Penn State offering tax help

Penn State-Wilkes-Barre will continue to offer income tax assistance to taxpayers who have not yet filed their tax returns and are confused about filling out the necessary information to the IRS.

VITA, the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program is sponsored in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Business Administration students at PSU-Wilkes-Barre. The center will be located in Hayfield house, Room H-105. The VITA student volunteers were specially trained in basic returns preparation.

Tax preparation sessions will not be held on Tuesday, March 2, or March 9, due to the campus Spring break because students will not be available. VITA assistance, however, will resume operation on March 16 through April 6.

Noxen looking for turn around in community

By Mike Polk

Prominent civic leaders of Noxen Township are looking forward to a 'turn-around' in that community's progress following the demolition of the former Noxen Tannery. The Tannery, closed since 1953, is a group of dilapidated buildings that has been a 'community blight' the last two decades.

Demolition is tentatively scheduled to begin next month.

Representatives of 15 northeastern Pennsylvania firms have shown interest in acquiring the demolition contract since the authority advertised last month for bidders. A pre-ward conference was held last Tuesday in Tunkhannock and the authority expects to receive in the neighborhood of 10 actual proposals for the demolition.

Proposals on the cost of the demolition will be opened in the Wyoming County Redevelopment and Housing Authority offices on Route 309, Eaton Township, Friday morning at 11.

Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has awarded the Wyoming County Redevelopment Authority a grant of $50,000 for the tannery's demolition. Raising the tannery has been a top priority for the Wyoming County Redevelopment Authority for more than a year because the Housing Authority plans to construct a low-to-moderate housing project on a portion of the site when the demolition is completed.

According to plans discussed at last week's meeting of the Wyoming County Authority, were tentative plans for the housing project presented by Thomas Kearns of Von Storch & Kearns, an architectural firm of Clarks Summit, for a 16-unit apartment building. The Clarks Summit firm is designing the housing project. Proposal submitted by Kearns includes nine two-bedroom apartments, six three-bedroom apartments and a two-bedroom apartment to accommodate physically handicapped residents.

Some elements of the Kearns' proposal on construction materials to be used were questioned and the architectural firm agreed to reconsider those parts of the tentative plans. John Martin, executive director of the Wyoming County Redevelopment and Housing Authority, hopes the final plans on the housing project will be completed quickly so that plans can be submitted to HUD for approval. Funds submitted for approval to HUD as part of the preliminary for the housing project. Housing Authority members are looking for completion of the project early Fall if plans move along as scheduled.

Kennel Club to host state dog officer

On Thursday March 4, at 8 p.m., at Marks Old House Restaurant, Rte. 92S Tunkhannock, the Endless Mountains Kennel Club will host Pa. State Dog Law Officer Russel Carney as guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting.

Carney's topic for the evening will be current Dog Laws pertaining to the keeping of dogs, providing for the licensing of dogs and kennels, also new legislation concerning the dog laws will be discussed.

The public is invited to attend, the club extends its open invitation to any person interested in learning more about dogs, their care, management and training. At each monthly meeting the club maintains a free information table with various booklets and pamphlets to help dog owners learn more about their pets.

Presently the club is working on spring activities which include an obedience training class. For more information, write Endless Mountains Kennel Club, P.O. Box 181, Tunkhannock, Pa. 18657.

Knights bounce O'Reilly

Coach Shorty Hitchcock's Lake-Lehman wrestlers handed the Queensmen 51-11 thrashing last Wednesday night at Bishop O'Reilly's gym.

The Knights used four pins, four forfeits and a decision to take the meet.

IF YOU LIKE CRAFTS, THIS IS FOR YOU!

Hi Crafters,

It's been quite a while since you've heard from us. We have been very busy and have many exciting items to tell you about. Our own excitement and what's keeping us quite busy is my own wedding which will take place September 11th. Mom and I have just returned from the Dallas, Texas Convention and two other regional shows. The weather was terrible, really making the traveling hazardous, but we ordered some really nice new products to stir your creativity.

Still the number one craft of the season is candy making. Molds, flavoring, coloring, instruction books, trims, papers, foil wraps, caramel filling, fondant, dark chocolate, milk chocolate, white, colored, peanut butter, mint and dietetic coatings are all available for you to make your own confections for Easter or parties. The molds are great for plaster also.

Coming up very quickly is counted cross stitch and needle point on plastic canvas. Mary Alice and Susan are conducting classes every Wednesday evening. You can join anytime. Our walls are stocked with over 350 books, D.M.C. floss, plastic canvas, clear and colored, and many accessories for your needle work.

I'm going headfirst into the wedding season. Car decorations of all styles, shower favors, silk bouquets, headpieces or any other item you may need to complete your special day I will create for you.

We have had so many requests for cake decorating supplies we went ahead and put the line in. It's all new to us and with help and ideas from our customers we'll have everyone turning cakes into works of art.

A great new product is Duncan Home ceramics. You can pour a mold and bake it right in your own oven. Your design comes out perfect for painting and is virtually unbreakable.

THE DELLA ROBBIA

697 Market St., Kingston Corners Building — 288-0873
OPEN: MON., WED., THURS., 9:30-9 — TUES., FRI., SAT., 9:30-6

Sallie's most exciting time of the year is nearing — Easter. She now can release all her new bump chenille bunnies. Classes will be taught on these adorable creatures. Come in and talk to her, she'll be glad to get you going on your own bunny hutch. Wait until you see her giant "Peter Cottontail".

Scott is back to his favorite craft — Pom Poms. His latest is a takeoff on Smurf. He also did a really pretty ribbon rainbow. For St. Patrick's Day the lighted shamrocks for your front window have been selling so fast Scott can't keep up with his orders.

My Grandmother, Lottie, has been working day and night to price all the new Spring flowers, ribbons, Annalee rabbits, baskets and Easter novelties that have been coming into the shop. Along with our full line of Pysanky Egg supplies, we have in stock the Polish willow baskets in which to carry your traditional foods and eggs to church.

There are craft classes assembling at Luzerne County Community College and Kingston Recreation Board that Delores will be teaching this semester. Call the offices of the two locations to find out how you can sign up.

Young and old girls alike love the barrettes made from satin ribbon and beads. We will soon have almost every color made in the ribbon for you to design your own "fashion barrettes".

A potpourri class will be held at the store on March 18. Potpourri is the blending of oils and flowers to make lovely scented sachets and home accessories. Call for further information.

Every day of the year holds a special meaning for someone. Share that day with a handcrafted gift that says "I Care".

HAPPY CRAFTING...

Joanne and Delores
