

Pro-lifers react to clinic bombings

"Violence against abortion clinics contradicts everything the pro-life movement stands for," according to leaders of the state pro-life organization. Commenting on recent clinic bombings in Maryland, Pennsylvania Pro-Life Federation President Mrs. Garnett Biviano noted the pro-life movement's goal is to bring an end to violence, the violence of abortion which daily claims the lives of 4,000 unborn children.

"For 12 years, our movement has worked to restore respect for all human life through peaceful, non-violent actions such as lobbying, educating, marching and voting. Therefore, actions which risk injuring or killing human beings, such as bombing abortion clinics, are totally alien to the goals, philosophy and methods of both the Pennsylvania Pro-Life Federation and the National Right to Life Committee, the national organization with which we are affiliated," she continued.

Denise Neary, the Federation's representative to the National Right to Life Committee, stated that no organized right to life group has ever been associated with any incidents of violence against an abortion clinic. Furthermore, she noted, the federal agency charged with investigating these incidents, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, has found no evidence of a national conspiracy linking these incidents.

Mrs. Neary remarked there have been press reports quoting clinic owners and pro-abortion spokespeople to the effect that the clinic bombings are the work of the pro-life movement.

"There is not a shred of evidence to link our nonviolent movement to these despicable acts," she stated. "Unfortunately, pro-abortion spokespeople are using these incidents to attempt to discredit the pro-life movement and to distract the public from the daily violence which is the deliberate destruction of unborn children by abortion."

Penn State program discusses women in the business world

Are professional women in business and industry taken seriously by their male counterparts? Do some college classrooms procedures put women students at a disadvantage? What kinds of family pressures must career women deal with before and after they leave their offices? How does a single mother go about re-entering the work force and developing a career?

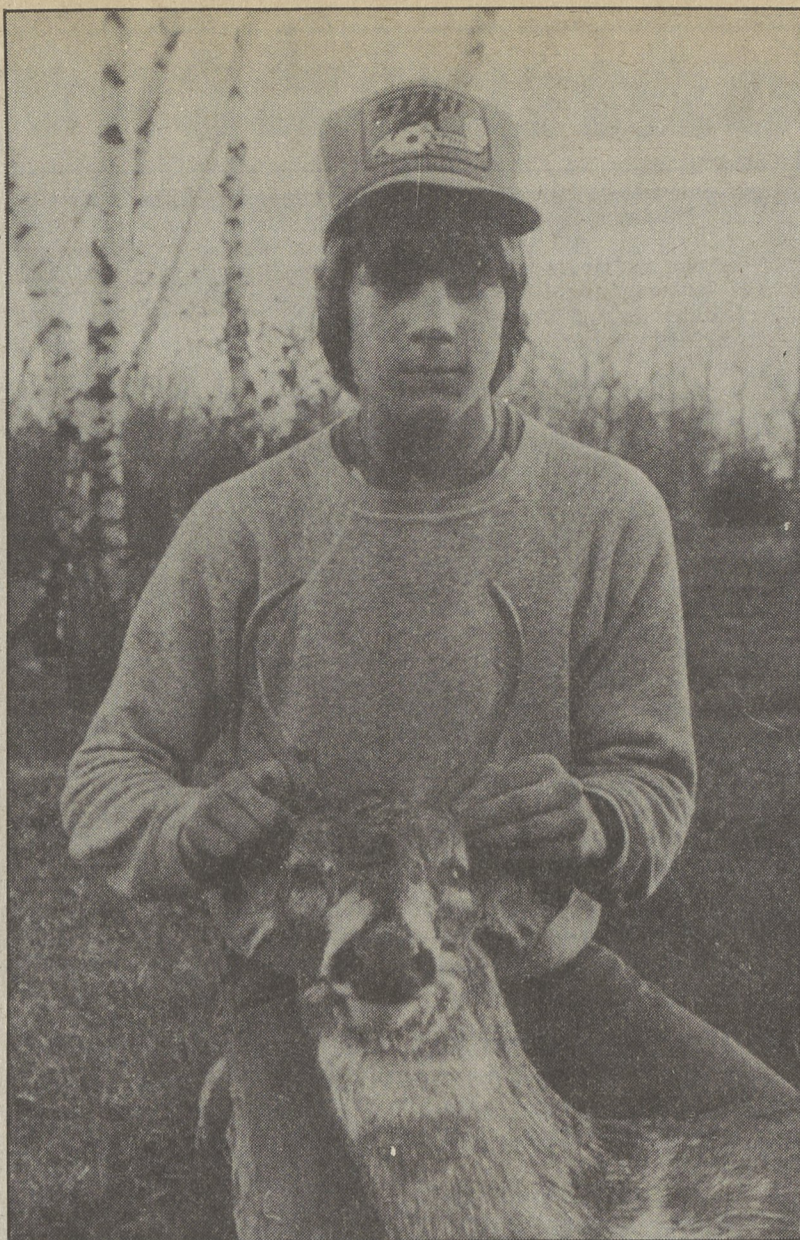

Such questions will be explored at Penn State Wilkes-Barre when its "Opportunities in Technology" program sponsors a public Symposium on Women's Issues. A panel discussion will be held in the Hayfield House on the Lehman campus tonight at 7 p.m. The public is cordially invited to both the discussion and the reception which will follow.

