Chollack, Sherman to exhibit work

Diane Kleinfelder Chollack and Barbara Shaffer Sherman will be showing their works at Sue Hand's Imagery, 35 Main St., Dallas, from May 14-May 26. Both women enjoy watercolors and inks as their mediums of expression.

Diane Chollack is originally from the Ambler after her family moved to Harveys Lake, Diane studied art at College Misericordia. She graduated from LCCC with an Associate Degree in Commercial Art. A realist painter, Mrs. Chollack works in many mediums, but favors watercolors and pen and ink for most of her creations.

A commercial layout artist, Diane and her husband Chris live in Fairmount Springs where they own a farm. She enjoys the animals and her garden, sewing, biking, swimming and reading. Her family is also artistic.

Her mother is well known for her beautiful crafts; father Bill has done beautiful ink drawings and has a strong interest in photography and wood-working; and mother-in-law Claire Chollack is well-known in the area for her watercolor landscapes and florals.

Barbara Sherman is originally from Bailey Island, Maine. A chemist at Procter and Gamble, she does watercolors and ink drawings of the ocean, boats and coastal scenes with which she is so familiar, as well as inland rural landscapes.

Her ink drawings are much admired for their realistic textures and creative compositions. She worked summers during her college days as a boat draftsman at the Bath Iron Works. Barbara and her husband Carl own a home north of Tunkhannock.

Besides sharing their Maine backgrounds and careers as chemists, they both enjoy backpacking in the New England mountains. Mrs. Sherman also coaches competitive swimming in Tunkhannock. Energetic and outgoing, Mrs. Sherman's paintings show her love of life.

The public is invited to view the drawings and paintings of these two talented Imagery students during regular studio hours.

Back Mt. Alumni inducted into Sem Hall of Fame

Two Wyoming Seminary alumni and three former coaches will be inducted into the Varsity Club Sports Hall of Fame at ceremonies following a reception and dinner to be held Friday, May 18, at the Holiday Inn, Wilkes-Barre.

Those to be honored at this the sixth annual Hall of Fame gathering are John E. Morris, III, '58, Dallas; Cromwell E. Thomas, '29, Dallas.

With the additional five inductees, the membership in the Hall of Fame at this college prep school will be at 57.

John E. Morris, III, well-known local attorney, graduated from Wyoming Seminary in 1958. During his four years at this college prep school he made his greatest mark in the record books as a member of the swim team. He broke the school record in the 200 yard freestyle and 120 yard individual medley and finished third and fourth respectively in these events in the Colgate Prep School Championships. In 1958 he was voted the outstanding swimmer of the year. He was also a member of the football, track and tennis squads.

As a four-year varsity swimmer at Brown University he set many pool records and represented his college at both ASU and NCAA championships. He won the New England Swimming Championships in the 220 and 440 freestyle in 1960, 1961, and 1962.

He is still active in the workings of Wyoming Seminary having served as president of the school's Alumni Association and is now a permanent voting member of the council.

Cromwell E. Thomas '29, graduated from Wyoming Seminary in 1929 where he participated in football and was a member of the first wrestling team organized in Northeastern Pennsylvania. He was captain of the Seminary wrestling team in 1928-29. At Washington and Lee he continued wrestling and was undefeated in three years of varsity competition, two of those years he was Southern Conference champion in the 145-pound class.

After graduating from Washington and Lee in 1933 he taught and coached at the Severn School and was design engineer for the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. During the war years he served in the U.S. Air Force as a senior instructor and later as aviation officer in the U.S. Navy.

He joined the faculty of Wilkes College in 1946 and organized and coached the first wrestling teams at the college and was the leading instigator of what today is called the Rose Bowl of Wrestling at Wilkes College. As a professor engineering there, he later relinquished his coaching duties to the professional staff.

Robinson to aid UW giving

Thomas R. Robinson, Dallas, is chairing the Small Business Division in the 1979 United Way of Wyoming Valley campaign.

District plant engineer for Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, Robinson will be using the experience gained from his volunteer work as chairperson of the small business section in last year's UW campaign.

He is president of the advisory council of Livingrin Foundation in Bucks County. He is also a volunteer for Wyoming Valley Alcohol & Drug Services, Incorporated and a member of the Wilkes-Barre Rotary Club.

Robinson and his wife, Beverly, reside on Kingswood Drive. The couple has two children—Robert and Lisa.

Hettesheimers to celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hettesheimer, Beaumont, will observe their fifth wedding anniversary tomorrow. Couple was married May 18, 1974. Mrs. Hettesheimer is the former Miss Amelia Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wall of Beaumont.

Hettesheimer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hettesheimer of Noxen. He is associated with Procter and Gamble at its Mehoopany plant as a technician. Couple has a son, Bryan, four years of age.

BALLET DANCERS—Kristin Schleich and Martin McDonough, ballet dancers, will perform as guest soloists in the Wyoming Valley Ballet Society's program on May 22.

Schleich to appear as ballet soloist

Kristin Schleich, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Rudolf Schleich of Oak Hill, Dallas, will be one of five former Wilkes-Barre Ballet Theatre Company soloists returning home for a gala performance of dance to be presented by the Ballet Society of Wyoming Valley at the Wilkes College Darte Center for the Performing Arts on Tuesday evening, May 22.

Joining Ms. Schleich and her partner, Martin McDonough, will be Shari Garber of the Maryland Ballet, Nancy Rosensweig and Mark Taylor of Rosalind Newman & Dancers, Janice Latoszewski and Robert Arbogast of the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, and Melissa Podcasy and Jeffrey Gribler of the Pennsylvania Ballet.

Also performing will be members of the present Wilkes-Barre Ballet Theatre Company in pieces choreographed by Leslie Jane and Cassandra Crowley.

Ms. Schleich and McDonough, currently soloists with the American Dance Ensemble, will be performing the "Easy Winners" adagio, set to the music of Scott Joplin and choreographed by the ADE's Douglas Bentz.

Ms. Schleich has studied ballet for 13 years commencing with the Wilkes-Barre Ballet Theatre and including summer residency programs with the School of the Pennsylvania Ballet, the Eglevsky Ballet Co., the Melissa Hayden School and the NARB Choreographer's Craft Program.

During the 1977-78 season she performed with the Louisville Ballet Company. More recently she has performed regularly with the American Dance Ensemble while pursuing a full-time baccalaureate program in dance at Point Park College in Pittsburgh.

Locally, while still a student at Gate of Heaven School and Bishop O'Reilly High School, she performed in principal roles in the Nutcracker, Les Sylphides, Swan Lake, the Sleeping Beauty, Pas de Quatre, and Glazounov Variations.

Tickets for the impending May 22 performance may be secured in this vicinity at Evans Pharmacy in Shavertown as well as at numerous outlets in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston and, of course, at the box office just prior to the commencement of the ballet performance.
