SHAVERTOWN

Former Shavertown resident inducted to sports hall

Former Shavertown resident John C. Youngblood was inducted into the Arlington, Va., Sports Hall of Fame in ceremonies during the 21st annual Better Sports Banquet Nov. 9.

Youngblood, a native of Shavertown and graduate of Kingston Twp. High School, presently serves as assistant principal in charge of health, physical education, driver education and athletic programs at Washington-Lee High School in Arlington.

Youngblood began his coaching in Arlington at Stratford Junior High in 1952 and has been honored by athletic bodies on a state, local and national level for his performance.

In 1975-76, he was named Virginia Athletic School League Distinctive Service Award.

The Better Sports Club also awarded Youngblood Coach Achievement Awards in 1960 and 1963 and the 1971 Sportsman of the Year Award.

During his years as a coach at Stratford, Youngblood worked with softball and football. He advanced to Washington-Lee in 1956 where he took over coaching in wrestling, track and football.

In six years as the Washington-Lee varsity football coach, his teams won three Northern Virginia Championships and one state championship.

At the honor banquet, the keynote speaker was William (Bill) Dudley, a member of both the Professional Football Hall of Fame and the National Collegiate Hall of Fame. Members of the NFL's Washington Redskins--

Jake Scott, Ken Houston and Ron Saul were also in attendance at the banquet.
