. Andersen.

The evening of excerpts from Thornton Wilder plays will be presented at the college, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, in Walsh Auditorium. The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

The production features College Misericordia students but also includes two local high school students. Paul Gallagher, a Bishop O'Reilly Senior from Lake Street in Dallas will play the role of a singing waiter in the "Hello Dolly" finale, as will Tom Dunn, a Meyers High School Senior from Riverside Drive in Wilkes-Barre.

One of the featured players will be Conrad Gonzalez of Dallas. Mr. Gonzalez made his debut as a Misericordia Player last spring as the giant in "Jack and the Beanstalk." In "Wild, Wilder, Wildest," he appears as the stage manager in "Our Town," the stage manager in "The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton," Moe in "In-fancy," Horace Vandergelder in "The Matchmaker," and again as Horace in the "Hello Dolly" scene.

Assisting Mr. Andersen in the production will be Gene Garber, serving as technical director, and Rita-Jo Little, stage manager.

WV Ski Club to Present Annual Ski Fashion Show

Plans are being finalized for the annual Ski Fashion Show of the Wyoming Valley Ski Club to be held Nov. 17, at 2 p.m., in the Main Ballroom of Gus Genetti's, Wilkes-Barre. Fashions in ski wear from Jack Frost Ski Lodge, White Haven and Nazareth Sports Center will be featured. After-ski wear will be from Mr. Jon's Fashions in Wilkes-Barre.

Sherry Krumm of Jack Frost Ski Lodge will do the commentary for the ski wear. Barbara Scavone is general chairman of this year's show and Nancy Berly, co-chairman, will do the commentary for the after-ski wear.

Jay Christopher of WNEP-TV will be master of ceremonies and well-known individuals in the community have been selected to be judges for the Snow Queen Contest which will take place after the fashion show. Music will be provided by Slave for dancing later in the evening and refreshments will be available.

Tickets will be available at the door and the general public, as well as those interested in skiing, are invited to attend.

Music Review

Duo Piano and Four Hands

by Harry Trebitcox

Richard Chapline and Michael Haberkorn presented a program of music for one piano (four hands) and two pianos (still with four hands) last Sunday afternoon at Wilkes College Center for the Performing Arts. Normally I avoid this type of concert, operating on the theory that, like eating, it's more fun to do than to watch. Perhaps my enjoyment of the concert was due to the fact that I have stayed away from this type of program for so long. More to the point, I think I enjoyed it because it was extremely well thought out and well played.

By well thought out, I mean that the pieces did not follow each other in relentless order of composition in history. The program was Mozart (Classical) "Fantasia in F Minor, K. 594," "Schumann (Romantic) "Eight Pieces from Opus 85," Rachmaninoff (Romantic) "Slava," Bach (Baroque) "Four Selections," and Milhaud (Contemporary) "Scaramouche." It may look strange on paper, but it worked.

The Mozart dates from the end of the composer's career and is a basic slow-fast-slow piece. It served admirably to settle both performers and audience (an unusually large audience, too). The eight Schumann pieces sounded as though they were either written for or about children. (Schumann was fond of children as witness the size of his own family and compositions such as "Scenes of Childhood" and "Album for the Young.") They are short, all with titles suggesting children ("Birthday March," "Hiding," "Ghost Tale," etc.) and were delightfully played. Rachmaninoff's

"Slava" uses the same tune Mussorgsky used in the Coronation Scene of the opera "Boris Godounov." It made a fine clangorous ending for the first half of the program.

Of the four short works of Bach, I thought the best rapport was achieved in "Sheep May Safely Graze," but the entire group left nothing to be desired. The closing selection is a standard on the duo-piano circuit and it is a favorite of audiences. It is contemporary without being painful to the ear, very tricky in places, and closed the program brilliantly.

I neglected to say that the first half of the program consisted of both pianists at one piano; the second half of music for two pianos. It was an afternoon of pleasurable, at times quite exciting and at all times sensitive, music making. What better way to spend a Sunday afternoon?

Sally Harter to Head European School Trip

A group of local students are planning a school vacation trip to England and France.

Sally Harter, Westmoreland Hills, Trucksville, teacher in Dallas School District, has been appointed by the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS), Greenwich, Conn., to accompany a group of students on their tour. They will be visiting in London and then on to France to such places as Paris, Tours, St. Malo, Mont St. Michel and Versailles.

Miss Harter noted that there are places available in the group and interested students or their parents are invited to contact her for further information.

Cub Scout Pack 132 Plan Meeting, Nov. 20

Cub Scout Pack 132 will hold a pack meeting, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Trinity Presbyterian Church, Dallas. All interested boys who did not sign up for Cub Scouts or Webelos on School Night for Scouts will be able to do so at this pack meeting. Boys must be accompanied by a parent. Pack 132 has openings for both Cub Scouts and Webelos.

The highlight of the evening will be a Bobcat ceremony and awards presented to Cub Scouts and Webelos who are eligible for them.

Mrs. Walter Chappel, 57 Huntsville Road, Dallas, is the den leader coach for the pack and will be able to answer any questions new cubs may have regarding joining the pack.

All Cub Scouts and Webelos and their parents who are now present members of Pack 132 are requested to attend this meeting as important business concerning the pack will be discussed at this time.
