On the road with Debbie Z

BY DEBBIE Z.

It took me more than a month to remember, but Glen Stubbe, Hello! No Glen, I didn't forget you, I just got so involved with everything else. . . anyway, you know how it is. Hope that next time you see me I'm not in a limousine but rather a Rolls!

You've heard of supermoms and superdads, well how about supergrams. Yes, my grandmother. Why? Last week my car kind of broke down at the Meadows and needed to be pushed into a parking spot. Well, my mother was around and between us, we figured we could push the car. When we were just about an inch away from moving it, my grandmother came running over to help. Yes, this 69-year-old lady with flashlight in hand grabbed on to the passenger's door handle and helped us push. The people at the Meadows who were watching out their windows are still in awe.

Before I forget, it was only two days later on a Monday morning when I was driving to school at 8 in the morning. I was on the back road going to Misericordia when I got to the stop sign by the Country Club Road and my car died out. Well, at 8 in the morning it only took me two seconds to decide to leave it and walk to the school for a rescue squad. I missed my morning class and called home. By 9:30, when I returned to the car with my father, I was pleased to see that Officer Clarke VanOrden had left a little pink tag on the car requesting me to call him concerning the vehicle. Later that day as I tried the Dallas Township police, there was no Clarke and I was to call him the next morning. Well, to cut it short, I never did and Clarke VanOrden, no, my car wasn't abandoned. And where were you at 8 when it broke down and I walked a mile in the cold to find a rescue party? (No offense Clarke, I didn't mind the walk.)

Hello to Lee Richards and a Hope You're Feeling Better message. I talked with Mr. Richards on the phone the other day and was sorry to learn he was suffering from the gout. I'm sure it will be better by the time the greens are cleared of the snow.

Listen, can we talk fattening?! Just what I thought! Here's the scoop. (No, it's not ice cream.) There's a group of AP students from Lehman selling carmel candy bars that are the best thing next to mousse (almost) and the Girl Scouts are selling cookies and Newberry Estates will be opening up now for lunch and dinner. Well, on these cold nights, what's better than food! It's "pig-out" heaven for all!

Ran into Heidi Allen the other day. She tells me her dad is doing just fine. However, he is now wearing glasses. According to Mr. Allen's number one daughter, he doesn't look too bad in them. And Heidi's message to him. . . "Can I borrow a dollar and the car, Dad?"

Missy Turner's alive and well and just loving Misericordia. Missy, a 1979 LL graduate, is now majoring in art at College Misericordia. It's been my fortune to have a graphics class with her and I've also had the opportunity to see some of her work. Boy, I've got a long way to go from stick figures.

Well, I've got a big surprise coming up that I'll tell you about soon. In the meantime, I want to say "Hi" to Bob Edgerton who hopefully will be part of my surprise along with his friends. Details to follow. . .

Honor Thy Mother - think about it now!

The Dallas Post is planning a special tribute to Mothers for our May 4 edition. Honor your mother in a really special way, through the newspaper.

Bring a photo of your mother in a really special cluttered one.

Deadline for submitting photos for our Mother's Day tribute is Tuesday, March 15. Photos will be published on a first come-first served, space available basis. Get your photo in early to reserve a special spot for your tribute to Mom.

mother to the Dallas Post, Gerald Avenue, Dallas. Attach information including her name, address, names of her children and grandchildren (if applicable), print it on back of the photo.

A clear black and white photo reproduces best in a newspaper and is preferable to color shots. For

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Kleban, RD 3, Hunlock Creek, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to Garit R. Pesavento, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pesavento, 245 East Northampton St., Wilkes-Barre.

Miss Kleban, a graduate of Lake-Lehman High School completed computer instruction courses at Datapoint Customer Education Centers in New York City and San Antonio, Texas. She is employed in the Data Processing Department of Offset Paperback Mfrs. Inc. as a computer programmer. A graduate of In Vogue School of Modeling, she has appeared in both formal and informal area fashion shows. Mr. Pesavento is a graduate of St. Mary's High School and Luzerne County Community College with an associate degree in commercial art. He is employed by Offset Paperback Mfrs. Inc. in the press department. The wedding will be solemnized April 30 in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Shavertown.

Homes, farms replace timber

Jackson Township bears the name of the immortal old "Hickory"—the hero and statesman—the man of brains and both physical and moral courage. The township was formed in 1844; is 15 square miles in area, and was taken from the original township of Plymouth. It once had only game and a grand old forest, that 30 or 40 years ago gave employment to its nine sawmills cutting it into lumber; then there were three gristmills, and in the entire township was but one old-time country tavern. Its oak, hemlock and pine forests have faded away before the strokes of the woodmen's axes, and the people sought out every spot to make farms and homes.

Flood collection taken

The Disciples of Christ of Huntsville Christian Church, Dallas, recently took a flood relief collection for Louisiana residents. The special offering, taken during the Sunday service, Jan. 30, was sent to the Monroe Christian Church in Monroe, La. That parish will direct the collected monies to the needy of that flooded region.
