In the spotlight

Dino Liva-musical talent beyond his years

This week's Post Spotlight is on Dino Liva, junior at Dallas Senior High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Liva of Dallas, Dino is known throughout the local area for his musical talent. His musical ability is not surprising since both his parents are talented musicians.

Dino's father is professor of music at College Misericordia and conductor of Sinfonia da Camera. He has taught in many places throughout the country. Dino's mother teaches piano and plays the cello. She has a master's degree in music and also is a member of Sinfonia.

Dino is concert master for Sinfonia da Camera. Most recently he auditioned and placed first as concert master for the State's Orchestra in January, at Hershey.

He has sent his resume to Boston for the All Eastern Seaboard States where he has qualified and will play the violin in the performance. Unless interested in music, few people realize the honor Dino has received.

He has been playing the violin for the past eight years, taking lessons from his father. Last year as a sophomore, he qualified for District Orchestra and this year has worked his way through Regionals, States and now All Eastern Seaboard States.

Dino has played all over Wyoming Valley with different orchestras, including the Oratorio Society. He and his brother, Victor, have performed for both elementary and secondary students of the Dallas School District.

He comes from a musical family. His brother, Mark, plays both the cello and piano and is with a band. Mark also performed once at the school. Victor plays the piano. Dino's youngest brother, Mario, age 11, and his sister, Nina, age nine, are taking lessons from their father.

Despite practicing on an average of two hours daily, Dino finds time for other interests such as swimming, racquet ball and basketball.

He does not participate in other sports programs because of possible injury to his hands but Dino enjoys them as a spectator.

He is an excellent student and has been on the Honor Roll in both junior and senior high school. Dino plans to attend college, preferably a music conservatory, following graduation from high school. He is currently taking his SAT's but needs only to audition to study at a music conservatory. If he gets the opportunity, Dino would like to study in Europe. Dino's father speaks Italian fluently but Dino has not mastered the language as yet but does understand it and can speak a little.

Although only a junior, Dino has progressed much further than most musicians at his age and looks forward to a musical career.

PARENTING COURSE—PTA president Linda Mazur, Lehman-Jackson Elementary principal, Charles James and Joanne Ennis discuss plans for the Communication and Parenting Skills course being offered at the school.

Parenting School begins Feb. 16

A "school for parenting", a cooperative effort between Charles James, Lake-Lehman Elementary School principal and Lehman-Jackson PTA, will begin on Feb. 16 when Joanne Ennis of Dallas begins a six-week course: Communication and Parenting Skills.

The classes will be held on six Wednesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Lehman-Jackson Elementary School. The course is open to fathers and mothers and to single parents of children of the Lake-Lehman School District.

The course focuses on those communication and parenting skills which will enable parents to listen so children will talk; talk so their children will listen, and solve problems so that no one loses. The course recognizes that parents are significant models for their children for many acquired behavioral and attitudinal patterns, including drug and alcohol behaviors.

Mrs. Ennis believes that parents can be taught skills to help them help their children develop positive self-concepts and valuable skills for living.

Mrs. Ennis resides in Dallas with her husband, John, chairman of the English department at King's College, and their two sons, Erin and Connor.

PTO meeting set

Dallas Township PTO will hold a regular business meeting Tuesday, Feb. 15, 7:30 p.m., in the school cafeteria. Joe Beckus, local chef from Kingston, will be the special guest.

The nominating committee for the slate of officers for 1983-84 will be selected at this meeting. The major fund raiser for the PTO, an Easter candy sale, will be held in February with candy being delivered in March.
