Stephen Brewer gets full fellowship

The Austrian-American Fulbright Foundation has informed Stephen Scott Brewer that he has been awarded a full fellowship to the Vienna Conservatory of Music in Vienna, Austria. The one year fellowship will begin this September.

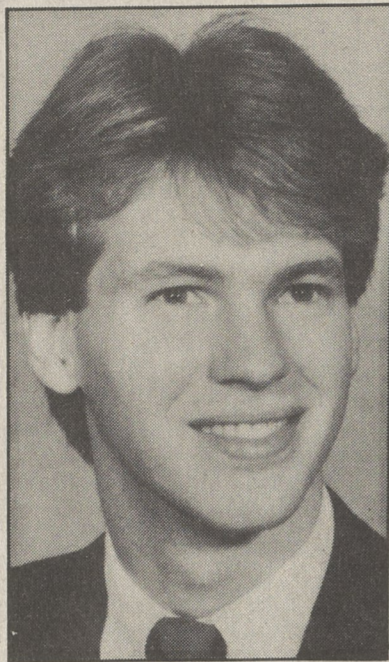

The Fulbright educational program is an international exchange scholarship program created to increase mutual understanding between people of the United States and those of other countries through the medium of educational and cultural exchange.

Stephen's selection to attend the Vienna Conservatory of Music will allow him to study in the Austrian capital city, which is the homeland of some of the greatest composers, including: Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms and Strauss.

Stephen graduated from Tunkhannock Area High School in 1979. He then entered Columbia University where he received a BA degree in French in 1983. This May he will complete his MA degree in Piano Performance at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, where for the past two years he has acted as a teaching assistant in the French Department.

His study of piano began at age 10 and soon he came under the guidance and nurturing of Mrs. Anne V. Liva of Scranton, with whom he studied until graduation from high school. During his four years at Columbia he continued piano study privately with Mr. Robert Goldsand at the Manhattan School of Music in New York City. For the past two years at USC he has been under the tutelage of Mr. John Perry.

The past 13 years have brought this young many awards and scholarships, which include a

After graduation from USC in May he will return home to present a concert for the benefit of the Wyoming County Historical Society. SALES WERE GOOD at the eighth grade bake sale held last Tuesday at all lunch periods. Profit from the sale will add to the fund for the students graduation trip to Baltimore. Thanks to all who supported the effort.

REGISTRATION FOR FIRST GRADE will take place in the school library on Thursday and Friday of this week from 9-11 a.m. and 1-2:30 p.m. First grade registrants must bring either birth or baptismal certificate and proof of immunization if they haven't attended kindergarten.

THE SEVENTH GRADE has completed work on a neat project-to make a Chinese kite. Each student was given wood and was expected to create an original kite. The kites were well done and appropriate for the strong March winds. Mrs. Kingsbury took a picture of them for the Dallas Post.

IN THEIR HISTORY CLASS, the sixth graders have finished working on a major project. The assignment was to make a turreted castle. Much time and effort went into the making of the castles which were on display at the PTG meeting last Wednesday night. Way to go!

FOURTH GRADE TEACHERS, Mrs. Wolverton and Mrs. Sesson took their classes on a field trip Friday morning to be on Hatchy Milatchy at television station WNEP. They also enjoyed a tour of the station.

AT THE PTG MEETING last Wednesday, Sister Dorothy McLaughlin, art therapist at Marywood College, spoke to the parents and teachers on the value of art as therapy for children of all ages. Sister explained how parents and teachers can meet the needs and encourage the skills of a child as these are made evident in the drawings. The classes at Gate of Heaven had interesting posters and drawings on display in the auditorium.

THE LAST GAME OF THE SEASON was played on Tuesday, March 19. The junior varsity and varsity both lost. But the junior varsity game was by far the most exciting this year. St. Jude's and our team were tied and the game went into overtime. During the next two minutes the score kept rising point by point till the Gators lost by one point. After the game the coaches argued and a technical was called on St. Jude's we got a foul shot, which would tie the game. As the ball was thrown, it hit the rim and rolled around once and as everyone watched it fell out and didn't go in the net. The game was very interesting throughout and some really good plays were made, especially by Jack Jones who made 16 baskets during the game.

Wilkes adds courses

Wilkes College recently announced plans to offer two new graduate degrees, the Master of Science in Electrical Engineering and the Master of Science in Engineering and Applied Sciences.

Wilkes President Christopher N. Breiseth made the announcement to some 100 regional industry leaders and technological and scientific faculty gathered for the College's second annual College and Industry Technology Conference. He added that formal application for approval by the Pennsylvania Department of Education had been made by letter earlier this week.

In announcing plans for the two Master of Science degrees in Engineering, Wilkes is also fulfilling the recommendation of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools. The latest evaluation team representing the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association recommended that Wilkes develop a long-range plan for its graduate programs "emphasizing engineering and computer science since equipment and superior staff already exist."

Dr. Umid R. Nejib, chairman of the department, stated "Engineering students at Wilkes have at their disposal highly sophisticated and fully equipped laboratories already equal to that of many universities."

Breiseth explained that in order to enhance scientific and technological education, the Engineering department, the department of Physics, and the department of Earth and Environmental Sciences have been formed into an interdisciplinary administrative unit in which all members of the faculty hold Ph.D. degrees in their respective fields.

Dr. Mahmoud H. Fahmy, Director of Wilkes Division of Graduate Studies, stated, "These two Master in Engineering degrees will augment the high quality graduate programs which are now being offered.
