SENATOR FRANK O'CONNELL

O'Connell is seeking re-election

State Senator Frank J. O'Connell (R-Kingston) formally announced today that he is a candidate for delegate to the 1984 Republican National Convention. The Luzerne County legislator's campaign theme is "Another view for 1984"

Throughout O'Connell's 29 year political career, he has been known as a "different kind" of Republican. He has long been a champion of the working class and believes that the Administration must be aware of the concerns of its constituents.

O'Connell has served as a state representative for the 120th Legislative District, as a Kingston Borough (Luzerne County) councilman, and as a committeeman in the second ward of Kingston. He is currently a second term state senator.

As chairman of the powerful senate State Government Committee (a position held for four years), O'Connell is well-versed in matters affecting Pennsylvania, particularly in the 11th Congressional District in which he is running for delegate.

"I will express those concerns brought to me by the citizens of the 11th Congressional District," O'Connell added, "I will not be another rubber stamp for the party."

O'Connell views the unhealthy federal deficit as a priority. "We must work towards balancing the federal budget in realistic terms. Though I am in favor of a strong defense force, the military budget must be scrutinized and the waste eliminated.

"I am a candidate, further, who believes that America must support Americans first. Our human services must not take a back seat to defense or foreign aid," he said.

In addition to the important nomination of the Republican presidential and vice-presidential candidates, there will be four important Committees of the Convention which will play a major role in determining the future of the Republican Party. The committees are as follows: Committee on Credentials, Committee on Resolutions (Platform), Committee on Permanent Organization, and the Committee on Rules and Order of Business.

Week in review

Bid awarded

Dallas Township supervisors awarded a $10,503 contract for a new police cruiser to Howard Isaacs Inc., of Trucksville at their meeting held Feb. 7. The only other bid was for $10,950 from L.L. Richardson of Dallas.

The board also amended the rules for pension and retirement benefits for township police. Widows of police officers will receive 50 percent of their spouses' pensions under the amendment. Widows previously were not entitled to any of their spouses' pensions.

Benefits for police officers will now be based on the policeman's average monthly salary for the last 60 months of his employment. Prior to the amendment, benefits were based on the last 36 months of employment.

Charney home

John "Jack" Charney returned to Wyoming Valley on Feb. 6 after being injured in an accident in Cairo, Egypt.

Charney, whose parents, John and Elaine Charney, reside at RD 3, Dallas, was on the last leg of a two-year worldwide tour when he was struck down by an Egyptian military truck, causing extensive fractures and bruises.

The 28-year-old former teacher at Stowe School in Stowe, Vermont, was accompanied on the return flight by his father, who had traveled to Cairo last week to be with his son.

An ambulance donated by the Dallas Ambulance Association, transported him from Kennedy International Airport in New York to Wilkes-Barre General Hospital where a team of volunteer doctors were on hand.

Tax vetoed

A controversial garbage collection tax was vetoed by Harveys Lake Mayor Frank Picchi last Thursday evening.

The $26 per household tax was vetoed by Picchi because the state Department of Community Affairs, in Harrisburg says it is illegal to enact a garbage "tax" instead of a garbage "fee." Council president Daniel Blaine said council would change the word "tax" if someone made a motion. Council was scheduled to discuss the veto at a work session yesterday.

New secretary

Joan Conrad, of RD 5, Shavertown, was appointed secretary-clerk for both the municipal authority and the planning board by the Jackson Township supervisors at their meeting held Feb. 6.

Conrad will be paid $4 per hour. The board will also send documents to the county commissioner's office in an attempt to receive a $40,000 grant made available to the township by the Office of Community Development.

Permit given

Ruth Gildea was given permission to convert the former Pioneer Market on her property at 27 North Pioneer Avenue, Shavertown to an apartment. Permission was granted by the Kingston Township Zoning and Hearing Board at its Feb. 6 meeting.

Mrs. Gildea must maintain the building, which now holds the former market and an apartment for herself, as a two-family apartment house and will not be allowed to expand the building.

College gets grant

State Senator Frank J. O'Connell recently announced the award of $9,818 in federal funds for energy conservation to College Misericordia, Dallas. The grant from the U.S. Department of Energy Institutional Conservation Program (ICP) will be used to make energy conservation improvements to the institution.

The senator congratulated College Misericordia officials on receiving the grant and said he hoped others would follow their lead in cutting energy use and reducing energy costs.

"Energy costs are a major factor in rising expenses for education," O'Connell said.

The ICP grant provides matching funds to schools for the design, acquisition and installation of energy conservation measures which will improve the energy efficiency of institutional buildings.

Examples of such improvements are insulation, window modifications, caulking and weatherstripping, energy management systems and boiler modifications. Solar and alternative energy systems are also eligible.

"This program presents a fine example of tax dollars being put to good purpose," O'Connell said, "The money saved in energy can go into improving the quality of education for our children."

The ICP program in Pennsylvania is sponsored by the Governor's Energy Council. This year the program will provide over $5.5 million to schools and hospitals statewide.
