Taxpayers, Asphalt plan suits

The Jackson Township Zoning Ordinance adopted last month remains a controversial issue. Both American Asphalt Paving Company, Chase, and Conerned Taxpayers of Jackson Township are proceeding with legal action against the board of supervisors.

At a meeting of the Concerned Taxpayers on February 27. organization voted to institute legal proceedings against the board to repeal the ordinance. Most members of this group feel that the former zoning ordinance was sufficient for the needs of Jackson Township. Attorney Charles Gelso represents Concerned Citizens.

According to president Paul Sanholtz, a membership drive is now underway. To date 340 residents have signed a petition opposing the ordinance. Sanholtz urged these and any other township residents interested in this legal action to join Concerned Taxpayers. Membership fee is $12 per year.

For membership contact Paul Sanholtz, 696-3533; Bob Cooper, 696-2323, Marty Conrad, 696-2843; or Debbie Higgins, 675-0538.

According to Bernard Banks of American Asphalt Paving Company his attorney is researching issues to prepare 'procedural and substantive' appeals. Attorney Fred Alcaro represents American.

Representatives of the asphalt company have previously stated in public meetings that they believe the new ordinance is 'confiscatory' because it denies them mining access to land they own mining rights to.

NICE BACKYARD--People living along the water side of River St. in Forty Fort face this situation yearly in flood season. Located at a sharp bend in the Susquehanna River, the dike there has a chronic slippage problem. Visible is the gradually collapsing dike wall, while nearby is a large dip in the dike level. Water was running high in the area this week. (Photo by Tom Mooney)

Jackson reports 16 wrecks in February

According to a report by Solicitor Blythe Evans, Jr. at Monday night's meeting of the Jackson Township Supervisors, PennDOT has been made aware of the severe icy conditions that have plagued residents driving on Legislative Routes 458 and 459 this winter.

Following the February supervisors meeting, Evans wrote a letter to PennDOT registering a complaint concerning these roads. Ice build-ups of eight to ten inches pose a hazard to any motorists using these heavily traveled roads.

During the month of February, 16 accidents occured in the township, all on these roads. Evans pointed out to PennDOT that eight school buses from the Lake-Lehman School District travel this road twice daily during the school term. Evans noted that this ice build up could cause a bus to turn over, perhaps causing injury

Evans also informed PennDOT that township resident John Wilkes had purchased three tons of modified stone at a cost of $23.14 which he put on one of the above mentioned roads to help improve the situation. Wilkes requested reimbursement from PennDOT for this expenditure.

A reply from Charles Mattei, PennDOT maintenance engineer, read by Evans blamed the problem on run-off from developments adjacent to the two routes. He claimed that PennDOT's drainage was sufficient for the roads and that it is the responsibility of the developer to provide adequate drainage.

The fact that a large grader is needed to cut through the ice is a problem since PennDOT has few large graders to service the county. Concerning Wilkes request for reimbursement, Mattei agreed that Wilkes served as a "Good Samaritan" but since he applied stone to the road without authorization from PennDOT, it would not be possible to reimburse the money. Mattei suggested a meeting between PennDOT and township officials to see if a permanent solution could be reached. Evans advised the board to authorize him to write a letter to PennDOT setting up a meeting date sometime in April.
