4 high schools make up All-Scholastic team

Players from four high schools make up the first Dallas Post All-Scholastic team, selected by the coaches of the four schools.

Schools represented are Lake-Lehman, Dallas, Bishop O'Reilly and West Side Tech. The last two schools were selected because of the large number of Back Mountain students who attend either Bishop O'Reilly or West Side Tech.

Each coach was asked to select four outstanding offensive players and four outstanding defensive players, as well as outstanding punter and place kicker.

Knights Coach Tom

Hisiro, Mounts Coach Ron Rybak, Titans Coach Bob Rogers and Queensmen Coach Bernie Popson selected the Back Mountain All-Scholastic Offense and All-Scholastic Defense teams which appear as well as the Specialty players.

Bishop O'Reilly named seven men to the teams with Dave Popson playing both ways as running back and defensive back. West Side Tech named eight with Bob Brockway named as quarterback and defensive back. Dallas had seven with Ron Kelley named as linebacker on defense and running back on offense. Lake-Lehman named only six with Tony Langston as tight end on offense and defensive end; Mike Leskowsky as running back on offense and linebacker on defense; and Dan Haeefe as wide receiver on offense and interior on defense. Titans John Boyer was named as punter and the Knights Mark Boyle as place kicker.

O'Reilly players named to the offense team in addition to Popson were Paul Matenus, Daniel Lewis, Stan Schuster. Named to the defense team were Ben Blanchard, Quentin Kraynack and Mike Jancuska.

West Side Tech players named on offense were Roger Gregory, Tom Duda, and Tony Orlando, in addition to Brockway. Named to the defense team were Matt Hornick, Rick Baines and Perry Coolbaugh.
