Nesbitt seeks candystripers

The fall candystripping program at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital will begin Monday, Oct. 1. All teenagers interested in volunteering their time and services should contact the hospital's Community Relations Department at 288-1411, extension 4025, by Wednesday, Sept. 19 to ensure enrollment.

The program features orientation sessions on the 25th and 26th of September when candystripers will be given a tour of the hospital, learn various hospital rules and regulations, as well as participate with an instructor in basic hospital duties. These duties include correct procedures in hospital bed making and proper care for handling patients in wheelchairs.

For nearly 20 years the Nesbitt Candystripping Program has been highly regarded, with the candystripers' service and assistance greatly appreciated throughout the hospital.

The recently completed summer program attracted more than 100 teens who participated in many hospital departments including physical therapy, radiology, and various nursing units. These candystripers learned valuable lessons in dedication, spirit and caring for others at the hospital by working with hospital staff members and patients on a daily basis.

Nesbitt Memorial Hospital's Candystripping Program continues year-round with sessions in the spring, summer and fall.

IF YOU MISSED THIS YEAR'S DALLAS POST HOMEMAKER'S SHOW, be sure to put it on your calendar for next fall. Diane Gryger, our home economist, really gave a fine show.

Throughout the show, fashions were modeled by Melba's Fashion Nook, Hickory Corners, Trucksville. The show was fantastic, featuring models of various ages modeling very wearable fashions. If you need some additions to your fall wardrobe, stop in and see Melba.
