Carol Margellina adds tasty zip to everyday meals

BY JOAN KINGSBURY

New recipes are something a homemaker can always use. Despite the fact that your family has its favorite meals, a little variety once in a while is a nice change. This week Carol Margellina suggests three delicious recipes to add some zip to your everyday menu, Jello Salad, Hobo Bread and Fudge Cake.

Carol's recipe for Jello Salad combines pineapple with maraschino cherries with cream cheese, Cool Whip and chopped nuts for a delicious salad. This Jello Salad can be served as a salad or dessert. Hobo Bread is an easy way to make raisin bread. Just soak raisins for one hour, then combine with sugar, egg, flour, nuts and shortening. Bake for 45 minutes and you have delicious raisin bread without much fuss.

Carol bakes her Fudge Cake in a cookies sheet. This rich chocolate cake is topped with a boiled icing made from oleo, cocoa, milk, confectioner's sugar and vanilla while it is still warm. Fudge Cake is good to bake for a party or gathering since it makes quite a few servings.

about anything Mom prepares, Italian foods are a favorite.

The Margellina's live in Lehman with their two children, Tracy and P.J. (Paul). Both Carol and her husband, Paul, are originally from the Back Mountain. Carol is a graduate of Dallas High School while Paul graduated from Lake-Lehman High School. Paul is employed by Penn Fern Oil Company. Carol works in the cafeteria at the Lehman-Jackson Elementary School.

Tracy, age 7, is a second grade student at Lehman-Jackson Elementary School. Tracy's leisure activities include Brownies and (Sparks). P.J. recently celebrated his third birthday.

Carol's hobbies include crocheting, and participating in activities at the Lehman United Methodist Church. She is a member of the Lehman Township Fire Company Ladies Auxiliary. Paul enjoys fishing and hunting. The entire family likes to go camping.
