

School children honor Mom on her day

Happy Mother's Day

A salute to Mother

The Dallas Post recently offered elementary students, grades kindergarten through sixth, the opportunity to publicly acknowledge their mothers in the form of a poem or short story.

Mother's Day will be celebrated across the United States on Sunday, May 13, and The Dallas Post feels it is important for children to be able to express their love and gratitude to their mothers for all they have done.

The top portion of this page has been devoted to these children who have responded to our Mother's Day promotion. The poems and stories you will read here are their way of showing their mothers they are loved, not only on Mother's Day but every day of the year.

The Dallas Post salutes all of these children and their mothers on this very special day of the year.

MOTHER'S DAY POEM

I have a mother
and I lover her Shes very nice to me
Shes a hard worker everyday Shes the one who takes care of us.
So I do nice things for her and she loves them very much

A SPECIAL DAY

There's a special day for mothers because they are so sweet. Once a year we show our love to them and show her she's nice. Then we give her a reward by making a special day for her called Mother's Day.
But we should love her every day,
not just her special day.
Sarah Sorber

A mother will love,
As soft as a dove,
With your hand in hers,
Go out and buy furs,
In summer, winter, spring and fall,

spend time with your mother and I say do all,
But there's one special day that you must not forget,
It's Mother's Day, and I say
This can be your way to reapy
Your mother for all she's done,
Have fun!

MOTHER'S FAN

Mother cares for me
She tries to be as Loving as she can
I want her to know
I'm her best fan
She's better then
A rock star
Oh by far She's as great
As can be,
So, I want her
to know,
I love as much As She loves
Me!
Kristen Gurdin, Age 10

MY MOMMY IS

Very good at sewing
And she makes our beds for us.
And -my mommy is very very nice.
On Mothers Day and everyday.
She sews dolls and barette keepers.
We have a very very nice home.
I am glad we got her.
My mommy is a good good cook.
And I Love mommy and mommy loves me.

MY MOTHER

My Mother is nice. She has brown and black hair. She was a hair stylist. she now works at home. She has her own car. She takes nine kids and her and her friend Marybeth for rides. Now I told you about my mother. Tell me about your mother.

MY MOTHER

My Mother has been near to dry my tear
To sooth the pain
and not to be vain
We sit down and talk
or maybe we'll walk
But anyway don't forget
your mother

Apple demonstration

As part of the April 10th Lake-Lehman School Board Meeting, school officials were invited to witness a demonstration of the new Apple Computer Network in the Lake-Lehman Junior High School. This equipment and program will be used to follow up and expand on the basic computer literacy program provided for elementary students, and to enhance the instruction of specific mathematic concepts. Pictured above are, students, from left, Becky Yaple and Charles Swartwood. Second row, M. David Preston, Superintendent; John J. Oliver, Junior High School Principal; Molly Malpass, Instructor; Joseph "Red" Jones, School Board President; Bing O. Wolfe, Board Member and Education Coordinator.

Perske speaks

More than 100 participants attended a one-day workshop led by noted author and journalist Robert Perske who presented his views of persons with mental retardation. The program was the culminating activity in recognition of Mental Retardation Month and was co-sponsored by Luzerne-Wyoming Mental Health Mental Retardation Administrator's Office, the Association for Retarded Citizens of Luzerne County, the Children's Service Center of Wyoming Valley and the Pennsylvania State University. Shown are, from left, Ina Lubin, Penn State's regional health-care programming coordinator; Nick Moranski, mental retardation coordinator at Luzerne-Wyoming MH-MR Program; Perske, guest speaker; Pete Rubel, director of the Mental Retardation Unit, Children's Service Center; and Ellen Campbell, president of ARC.

Programs discussed

Representatives of the Meadows Complex in Dallas and College Misericordia met recently to explore cooperative relationships between the Meadows and the College's allied health programs. From left, first row, Ray Condo, executive director of Ecumenical Enterprises; Judy Liput, director of nursing at the Meadows; Christine Jacobs, acting director of Misericordia's radiologic technology program; Sister Lucille Cormier, R.S.M., director of the College's music therapy program; Patricia Lewis, member of Misericordia's social work faculty. Second row, Thomas O'Neill, director of Misericordia's Institute of Gerontology; Stephen Heater, director of the occupational therapy program at the College; Thomas Sweeney, administrator of the Meadows; Dr. Sheila Pringle, chairman of Misericordia's division of nursing; Jack Liput, director of social services at the Meadows; and Dr. Stanley Knapich, director of the College's medical technology program.

Daffodil days

The Nursing Forum of Luzerne County Community College recently held its annual Daffodil Day, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, on the main campus in Nanticoke. Shown before the start of the day's activities are, from left, Cora Porter, Shavertown, nursing forum advisor; Sandy Mattia, Mountaintop, vice president of the nursing forum; Carol Ann Kostrzewski, Dallas, president of the nursing forum; Kathleen Obarski, Nanticoke, treasurer of the nursing forum; Sandra Demchak, Wilkes-Barre, secretary of the nursing forum; and Terry Mulherin, Ashley.
