Westmoreland holds annual play day

Every pupil and teacher of the Westmoreland Elementary School participated in the school's annual Play Day on May 27. The teachers ran 14 different events, including kickball, basketball throw, dodge ball, broad jump, dashes, relays, ball toss, horseshoes, bean bag toss, croquet, and ring toss games.

The students demonstrated the skills they learned in the physical education classes during the years.

Each pupil from kindergarten to fourth grade was member of an ungraded team, having the opportunity of making points for his team. The students participated in six events in the morning, had a picnic with bag lunch at noon, had a rest period, and participated in six events in the afternoon.

At 3 p.m. the teams' scores were tallied and each student of the winning team received a trophy. They then went to their rooms where they were treated to an orange drink, compliments of the P.T.O.

Play Days are organized and set-up by Mrs. Cleda Shelby, physical education instructor.

Zoo trip climaxes PTO

A busy year has come to an end for the Trucksville PTO. The organization through the leadership of its officers and the cooperation of parents, teachers, and children, has contributed not only to the school's physical environment, but also to the educational improvement of each of the students.

The Trucksville School Library was initiated this year with more than a thousand dollars worth of books purchased and processed for the children's use. Additional reference books and atlases are being ordered. The children may also contribute to their library by donating to the used book shelf.

The creation of a school newsletter enables the students to share their thoughts through pictures and verse. "Classroom Chatter", named by third grader Jennifer Bryant and compiled by Mrs. Pat Hofman, also kept the students informed about upcoming events.

Throughout the year the homeroom mothers provided an abundance of refreshments and enthusiasm at the holiday parties. The Halloween Parade and Christmas Pinatas were the highlights of the holiday celebration.

Shirt sales not only provided supplemental funding, but also helped children display pride in their school. The Campbell Label Campaign, coordinated by Mrs. Judy Price, provided an additional record player and several smaller classroom aids. Another on-going project was the purchase of Weekly Readers for each class.

The Faculty Room took on a fresh look as the PTO provided for the recovering of the sofa and chairs. The West Side Vocational Technical School supplied the re-upholstering skills. Cork strips which are used to display the children's work, are in the process of being purchased and installed.

Grades K through 4 were treated to a Marionette Show in May which not only provided entertainment, but also instruction on the inside workings of a marionette presentation. The Fourth Grade class was awarded a pizza party to be held in June for having the most parents in attendance at the PTO meetings during the year.

A trip to the Philadelphia Zoo climaxed the year. The children left at eight in the morning, spent the day at the zoo, and were provided with supper at MacDonalds.

SWIMMING
IS FUN...

Learn How to at the Wilkes-Barre YMCA

A great opportunity for your young non-swimmers is being provided by the greater Wilkes-Barre Family YMCA. Youngsters between the ages of 6 and 12 can learn the basics of swimming by joining the Y's five-day "Learn To Swim" program scheduled from June 16th thru 27th.

The program is open to boys and girls in the Wyoming Valley Area. The YMCA Program gets youthful non-swimmers started on the right foot by providing the most up-to-date teaching methods available. The youngsters won't be expert swimmers by the end of the week but they will know the fundamentals. And in the process they will discover what fun swimming can be.

The revolutionary Blueray systems offer remarkable heating oil savings. And you don't have to take our word for that.

Take the word of Brookhaven National Laboratory.

Brookhaven National Laboratory called Blueray "A significant piece of energy-saving hardware, utilizing mostly conventional components, commercialized as a result of the development work sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy's consumer product research and development program."

Their comment stems from the favorable result (.75 gallon/hr.) of preliminary boiler field tests, which show savings on an average of 38% over the course of a heating season when a Blueray boiler replaces boilers of types found in many homes.

The tests were run by Blueray for Brookhaven National Laboratory under contract with the U.S. Department of Energy.

Take the word of a man who services oil-burning heating units.

Frank Oakley of Monroe, NY said, "Soot accumulation is the greatest cause of inefficiency in oil furnaces. Blueray prevents that Problem."

Take the word of a couple who just replaced their boiler.

Mrs. Lawrence Woodworth of Huntington, NY, told us this story:

"With our old boiler we had to take seven-minute showers. Now with Blueray we can take them consecutively and run the water for half an hour. Bud even ran the dishwasher while I was in the shower and it made no difference."

Take the reports of the major media.

Some of the major Metropolitan newspapers in the Northeast have considered Blueray's energy-saving systems so important, they've devoted entire articles to Blueray.

If the thought of saving an average of 38% on your oil bills over the heating season intrigues you, find out more about the heating system that's caused such a fuss from your authorized Blueray dealer below:
