Auxiliary aids Hospital Fair

Members of the Careerist Auxiliary, formerly the Junior Branch of the Nesbitt Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, are busy preparing for the annual Holiday Fair to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 2, and Thursday, Nov. 3, in the auditorium of the Medical Arts Building, 534 Wyoming Ave., Kingston.

The Holiday Fair, sponsored by the hospital auxiliary's Shavertown branch, is a cooperative effort of auxiliaries from all eight branches.

The fair offers residents a wide variety of handmade items and homemade foods.

Each branch will operate a booth featuring a unique selection of articles. The Careerist Auxiliary will offer wreaths, pot holders, pin cushions, tissue box covers, clown dolls and a variety of plastercraft items.

In addition to assisting at the Holiday Fair, Careerist Auxiliary members also provide active support in hospital volunteer activities throughout the year. The Careerist Auxiliary provides an opportunity for career women to participate in the hospital auxiliary.

Meetings are held the first Wednesday evening of the month at 7 p.m. in the third floor lounge of the Medical Arts Building.

Anyone interested in joining the Careerist Auxiliary should contact president Paula Denisco at 693-2414.

Health care personnel form trauma unit

Emergency health care personnel and other concerned individuals from Northeastern Pennsylvania decided Thursday evening to form an official "Northeastern Pennsylvania Unit" of the American Trauma Society under the auspices of that organization's Pennsylvania Division.

The group, comprised of surgeons, physicians, nurses, hospital administrative personnel, ambulance personnel and community representatives met at a meeting called by Emergency Medical Services of Northeastern Pennsylvania (EMSNP) to determine the level of interest in establishing a trauma society unit. The meeting was chaired by EMSNP's Past-President Howard J. Grossman.

Grossman told those gathered that although EMSNP has actively supported American Trauma Society (ATS) efforts to reduce the tragic emotional and economic tolls of Trauma - accidental death or injury - in the past, EMSNP's Board of Directors believed much more needs to be done on a continual basis. Formation of an ATS Unit in Northeastern Pennsylvania could, according to Grossman, reduced the needless amount of severe injury and loss of life in this region by raising the public's awareness of the fact that being accidental, trauma is preventable.

Donald H. Gaylor, M.D., ATS-PA Division President, addressed those gathered on the activities of ATS which have included efforts to block repeal of motorcycle helmet laws, enactment of legislation requiring seat restraints for children, and developing public awareness of Trauma which has reached "epidemic" proportions throughout the country.

Involvement with the American Trauma Society is open to all individuals concerned about beating the Trauma epidemic. For information on the regional unit's formation, contact Bill F. Yoskoski at Emergency Medical Services of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Lehman band adds trophies

The award-winning Lake-Lehman High School Band, directed by John Miliauskas, added six more trophies to this season's collection totaling 11 awards in just two competitions.

At the "Music on the Mountain" Band Competition in Crestwood Stadium, the Lake-Lehman Band won first in its class and in addition garnered top honors in music, band front, and marching and maneuvering. In open class, they were presented the best overall drum major award and best overall band.

They outscored all other bands in the field.

Those competing were Nanticoke, Lackawanna Trail, Pittston, Central Columbia, Bishop Hoban, GAR, Hanover and E.L. Meyers.

Drum Major for Lake-Lehman is John Headman. Band front co-captains are: rifles, Rick Titus and Ray Jones; silks, Cathy Clamar and Paul Rempelwicz; swing flags, Pam Nafus and Kathy Bogdon; batons, Mandy Wood and Sharon Evans.

Up they go!

Fourth graders at the Dallas Intermediate School are shown as they released balloons on National Good Neighbor Day.

