department, under the direction of Mrs. Marietta Gay and Mrs. Jennie Krogulski recently held a panel seminar on home economics careers for all the eighth grade classes. This panel presentation was videotaped for use in all home economics classes

On the panel were Jean Sodrosky, Kingston, of East Stroudsburg State College who spoke on careers in physical education and how they relate to home economics; Brady Frank, Philadelphia, of College Misericordia who spoke on careers in food and nutrition; Karen Welsh, Garden City, N.Y. of College Misericordia who spoke on careers in merchandising; Patricia Leitgeb, Long Island, N.Y.

of College Misericordia who spoke on careers in art and how they relate to the field of economics; and Frances Donovan, Dumont, N.J., of College Misericordia who spoke on careers in home

The panelists discussed the courses needed in high school and college, their reasons for choosing their respective careers, the job requirements, job conditions, and out-look for employment.

They also discussed careers related to their particular fields, alternatives for employment, and utilizing your career through part-time employment and volunteerism. Following the panel presentation, students were encouraged to ask questions.
