Parents learn about drug program

The Lake-Lehman School District will present an orientation and overview program concerning "Here's Looking at You - Two", a drug and alcohol program featured in the schools.

The orientation program, which grew out of a request from members of the Junior High School PTA to familiarize parents with the program, will be held Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lake-Lehman High School Library.

Conducting the program will be Maryann Blessner, Debra Phillips, guidance counselors at the elementary level; and Wilma Schierer, junior high school health teacher.

The three will explain the program and its objectives to parents in an attempt to spark discussions between the parent and the child. They will discuss the four aspects of the program - information, self-esteem, coping and decision-making. Following the discussion, a question and answer period will be conducted as parents will be encouraged to make an assessment of additional steps that can be taken.

Dr. David Preston, superintendent, Lake-Lehman School District, explained that the "Here's Looking at You - Two" program is targeted toward students in fourth through eighth grades, but is beneficial to students of all ages.

Dr. Preston will be sending newsletters to parents of students in fourth to eighth grades encouraging them to attend the orientation program but extends an invitation to all parents.
