Program completed

The Act 101 Program at College Misericordia, Dallas, recently completed its pre-college summer session. Students in the program were involved in an intensive three-week series of courses. These courses were designed to assist students in making the transition from high school to college. Pictured at the concluding picnic are some of the program participants. From left, seated, are Mary Ann Krupski, Lisa Holley, Liz Ehmann, Sue Postlewhaite, Debbie Bradley, Jennifer Gosart, and Dawn Millan. Standing, Gerry Wall, counselor; Bob Lizza, study facilitator; Rich Galloway, Mary Siegel, counselor; Kevin Treat, Carol Llewellyn, secretary; Bill Dick, Act 101 Program director; and Dr. Jeff Fremont, faculty.

Perry named to post at Misericordia

John A. Perry, of Carlinville, Ill., was recently named director of institutional advancement at College Misericordia here, announced Dr. Joseph R. Fink, president of the college.

Perry, former vice president of Blackburn College in Carlinville, "brings us a wealth of experience in advancing the cause of private higher education," said President Fink. "We welcome him to the college and the Wyoming Valley. He is a skilled administrator and provides added strength to the college's management team."

A graduate of Syracuse University, Perry formerly served colleges in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and New York. A former writer and editor of the Syracuse (N.Y.) "Herald Journal," he served in the U.S. Navy as an information specialist during the Korean War. He currently serves as a public affairs officer in the U.S. Army Reserve.

At College Misericordia, a coeducational liberal arts and professional studies institution, Perry will be responsible for areas of public relations, funds development, alumni affairs and special events. The college was founded in 1924 by the Religious Sisters of Mercy and is located in this northeastern Pennsylvania community.

Perry received several national awards for publications, design and writing excellence. He is listed in "Who's Who in Public Relations," "Who's Who in Education," and "Who's Who in the Methodist Church." Numerous articles, authored by Perry, have appeared in national and international newspapers.

Perry and his wife, Virginia, will reside in Dallas.

Hychko honored by PSU

John T. Hychko, engineering professor at Penn State Wilkes-Barre, was recently honored for his 25 years of dedicated teaching service to the local campus in Lehman. He was presented with a Penn State chair.

Prior to joining the Wilkes-Barre campus faculty in 1958, Hychko worked as a structural engineer for Wilkes-Barre Iron and Wire Works, American Chain and Cable Company, and Babcock and Wilcox Company. He has also taught engineering courses at King's College and Wilkes College.

Hychko received his B.S. in civil engineering from Lehigh University and his M.E. from the Pennsylvania State University. He is past president of the Luzerne County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers. For many years he has served as engineer for Newport Township where he resides with his wife, Jean. They have three sons, John Jr., a physician at Mercy Hospital in Scranton; Gregory, second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force, and Sergei, freshman at Nanticoke High School.

Dallas offers SAT coaching course

The Dallas Senior High School will offer a coaching course this fall to provide college-bound students the opportunity to brush up on their verbal skills in readiness for the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Nationally verbal scores are lower than Math scores so, it is important for students to have extra help in verbal areas before taking SAT's.

The coaching course for the English (verbal) sessions in preparation for SAT's will begin the week of Sept. 10. There will be two coaching sessions a week, Monday evenings from 6 to 8 p.m. and Tuesday evenings from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Each student should select and attend one verbal session per week that best suits their time schedule. Coaching sessions will run for eight weeks and be free of charge to pay

Dallas High School senior.

Late registrations will be accepted for the sessions if space is available. College-bound students who plan to take the SAT's on November 3 should register in the guidance office for these coaching sessions. Anyone desiring information about the course should contact Mrs. Russin at 675-5201 ext 215.

Faculty gathers

Penn State Wilkes-Barre faculty and staff gathered for a convocation to begin the fall term. A highlight of that event were activities that helped new and "old" instructors become acquainted. Pictured here in front of Hayfield House are, from left, Dr. Thomas Winter, associate professor of physics, who returned from a sabbatical year in Texas; Mr. Joseph Caffrey, new lecturer in engineering; Jack Kolesar, professor of engineering; Niranjan S. Igunji, new lecturer in engineering; and Dr. Deborah Brassard, new assistant professor of English.

DALLAS POST

Certainly going away to college can be a rewarding and fun experience, but every student, now and then, becomes a bit lonely for the folks at home. A very welcome visitor on campus will be their hometown paper. They'll enjoy reading about all of the local happenings, the scores of local high school games, news of social happenings and much, much more! A college subscription to this newspaper makes a great "going-away gift" and is easy to arrange. Just use the handy form below and we'll speed their first issue on the way so they'll get all the news. If it's a special gift from you, let us know and we'll send them a gift card so they'll know you're really thinking about them.
