Building models

Mr. Hrycyk's sixth grade social studies classes at Gate of Heaven of Dallas recently built models of the Muslim mosques while they were studying about the Middle East. Their studies included the Muslim people, the birth of the Islam religion and the current events of the Middle East. In addition to making models, students worked on designs that were popular in Persian rugs.

Girls urged to join Scouts

Girls living in the six county area of Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council who are five years old or in kindergarten may now join the Girl Scouts. Our Council is now registering younger girls as Daisy Girl Scouts. Until now the youngest Girl Scouts were six years old or in first grade.

sents the first change in the minimum age for girl members since 1973 and the first major revision of Girl Scout age levels in 21 years.

The new age level was named for the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Gordon Low, whose childhood nickname was Daisy. It repre-

"The decision to serve younger girls was reached after years of extensive study and nationwide pilot projects," said Mrs. Sally Williams, president of Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council.

Daisy Girl Scouting can be the happy next step in growing up.
