

Sinfonia da Camera presents first concert of season

The Sinfonia da Camera will present its first concert of the season Saturday, Oct. 3, 8:30 p.m. in the Walsh Auditorium, College Misericordia, Dallas. Tickets are available at the door.

Guest artist for the evening will be Kineko Okumura, violinist. She will perform the Orchestra Trio in C Major by J. Stamitz, "Suite" for Strings by Scarlatti, "Crisantemi" by Puccini, "Hueya" by Alberto Williams and the Violin Concerto in D Major by Paganini.

Okumura was born in Tokyo where she began an early musical career performing and demonstrating for students throughout Japan. As a Fullbright Scholar she studied in the United States making her debut at the Gardner Museum in Boston.

As a student at the Manhattan School of Music, Kineko was selected on three occasions to perform with the Manhattan Orchestra. After winning a prize at the Paganini International Competition she traveled in Italy appearing with the Sienna Chamber Orchestra. Also in Italy Okumura was selected from the Master Class of Franco Gulli to perform at the Grand Concert of the Accademia Chigiana. Her's was the only performance which was reviewed. The Sienna News said, "...she has confirmed brilliantly her natural artistic virtuosity. La Campanella was unusually satisfying, spontaneous and very coherent musically. Kineko Okumura is a graduate of the Julliard School where she studied with Oscar Shumsky. Currently she is a member of the Y Chamber Symphony and Gramercy String Quartet. Last summer the quartet was featured at the Virginia Festival for the performing arts. Miss Okumura also appeared as soloist with the festival orchestra.
