by donating labels or collecting labels on the school's behalf, should contact the Lower School office for additional information by calling 288-5431.

pate are urged to attend the performance of this spiritual and moving oratorio.

Drinking is big concern

AAA's "First A Friend, Then A Host" campaign reveals common misconceptions about alcohol.

"If You Drink, Don't Drive!" You really didn't expect to get through the holiday season without hearing that at least once, now did you? Better still, why not become a part of AAA's "First A Friend, Then A Host" campaign.

The more we know about drinking, the better we can handle it. The better we can decide whether, where, when, why, how much and with whom to drink.

Some of the misconceptions about alcohol and their corrections follows:

MISCONCEPTION: A person is not under the influence of alcohol until he has lost all clearness of intellect, self control, and motor control. CORRECTION: He is under the influence of alcohol when he loses any control that he would otherwise possess.

MISCONCEPTION: Alcohol is a stimulant. CORRECTION: Alcohol is a depressant.

MISCONCEPTION: You won't get as drunk on beer as by drinking other drinks that contain the same amount of alcohol. CORRECTION: Wrong! If the amount of alcohol is the same, the level of intoxication is the same. Strong drinks make standard mixed drinks appear more intoxicating than beer. Mixed drinks often contain more than the standard amount of liquor. This particularly true when people serve themselves.

Photograph corrected

A photograph of a children's Christmas party that appeared in the December 12th edition of The Dallas Post was incorrectly identified as a group from the Dallas Methodist Church.

The children in the photograph are actually members of "The Play School" which is not affiliated with the church, but rather meets in one of the church rooms.
