Lectures

Attorney Kimberly D. Borland will speak on "Legal Problems of Stepfamilies: A Matter of Justice" before the Wyoming Valley Chapter of the Stepfamily Association of America on Monday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. in room 518 of the Administration Building, King's College.

In a meeting open to the public, Attorney Borland will speak about the legal rights and problems facing stepfamilies. Following this talk, there will be a general question and answer period. This is one of a series of monthly programs intended to inform stepfamilies and the community of matters which affect a large number of people: presently one in five children in this country are members of step-families.

The workshop is free to members of the chapter and $15 for non-members. Information may be obtained by calling 779-3227.

Meetings

LOTTERY PROCEEDS

Are the Lottery funds being used to benefit our senior citizens?
Why are these funds being funnelled into the general fund?
Could it be to pay salary increases?
