Sales

PENNSYLVANIA GAS AND WATER COMPANY (PG&W) will launch its second year of cookie bake sales for area non-profit organizations starting in September. According to Richard Santee, Director of Marketing for the local gas utility, 100 non-profit civic and fraternal groups throughout Northeastern and Central Pennsylvania participated in last year's program. Specifically, in the Luzerne County area 36 organizations availed themselves of the fund raising program in 1983-84. Under the program guidelines, any non-profit organization is welcome to bake cookies in the utility's North Main Street, Wilkes-Barre showroom. PG&W supplies the kitchen facilities and all ingredients for each group to bake approximately 120 dozen coconut chews and Welsh cookies.

The group sells the cookies at $1 per dozen as established by the company. All proceeds go to the non-profit club's treasury.

Mr. Santee indicated that the cookie bake sales are, "one of PG&W's on-going efforts to assist local organizations through this worthwhile fund raising program. All an interested group has to do is call our marketing department for details and available dates," he said.

Many baking dates are currently committed through December, however, some dates are open into Spring 1985. For more information, call Mrs. Ruth Marmo in PG&W's N. Main Street, Wilkes-Barre, office at 829-8648.

Courses

LUZERNE COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE will offer a three-credit telecourse entitled, Principles of Sociology, for the Fall semester on Saturdays, from 7 to 8 a.m., beginning Sept. 1 through Dec. 8 on WVIA-TV, Channel 44.

Through interviews with renowned social scientists and close examinations of the portions of society experiencing change, the telecourse will explore the intersection of history and biography in our society, where the social conditions of the present relate to the attitudes of the recent past.

Nearly every element of American society—the home, the family, the workplace, marriage, recreation and even religion—is undergoing significant social change.

One discipline that improves personal comprehension of these activities and offers insight into the inexplicable events that discomfort so many individuals is sociology.

Among the topics to be reviewed in the telecourse are U.S. culture, childhood socialization, television, sex roles, aging, social inequality, poverty, minorities, the family, education, religion in America and government.

The work ethic, sports, crowd behavior, social movements, small town life, life in the city, urban problems, social change, and the new society will also be discussed.

For further information on the Principles of Sociology telecourse or to register to attend, contact Eleanor Miller at Luzerne County Community College, 829-7423.

LUZERNE COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE will offer an English Composition I telecourse for the Fall semester, in conjunction with WVIA-TV, Channel 44, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 7 to 7:30 a.m., beginning September 4 through December 13.

The three-credit course will be taught from a process point of view and will present strategies for pre-writing and revision with emphasis on skills needed for academic and business writing.

Dramatizations and mini-documentaries are used throughout the series, and most of the nation's leading authorities on the teaching of composition are interviewed along with many interviews with such well known writers as Irving Stone, Irving Wallace, Larry Gelbart, and Melville Shavelson.

The course is designed to encourage students to develop individual writing processes with emphasis on audience awareness and purpose for writing.

Among the topics to be reviewed in the course are the writing process, discovering ideas, structuring the topic, developing form, narration and description, paragraph patterns, discovering the library, writing a research paper, writing about books, and the essay test.

For further information on the English Composition I telecourse, or to enroll, contact Eleanor Miller at Luzerne County Community College, 829-7423.

FOR THE PERSON WHO HAS DECIDED upon a career in business, government, or educational management, The Business of Management telecourse will be offered this Fall by Luzerne County Community College, in conjunction with WVIA-TV, Channel 44, provides a valuable introduction to the concepts of management and business.

The course, which will be offered on Sundays, from 7:30 to 8 a.m., and Fridays, from 7 to 7:30 a.m., beginning Sept. 2 through Nov. 30; is designed for the managerial candidate who has not had formal training in business management as well as for the undergraduate student.

The program is intended to provide essential skills in planning and organizing, staffing and directing, controlling, decision-making, motivating, communicating, and applying managerial skills to business and other types of organizations.

Among the topics to be discussed are the managerial world, historical perspectives, you as a manager, communicating, planning and the management process, staffing, human resource management, building commitment and motivation, styles of leadership, financial controls, managerial stress, and managing for productivity.

For further information on the telecourse or to register to attend, contact Eleanor Miller at Luzerne County Community College, 829-7423.

LUZERNE COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE will offer a three-credit telecourse entitled, General Psychology, for the Fall semester on Sundays, from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m., beginning September 2 through December 9.

The course, which will be aired over WVIA-TV, Channel 44, will encourage an understanding and appreciation of the scientific approach to the study of human behavior.

An integrated learning system, the telecourse will survey the physiological, intra-psychic, and social-behavioral perspectives on human thought and behavior; sensation and perception; motivation; learning and memory; maturation and development; personality theory and psychotherapy; and social psychology.

The telecourse will discuss such topics as the brain, consciousness and sleep, vision, visual perception, motivation and hunger, sexual motivation, stress, and conditioning.

Operant conditioning, emmory, pain and hypnosis, genetic psychology, emotional development, personality theory, psychotherapy, social groups, persuasion, and applied psychology will also be reviewed.

For further information on the telecourse, or to register to attend, contact Eleanor Miller at Luzerne

County Community College, 829-7423.
