Bearde plans to continue coaching Knights

by Lee L. Richards
CLIPBOARD NOTES: Bob Moore informed me that while he was vacationing in Florida he became acquainted with an old chum of mine, Frank Massino, asst. grid coach at Temple. Bob was camping near Disney World and Frank had the next site. During the course of the conversation my name came up. Frank invited Bob down to see the Owls play this fall. I wouldn't put a lot of staling in the rumors circulating around the area regarding Lake-Lehman roundball coach Rodger Bearde moving on to Valley West. I discussed the matter with Coach Bearde and would bank on him remaining at the helm of the Black Knights for the coming season. He led the Knights to their best season ever last year. Several sources have informed me he's put together a pretty solid five in the summer loop. One of the hardest working players is Joe Kishkill. Stunned is the best way to describe how I felt last week when Clarion asst. mat coach Jack Davis called to inform me Auburn recently dropped its wrestling program. Auburn has some talented youngsters and finished in the top 10 in the recent NCAA championships. Then to up a drop the sport. Wow! Meanwhile, Lake-Lehman's Darren Barbacci, who wrestled at 105 pounds, will continue his mat career at Franklin & Marshall. He'll be wrestling for a good friend of mine, Coach Mark Faller, who won two New York State team titles while coaching at Port Jervis High School. Mark is an exceptional young man and I'm sure Darren will enjoy learning from him. It's only a matter of time before the eagles insert former Pitt line-backer Al Chesley in the starting lineup. All-Pro Billy Bergy is still limping and not getting any younger. Chesley is a player with a heap of ability. Eagles got a steal when they got him late (11th) in 1980 draft. He's a real crusher. Keep an eye on this youngster. Bob Kopp claims he didn't want to brag to me but he recently eagled No. 8 at Irem. Also, Tom Reese said he recently toured the Irem links with Dan Federici who cruised to a smooth one under par 71. Without a doubt Irem Pro Barry Fies has organized and run the finest Potentate's Golf Tournament that I've ever competed in. It was class from the time you walked to the first tee. Barry and his wife Sherry presented each member of the championship flight (16 teams) with a sleeve of three brand new golf balls as a reward for making the top of the heap. For the second year in a row my pal Rob Rundle managed to sneak in with a one over par 73. I was a mite surprised to learn that Penn State's All-East defensive end, Larry Kubin, passed up his final season and signed with the Washington Redskins. Kubin was perhaps the best defender returning in the East this season and drew some pre-season All-American raves. Fox Hill's Carlyle Robinson has to be one of the better amateur golfers in this area. He put some red numbers up on the board in Friday's qualifying round at Irem by canning a bird on No. 1, then blasting out of the trap on No. 2 for an eagle. He and Bill Yoh tied for medalist laurels. Robinson also canned a wedge for an eagle on the fifth hole which gave him two for the weekend. Meyers QB Barry Waseleski proved what I've been saying all along that he is a major college prospect. In the All-State game at Hershey on Saturday he connected on 8-of-11 for over 150 yards and led the East team to one of its only scores. It was a good experience playing in the game. I got to meet a lot of people and different players. All three of the players from the Wyoming Valley Conference did their share, Barry said Sunday night. Lake-Lehman's Mike Leskowsky and Greg Golonawski of Nanticoke Area performed well for the East. West won the game, 17-14. It was good to see Pro football back on the tube Saturday. The Browns topped the Falcons in the annual Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio. It was quite amusing that Howard 'The Mouth' Cosell didn't recognize the ability of QB Paul McDonald. He's the guy that brought USC back in the closing seconds a couple of years ago to beat Notre Dame. He's potentially a splendid thrower. It's obvious 'The Mouth' knows zilch when it comes to college football. ESPN, the all sports TV network, has some splendid college grid games on tap for September. Labor Day weekend they'll air Tennessee-Georgia and three other tilts. Meanwhile, over the weekend they conducted a most interesting poll regarding the baseball strike. They asked the fans if the strike would curtail their attendance in the future? Results showed the fans would be reluctant to attend. In other words, could care less about the remainder of the season. We'll see how long that lasts. My congratulations to good buddies Ed Rome and Bob Nafus on winning the Potentate's championship flight Sunday at Irem. It was a battle royal right down to the wire with Rome sinking a birdie on the 18th hole to seal the victory. Wally Kuharchik and Ron Pieczynski are two splendid players with all of the shots. It was one of the more exciting finishes in recent years. Both teams sure played superb golf. When the pressure is on Ed usually finds a way to come through.

WV women's soccer club wins 2-1

One of the 'important' games to decide a playoff spot in the Pocono Area Soccer League will be played at the former Larksville High School field on Wednesday, August 12, when the West Side team meets Pittston Area. Pittston is managed this year by John McCafferty of Carverton while Chuck

Wilson, coach of the Wyoming Valley West soccer team, is coach of the West Side squad, which includes the Tseolis brothers along with other area players. McCafferty's Pittston squad has two more regular season games to play. On Sunday, August 9, the team goes against the playoff sot bidding team of Hazleton on the latter's field, and playoff hopes for both teams will be riding on that game. Pittston goes into another 'do or die' battle on Wednesday, September 12, when McCafferty's team meets Chuck Wilson's Wyoming Valley West Squad on the latter's field in Larksville.