Panelists include 10 career women who have first hand experience with the issues to be discussed as well as a male minister who has done a great deal of related counseling. They are: Margaret Bart, training facilitator, Certain-Teed Products Corp.; Michelle Bauldoff, quality control engineer, Owens-Illinois; Noreen Bradshaw, director of personnel services, InterMetro Industries; Betty Ford, director of membership services, Penn's Wood Girl Scout Council; Joan Greulich, M.D., pediatrician, Rural Health Corp.; Nancy Huff, copy editor, Times-Leader; Darlene Johnson, mold design engineer, Owens-Illinois; Shawn Murphy, executive director Planned Parenthood; JoAnn Post, customer sales representative, Commonwealth Telephone; Patricia Rice, doctoral candidate, State University of New York at Buffalo; and Rev. Thomas Clemow, minister, Trucksville Methodist Church.

Facilitator will be Diane Hunt, coordinator of counseling services for Penn State Wilkes-Barre.

Reservations may be made by calling the campus at 675-2171, ext. 276.

Dallas Post/Ed Campbell

Bags 5-pointer

Donni Rogers, 15, is shown here with his first-ever buck — a 5-pointer that he claims to be half albino. The son of Richard and Carol Rogrs, of RD 3, Box 313-A, Dallas, Donni was hunting behind his house with his father and his 16-year-old brother, Mark, when he bagged his prize at 8 a.m. Monday. As of Monday afternoon, Donni's father and his brother were both still looking for a catch. Donni is a ninth grade student at the Dallas Junior High School. He has been hunting for three years.

Post Classifieds Sell

Dallas Post/Ed Campbell

Fitness Center opens

Ribbon-cutting ceremonies were held last Friday, marking the grand opening of the Great Beginnings Fitness Center, located in the Fernbrook Plaza. Shown here during the ceremonies are, from left, first row, Kristy Hozempa, Randy Hozempa, Jason Davis, Brian Miller, Robert Schafer, Brad Bryant Jr., Jennifer Bryant, Alyson Davis, Jeff Hozempa, Wendy Hozempa, Michelle Miller, Carie Miller, Sylvia Schafer, Philli Schafer. Second row, Mark Hozempa, Pat Hozempa, Bonnie Konigus, instructor; Josh Bryant Jr., partner; Brad Bryant, owner; Diane Bryant, owner; Loraine Hozempa, Marcus Hozempa, Gail Goss, instructor; Sandy Hanadel, instructor. Third row, Mrs. John Baur, John Baur, Ed Dubil, Carole Davis, Donna Bryant, Lori Dubil, Deanne Hozempa, Eleanor Puterbaugh, Ken Miller, Nancy Miller, Ben Baiamorts, Jean Holland, Chris Schafer.

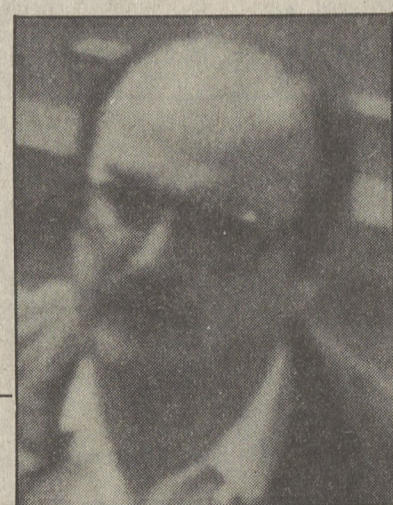

FBI seeks robbery suspect

The person depicted in the photograph at right is wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in connection with a series of bank robberies in the Delaware-Maryland-Pennsylvania area.

The FBI describes this person as white, male, 5'7", 185 pounds, brown hair with a receding hair line, a mustache, 40 to 45 years of age, wears tinted, reading-type glasses.

He has small hands, a gruff voice and appears nervous. The suspect also carries a handgun with a 2" barrel.

Anyone having any information concerning this individual should contact their local police department or the nearest office of Federal Bureau of Investigation. All calls will be handled on a strictly confidential basis.

