Exhibition Game-Concert Slated by King's College

Two events with international relevancy will take place in the King's College gym in Wilkes-Barre during the coming month. On Nov. 27, the King's College basketball team of Coach Ed Donohue plays an exhibition basketball game against the National Olympic Team of Czechoslovakia. A concert will be played by the Glenn Miller Orchestra in the gym the night of Dec. 15.

The concert is being sponsored by Radio Station WBRE in Wilkes-Barre to note the station's 50th anniversary. Glenn Miller, founder and leader of the famed orchestra, lost his life in the crash of a plane over the English Channel while with the Air Force during World War II.

Interest is building daily in Northeastern Pennsylvania for the basketball game between the Monarchs and the team from Europe. The Czechs opened their tour with a game at Marquette University, one of the nation's best college quintets in recent years. After games in the Midwest, they go to Louisiana and to Jacksonville, Fla., before coming north for games with Lehigh University in Bethlehem, La Salle in Philadelphia's Palestra, and the Turkey Eve meeting with King's.

Regarding the Dec. 15 Glenn Miller Orchestra concert in the King's gym, the program manager for WBRE Radio is Joe Gries, who handles the play-by-play broadcasts of all games on the King's court schedule, home and away. Glenn Miller's Orchestra was a favorite of fans in the hard coal regions in the World War II era and fan clubs keep interest in the big band alive today.

A native of Iowa, Mr. Miller was an athlete and played football, basketball, and baseball in his home state before making it big in the band business.

Coach Donohue stated: "King's College is proud to be closely connected with these two fine promotions of the game with Czechoslovakia and the WBRE anniversary concert featuring the great Glenn Miller Orchestra. We are certain that sports and music fans of northeastern Pennsylvania will come to the King's gym Nov. 27 and Dec. 15 to attend both attractions."

Harvest Square Dance

Attended By Hundreds

The "Harvest Square Dance" recently held by the Gate of Heaven Parent-Teachers Guild was a notable success, attended by hundreds.

Amidst a bright array of brightly colored shirts and western-style scarves, guests do-si-do'd and circled left throughout the evening, led by the popular local square-dance caller "Red" Jones, who sent the country spirit ringing through the crowded dance floor, and did a splendid job in doing so.

Mrs. John Luksic chaired the affair and everyone attending enjoyed a really "down-home" evening.

2 Misericordia Seniors Will Present Art Show

College Misericordia senior art majors Kathi Bovine and Jessica Lewis will conduct an art exhibit at the college from Nov. 22 through Nov. 25.

This promises to be a most interesting and informative program and all parents are invited to attend.

Plan Reunion, Nov. 30

Middle States Assoc. Gives Seminary Positive Evaluation

A visiting committee of evaluators from the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools have recently left Wyoming Seminary, following the reading of a "very positive report," according to Robert Klarsch, the Kingston prep school's academic dean. The committee of 15 spent four days on the West Side campus evaluating the school on its performance and capacities in 19 specific areas, which include academic, philosophic, environmental and personnel categories.

Mr. Klarsch noted that "the quality of teaching at Seminary was reported back in superlatives" in the visiting committee chairman's initial report. The academic dean also reports that the majority of recommendations made to Seminary are identical to those school representatives included in a self-evaluation report that preceded the visiting evaluation.

The self-evaluation, made through the last academic year, saw all Seminary faculty members, plus some parents, students and trustees, grade the institution in the same 19 areas that the visiting committee considered.

The visiting group of evaluators, made up of Pennsylvania school teachers, a librarian and a guidance representative, was chaired by Elmo W. Powell Jr., coordinator of capital improvements, Somerset County board of education, Princess Ann, Md.

The Middle States Association, which is a co-operative of member schools and colleges formed for the purpose of self-improvement, appoints evaluators from candidates submitted by those member institutions.

Annual Turkey Party

Set at Gate of Heaven

The Holy Name Society of Gate of Heaven Church will hold its annual Thanksgiving Turkey Party, Nov. 23. Twenty turkeys plus cash prizes will be awarded. William Kalinowski is chairman of the event.

A final report from the Middle States Association will arrive at Wyoming Seminary within six to eight weeks. It will take the form of commendations and recommendations.

Seminary, which is presently accredited by the Middle States Association, will be easily re-accredited following the recent visitation, according to Dean Klarsch.
