Thrift Store to open in May

The Salvation Army will open a new Thrift Store in Shavertown on or about May 1. The new used-merchandise store will be located in the building formerly housing the Loudon Hill Dairy Farms store on the north side of Rt. 309 near the Shavertown Shopping Center. According to Lt. George Childs of the Wilkes-Barre Salvation Army office, the store will carry a large line of clothing, furniture, and household goods. It will be open 9-5, Monday through Thursday, as well as Saturday and 9-9 on Friday. It will be the seventh Thrift Store operated out of the Wilkes-Barre Center. Others are located in Wyoming, Edwardsville, Wilkes-Barre, Berwick, Bloomsburg and Hazleton.

Persons wishing to donate clothing for sale in the Thrift Store may leave the clothing in bags at the dropoff boxes in the Shavertown Shopping Center parking lot, in the parking lots of the Dallas Acme Market, or the IGA Market in the Dallas Shopping Center. Furniture may be donated by calling Lt. Childs at 823-4191 and requesting a truck for pickup. All donations are prepared by Salvation Army personnel before being put out for sale.

Lt. Childs said the Thrift Stores provide funds for support of the Salvation Army's residential centers such as the one on Hazle Street in Wilkes-Barre, which houses 40 men. The Salvation Army maintains an extensive program of personal rehabilitation.