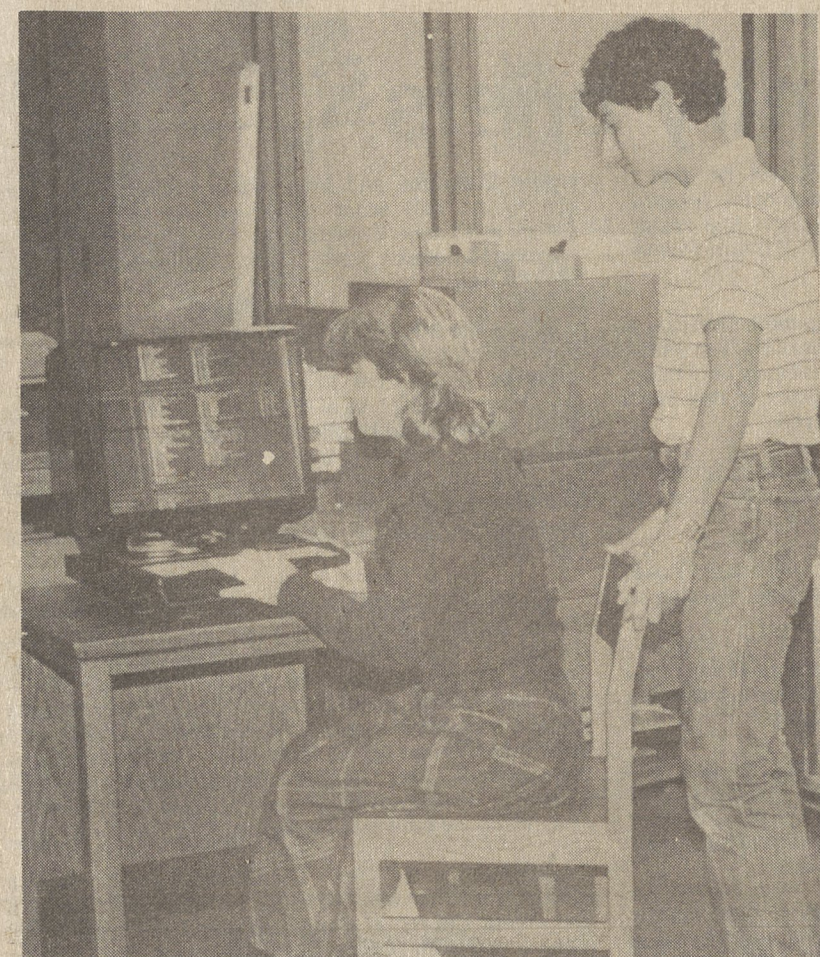

Students release balloons on Good Neighbor Day

If you looked skyward at noon on Monday, Oct. 3, and saw a rainbow of balloons, you weren't seeing things. The fourth grade students at the Dallas Intermediate School were participating in National Good Neighbor Day.

For the second year, the Dallas P.T.O. was able to provide each student with a helium filled balloon with a tag attached with the student's name and address. The tag asked the finder of the balloon to please write and tell where and when the balloon was found.

Last year, about 12 responses were received. The farthest response came from New York.

As the balloons headed toward Harrisburg all the students crossed their fingers hoping some one would find their balloon.

WWV gets reader

Wyoming Valley West High School is pleased to announce the approval of its application for a microfiche reader for use within its library. Mrs. Claire Backer, the school's librarian, expressed the importance of acquiring the microfiche reader because it will provide additional research services to the students and expose them to different types of microform resources. The microfiche reader was made possible to the school by the Library Development Division and the aid of state librarian Elliott Shelkrot. Shown using the microfiche reader are Melissa Pinkoski and Larry Newman.

Magazine available

The October issue of PTA Today, National PTA's magazine, offers some sound advice to both parents and teachers.

Child drug and alcohol abuse are a major concern of parents today. In order to help parents better understand why children use drugs and alcohol, and what they can do to protect their children from the dangers of both, the National PTA launched a nationwide Drug and Alcohol Project in August of 1983. The October issue of PTA Today contains a special section on the drug and alcohol problem - a must for parental reading.

Copies of the October issue of PTA Today are available for $1.00 each by sending a check or money order (made payable to National PTA) to National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611 (312) 787-0977.

Fire program is available to elderly

Secretary of Aging Gorham L. Black, Jr. has announced that a new fire prevention program designed specifically for the elderly is available through the State Fire Commissioner's Office.

"Senior citizens can single-handedly reduce the odds of being injured or killed in a fire simply by learning about fire prevention and practicing everyday safety," Black said.

Arrangements for the fire safety program can be made by contacting any local Area Agency on Aging, or through the Office of Fire Safety Services, Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, Room 101, Transportation and Safety Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120, phone (717) 783-8150.
