

One of the old homes located in the Dallas area but no one was able to identify to whom it belonged. The Post welcomes identification.

TROLLEY BUS--Immediately following the demise of the street car, trolley buses ran from Public Square, Wilkes-Barre, to Dallas and return. In those days, many passengers traveled by the trolley bus.

The Auburn above was owned by Sarah Sigler Rogers.

W.G. Moss raised homing pigeons in his barn in Trucksville and many of them are shown as they return home. The photo was taken in 1939.

Mrs. Williams and Belle Gross take their turn at practicing first aid on a patient in the early 1900 pre-natal classes held in Dallas. (Photo courtesy of Daniel Waters)