Miss Klaips wins photo contest

Jennifer Klaips, daughter of John and Maryann Klaips, 3 Oak Drive, Dallas, was the first place winner in the 3-5 year old category of the Most Photogenic Child Contest held by Northeast Advocates (formerly Pathways) on Sunday, Nov. 11, at Pomeroy's Community Room.

Judges in the contest were Joseph Pellegrini, a student at the University of Scranton; Judy Pellegrini, chairwoman, a student at King's College; Karen Nocita, of Magic Years Child Cafe; and Gary Jordan, a student at King's College.

County courthouse comes alive with the spirit of Christmas

Celebration of the Holiday Season begins in Northeastern Pennsylvania with the festive presentations of the Ninth Holiday Fair at Luzerne County Courthouse, Wilkes-Barre on Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2.

First floor of the Courthouse will take on the appearance of an international winter wonderland as exhibits of trees and ethnic decorations overflow the south wing of the building.

Intricate handmade ornaments of the Polish, dimensional designs fashioned by the Lithuanians and unique embroidery of Ukraine and other traditional decorations will adorn the various trees.

Holiday music will open the Fair at 6:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 30 with instrumentals by the Praise Ensemble of the Blue Mountain Academy. Choral groups, soloists and dancers will highlight a continuous schedule of performances.

Holiday Fair hours are: Nov. 30, 6 to 9 p.m.; Dec. 1, a program of children's activities from 1 to 5 p.m. and Dec. 2, from 1 to 6 p.m. More information can be obtained from the Fair sponsor, the Luzerne County Tourist Promotion Agency, 35 Denison Street, Forty Fort, PA 18704; 288-6784.

The following weekend, Dec. 7, 8 and 9 will offer Candlelight Tours of two of the region's most historic homes. The Swetland Homestead, Wyoming provides a look at Christmas 100 years ago on Friday, Dec. 7 and Saturday, Dec. 8 from 6 to 9 p.m. and on Sunday, Dec. 9 from 1 to 5 p.m. The tours will be repeated on the following weekend.

A Colonial observance of the Holiday under Candlelight will take place at the Nathan Denison House, Forty Fort on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 8 and 9 at the house from 6 to 9 p.m. With minimal decoration due to Puritan influence of the 18th century, the accent will be on the food and entertainment provided house guests during the Holiday season.

Nominal admissions are charged for each of the Candlelight House Tours.

Burger King honors Davis

Ed Davis, of Hickory Hills, Dallas, a franchisee of nine locally-owned and operated Burger King Restaurants, was recently honored by Burger King Corporation for outstanding quality and service.

