A Radio Station at School

The Radio Club of Wyoming Valley West High School has its very own radio station. At the present time, it only operates within the school; however, the club's advisor, Les Nicholas, hopes that within time the station will operate on the local airwaves.

The club has 115 members, 20 of whom act as disc jockeys. These students give up their lunch periods to provide musical entertainment for the students during lunchtime. They must follow a certain program. They perform similarly to local stations by providing weather reports, the time, and announcements pertaining to school activities.

Nicholas has had much experience in the area. He has worked for WCLH, WBRE, and WKRZ. He points out that the purpose of the station is not only to provide music at lunch, but also to enable the student to learn about communications. The station operates from the club's studio within the school. Money from fund raising projects was used to purchase the needed equipment. That which could not be bought by the club itself was donated by the Forty Fort Lumber Company.

Wiring for the studio was provided free-of-charge by engineer Ron Schacht. The station, WVVV, never could have gotten where it is today without the help of these people, the approval of the school's administration, and the dedication of Nicholas.

Ambulance Drive On

Swoyersville Police Community Ambulance Association wishes to advise all borough residents that it is not accepting donations for the West Side Ambulance Association. No donations will be taken at the Borough Building for the West Side Ambulance Association.

Chairman John Konopka and drive secretary John Shemo announced that the 1983 Swoyersville Drive is now underway. The membership drive has been the association's only means of finance since it receives no monies from any other source. Donations of $2 per household are requested. If you desire to donate more than $2 you may do so. The money is used for a worthy cause.

The association officers would like to mention that your membership entitles you for service to local hospitals only. There will be a charge on all calls out of Luzerne County. The modern, well-equipped ambulance is manned by dedicated, trained volunteers. The support of every family will continue this vital service.

Association officers are: Donald Barna, president; Barbara Mikulka, vice-president; John Shemo, treasurer; Beverly Kile, financial secretary and James Urban, secretary.
