Scouts hold Fun Day

Crispell family holds 71st reunion

The 71st Annual Reunion of the Crispell Family (Pennsylvania Branch) was held on Saturday, Aug. 11, at Dymond Grove, Noxen, with approximately 67 attending.

The Crispells are descendants of Antoine (Crespel) Crispell, who came to this country in 1660 and, along with 11 other patentees, founded the village of New Paltz, New York. Around 1825 Thomas Crispell and his wife settled in the Noxen-Beaumont area, and it is the descendants of this couple who gathered together for the event.

Earl Crispell of Noxen, recently re-elected President of the National Crispell Family Association which covers the entire United States, reported on the Annual Crispell Family Reunion at New Paltz in July. He spoke about the early history of the family and emphasized that the oldest named street in the United States with the original stone houses still standing is in New Paltz, near here. All the houses are the originals and were built from 1692 to 1712. The original stone church erected in 1717 was no longer standing, so the Crispell Family constructed a replica of the Church which was dedicated in 1972, and this Church is maintained by the Crispell family. It is in this Church that the annual meeting was held at which Mr. Crispell presided. The Crispell family celebrated its Tercentary there in 1978, and Earl Crispell portrayed Antoine Crispell in the pageant, depicting signing the agreement purchasing the land from the Indians. The Crispells treated the Indians fairly and they lived together in peace.

The same officers were elected for the ensuing year: John Sidorek, president; Lela Crispell Sickler, vice president; Lois Post, recording secretary; Emily Krafjack, corresponding secretary; Alma Brown, treasurer. Nominating committee for next year is Ella Cobleigh, Helen Crispell and Letha Schenck.

Earl Crispell reported that he had sold the last of the Crispell Family books for the Pennsylvania Branch. The following committee was appointed to determine the cost for a second printing: Earl Crispell, John Sidorek and Judi Crispell. Family members were encouraged to return their genealogy sheets as soon as possible for incorporation into a second supplement to the family records. Committee appointed to compile the genealogy records for the supplement are: Merrion Crispell Moyer, Lela Sickler, Earl and Helen Crispell and Minnie Sidorek. Also appointed to the committees were: Judy Williams, games; Eunice Sorber, entertainment; and Doris Crispell, gifts.