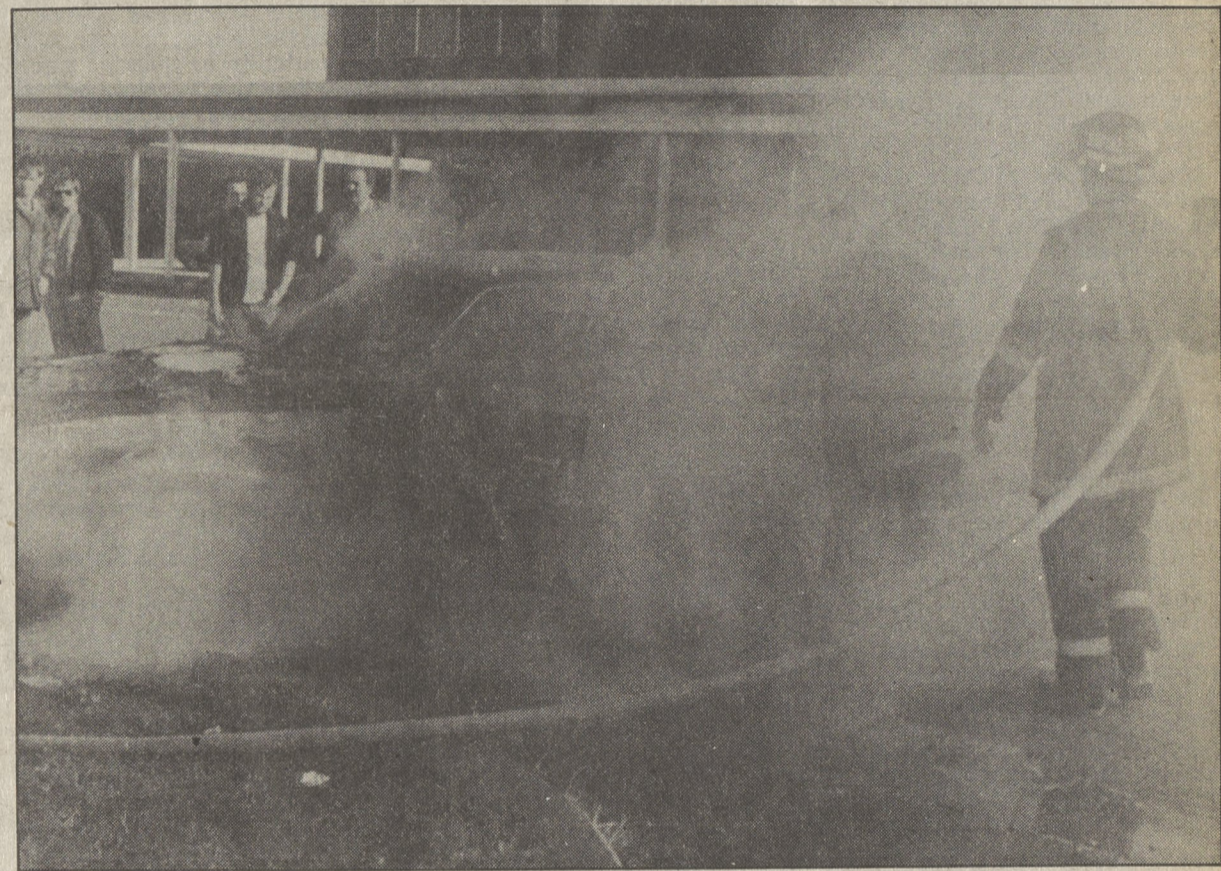

Davis as President of PDM Company, Inc., employs 550 people in the Wilkes-Barre, Scranton areas.

Burger King Corporation selected Davis' restaurants for the best operation in the Southern Division in the category for franchise operators of six or more units. The restaurants were judged on the quality of the food and service, cleanliness and several other criteria against the southern area. Davis' restaurants, rated best overall, had already won top awards in the Philadelphia Region, one of four regions in the Southern Division.

The awards were announced at the company's recent international convention in Reno, Nevada.

Burger King Corporation and its franchisees operate 4,000 restaurants worldwide, making it the second largest hamburger chain. A wholly-owned subsidiary of the Pillsbury Company, Burger King Corporation and its franchisees had systemwide sales of $3.4 billion in fiscal 1984.

Dallas Post/Ed Campbell

Auto fire

Members of the Dallas Borough Volunteer Fire Department responded to an automobile fire in the parking lot of the Dallas High School last Wednesday. The car, a 1975 Pontiac Lemans owned by Charles J. Cunningham, of 17 Baldwin Street, Dallas. Driver of the vehicle was Sharon Cunningham. Cause of the blaze was unknown.

Memorial mass conducted at Mercy Center

A memorial mass was held for the deceased members of the Mercy Center Convent Auxiliary on November 20 at the Mercy Center Chapel, Dallas.

A brief business meeting was held where plans were made for the Christmas Tea to be held on Tuesday, Dec. 11, followed by a film lecture about "The world of Deborah" given by Mr. and Mrs. William

C. Cray of Kingston.

The Deborah Heart and Lung Center which is located in Brown Mills, N.J. is a 155-bed hospital specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of heart and lung disease. The meeting was adjourned until January when the next business meeting will be held.

You are cordially invited to attend
Christmas open house at

Dale K. Myers Antiques
Route 309
Evans Falls
1-836-1582

Antiques Etcetera
65 Tunkhannock Road
Dallas
675-0665
&
Valentine's Jewelry
65 Tunkhannock Road
Dallas
675-6945

Thursday, Nov. 29th, 12-9 Saturday, Dec. 1st, 12-9
Friday, Nov. 30th, 12-9 Sunday, Dec. 2nd, 12-9

Refreshments

OLD PHOTOS ARE ALWAYS FUN TO LOOK AT

THE DALLAS POST
WANTS TO BRING
THE PAST TO LIFE
SHARE YOUR OLD PHOTOS (OF BACK MOUNTAIN BUILDINGS, SCHOOL
EVENTS OR FAMILY GROUPS)
WITH YOUR COMMUNITY

CALL DOTTY
AT 675-5211
FOR DETAILS
(ALL PHOTOS WILL BE RETURNED)

OUR OPEN HOUSE

Shirley Sagan
at
The Silo Antiques
Rt. 438, Wallsville, PA

Arlene and Tom Motter
at
The Proud Pig
Rts. 407 and 107
Fleetville, PA

Paul and Charlotte Cicon
Country Corner Antiques
Rts. 407 & 107
Fleetville, PA

Mimi Mundrake
at
The Carriage House
Rt. 407
Fleetville, PA

The Kohls
of
Lock Stock & Barrel
Rt. 407
Fleetville, PA

Come Celebrate
on
Dec. 1 Dec. 2
Sat. and Sun.
11 to 5