West All-Stars win Annual Kiwanis Tourney

Dallas Post/Ed Campbell

Just made it

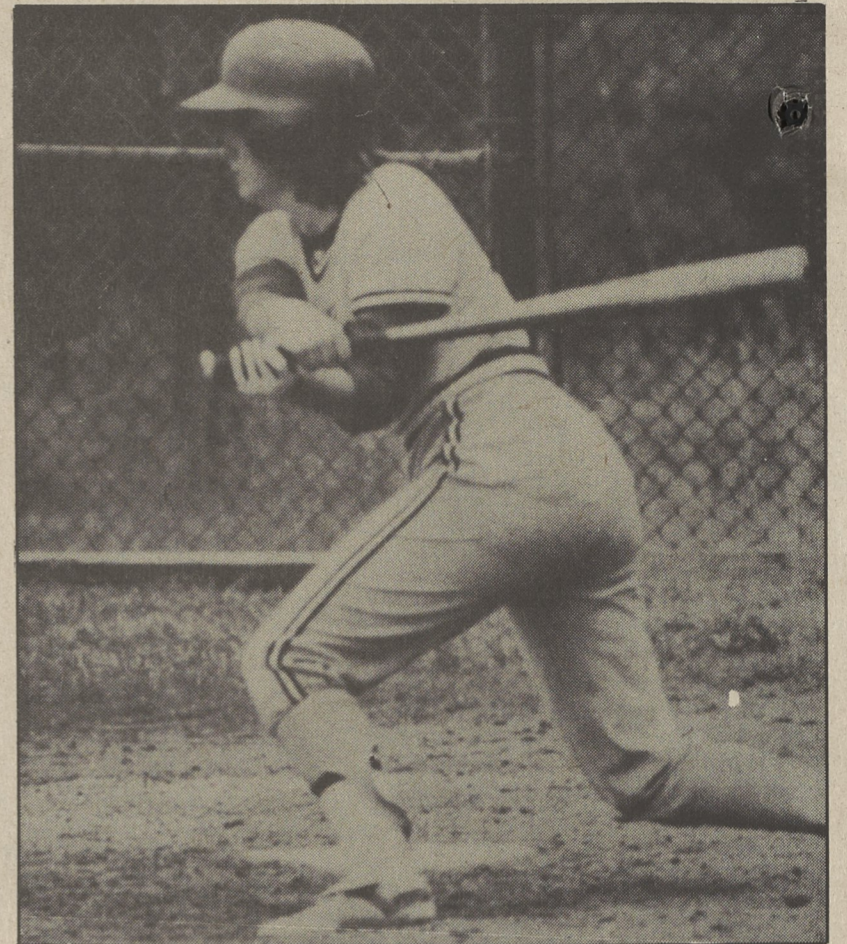

It's close, but Ronda Hudzik is safe at second. Ronda, the catcher for this year's championship Lake-Lehman girls' softball team, was playing in the Annual Dallas Kiwanis Girls' All-Star Game last week.

Area seniors compete in Fifth Annual Kiwanis event

The Fifth Annual Dallas Kiwanis Club's East-West girls softball game was won by the West team, 9-1, last Monday at the Dallas field. The two teams were comprised of top seniors from school on both sides of the river and although all players were not named to All Star teams, they had all star ability.

Lake-Lehman's Jill Solinski and Wyoming Valley West's Erika Oswald combined for 14 strikeouts and Solinski was named Most Valuable Player for the West.

Five Dallas High School seniors and five Lake-Lehman players played an outstanding game together instead of competing against each other as they did during the regular season.

West team coach Flossie Finn said it was a great experience for her.

"It's the third time I have coached the West team and I believe this year was the best of the three," Finn said. "It was good to coach my own girls for the last time."

"The girls place a lot of value on the game and many of them sacrificed a lot to get to practice and to play. We never had as good a turnout as we did this year, all but two of the 18 girls were there. We had a super crowd for the game."

People are beginning to give the girls the recognition they deserve.

"All the girls got along together very well but I was pleased to see Dallas and Lake-Lehman together. That's the way it should be."

Finn said she and George McCutcheon founded the Kiwanis game.

"McCutcheon was in the barber shop when I was talking to my husband about finding a sponsor for such a game," the Lehman coach said. McCutcheon said he thought Dallas Kiwanis could sponsor such a game. He looked into it and the next year - 1979 - we played the first game.

"It's ironic, that year there were five Lake-Lehman girls on the team and Lake-Lehman had won the District Conference," Finn added. "Now five years later, it's the same pattern - five girls and we're district champs."

McCutcheon said that for years the boys teams got all the attention, but the girls got no recognition.

"Since we've been sponsoring this game, I believe the girls get a lot of personal satisfaction. They know they have earned recognition and many have received scholarships because often the game is scouted. Throughout the year the various schools hear about some of the girls but don't get a chance to scout them. This end of the season game gives them an excellent opportunity.

There's no way of knowing how far-reaching it is.

McCutcheon said it also gives the girls one more opportunity to meet each another, perhaps for the last time. It is also the last chance for all the seniors to play with other girls of similar ability.

"The game also encourages more girls to try out for softball next year," said McCutcheon.

West took a 4-0 lead in the first inning, runs Coach Finn considered unearned because the girls were used to the field.

"I'm glad we scored five more because they were earned runs," said Finn. "It was a well played game. The pitchers did a good job but the girls were powerful at the plate."

Two gridders receive grants

Lake-Lehman Football Coach Mark Kirk announced recently that two of his senior players have received grants to enter college this fall.

Marty Onzik has received a grant for Wilkes College. A two-year letterman, Onzik led the Black Knights offense with 66 tackles, two blocked punts and one touchdown.

John Williams has received a grant for Lycoming College. Williams is also a two year letterman. During his junior year he played quarterback and in his senior year played halfback. He led the Knights to all but one victory in two years and threw for over 800 yards in his junior year and over 500 yards in just four games as a senior.
