Avon unveils ensemble at Rose Parade

A stunning floral ensemble titled "International Beauty" will be unveiled by Avon Products, Inc., the world's largest beauty company, during the 1985 New Year's Day Rose Parade which will be televised internationally.

Inspired by the theme, "Spirit of America," and the rich cultural diversity of American culture, "International Beauty" is a tribute to the contribution of eastern countries to the American melting pot.

The majestic float features 14-foot high replicas of graceful Thai dancers and Thai-American women surrounded by the blooms and petals of cattleya orchids, yellow chrysanthemums, camellias, carnations, marigolds and poinsettia flowers.

Avon was awarded the Mayor's Trophy in 1984 for the most original design. In 1983, the cosmetics firm captured the Isabella Coleman Award for the most effective total decoration, and in 1981 and 1982 won the Grand Prize for the most beautiful float of commercial entries in the parade.
