Decorating tree

Auxiliary completes first project

The first project of the newly formed auxiliary of The Meadows Nursing Center, Dallas, was held recently. The atmosphere in the nursing center was so warm and cheerful as over 40 volunteers arrived with platters of delicious home-baked cookies to share with the residents.

Each auxiliary member determined to make the day special for the residents. Parties were held simultaneously in the two diningrooms of the second and third floors of the nursing center with volunteers, assisted by Girl Scouts and Candystrippers serving punch and cookies, trimming the Christmas trees and visiting each resident. Many visiting family members of the residents joined in too.

Entertainment was provided by the Meadow Larks under the direction of Donald Williams. The Meadow Larks is a singing group from the Meadows Apartments. Their program of Christmas carols and seasonal songs was very well received by everyone at the party as was obvious by the toe tapping and hand clapping that accompanied them. The group was very gracious and presented their program on both floors.

Although this was the first time the auxiliary had worked together as a group, the results were excellent, and the enthusiasm of each of the volunteers and the pleasant atmosphere they produced can only lead to greater things in the future. Wouldn't you like to join us? You'll be very welcome, and you'll be glad you did!

Activities begin

Wilkes-Barre General Hospital's Auxiliary recently began its busy season of yuletide activities by decorating Christmas trees in the hospital's day rooms on each patient floor. General Hospital's Auxiliary not only decorates during the holiday season, but also coordinates various fund-raising activities throughout the year in support of General Hospital's major capital ventures. Tree

Christmas time had become widespread throughout Germany, and within another century was deep-rooted in the German culture.

Then in the Mid-1800s, the Christmas tree was introduced into England with the help of Queen Victoria's German husband Albert. In no time, putting up Christmas trees became a British tradition. The "Victorian" Christmas tree was decorated with nativity figurines, candles, ribbons, candles, paper chains and small cakes.

But the Christmas tree had already been brought over to America in the 1600s by settlers, and was a tradition here even before it was in England!

Early Americans developed a preference for certain kinds of plentiful native evergreens. That's why we generally use the balsam, fir or pine tree. Today, Christmas tree standing tall and sturdy, decorated with loving care, is a thrilling sight to children and adults alike. It brings sights and fragrances into the home that are experienced only at this time of year.

What nicer way to symbolize the magic and mystery of Christmas!
