Twenty-two hits proves too much for Hazleton girls

By CHARLOT M. DENMON
Staff Correspondent

Dallas hurler Tracey Cave gave up only five hits while her teammates came through with 22 hits to rout the Hazleton nine, 22-3, last Friday.

Third baseman Joyce Tinner led the attack at the plate with a home run and two triples. Heidi Scholz had two doubles and two singles while Jill Radzinski knocked out a single, double and triple. The Mountaineers had a total of nine extra base hits in addition to 15 singles.

Joan Hilstolsky drove out a triple and two singles, Chris Legenz hit a triple and a single, Tammy Daveski tapped out two singles and Lisa Gable added a double.

Cave ran her record on the mound to 7-2, fanning five and walking two.

The Mountaineers scored five runs in the first inning and after scoring one run in the second and two in the third broke loose for seven runs in the fourth. The game was halted in the bottom of the fifth under the 10-run rule.

Wednesday afternoon, the Lady Mountaineers hosted GAR and behind Cave's two-hit pitching trounced the Grenadiers 14-4, pushing eight runs across home plate in the third inning. They scored one run in the first and second innings, one in the fourth and clinched the game for good in the sixth when the game was ended under the 10-run rule.

Heidi Scholz and Kim Rinehimer led the Mountaineers with three hits each followed by Tinner, Radzinski and Legenz with two hits each.

Cave struck out three and walked five while picking up the win. Kim Skrepnek took the loss for GAR, fanning two and walking six.

COUGHLIN WINS
Coughlin Crusaders edged Dallas 6-5, Monday, when Renee Creazzo hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning to send Carolyn Kenzakoski home with the tie-breaker. The Mountaineers were unable to score in the top of the sixth and seventh and the Crusaders chalked up the win.

The Lady Mountaineers took a 4-0 lead at the end of two innings, but Coughlin exploded for five runs in the third inning to go in front by one. Dallas girls tied the score at 5-5 in the top of the fifth on Jill Radzinski's homerun off pitcher Natalie Gripp. It was Radzinski's triple that drove in two runs for the Mounts in the second inning, then she scored a third run. Radzinski also drove out a double in the game.

Cave was the losing pitcher for Dallas, fanning one and walking five.

KNIGHTS AT 9-3
The Lake-Lehman Knights had a good week adding three wins to their league record to 9-3.

Pitcher Beth Finn struck out five and walked 15 in Wednesday's game with Bishop O'Reilly, but she drove out a grand slam homer in the nine-run second inning to lead her Knights to a 24-9 rout of the Queenswomen. The Knights scored three runs in the first, three in the third and seven in the fourth to clinch the win under the 10-run rule.

Cindy Slocum aided with home runs, one a three-run around the bases in the fifth and Kelly Wandel smacked out a two-run home run in fifth inning.

Larissa Bergevin was the losing pitcher for O'Reilly with seven walks and no strikeouts.

HURLS NO-HITTER
In Tuesday's game with Pittston Area, Finn hurled her third no-hit contest of the season to lead the Lady Knights to a 12-0 shutout over the visiting Patriots. She fanned six and walked six while upping her record to 4-3.

Finn also hit three-for-three at home plate for the Knights, who scored two runs in the first, six in the second and four in the third for their dozen runs.

Kelly Wandel also went three-for-three, two of them singles and a triple. She also scored three of the Knights' runs. Cindy Slocum and Lori Pantle each drove out a three-bagger and both had two-for-three at the plate. Noel Kuznicki had a double and a RBI in the six-run inning.

Charney was the losing hurler for the Patriots, fanning two and walking two.

SLOCUM LEADS
The Knights hosted Northwest, Monday afternoon, in Wyoming Valley Conference action and rallied behind Cindy Slocum's grand slam in the sixth inning to nip the Rangers 13-11.

Going into the bottom of the sixth inning, the Knights were behind, 11-8, but Slocum hit her fifth homer of the season to put the Knights in the lead for the rest of the game.

Sandy Diction went in as relief for hurler Beth Finn and pitched the final six innings, fanning five and walking 14.

Lisa Sherrick went two-for-two at the plate, one of them a triple, and Robin Confer hit two-for-five, both girls coming through in their big innings. Their hits coupled with the Rangers taking advantage of the 19 walks issued by the Lake-Lehman hurlers gave Northwest their 11 runs.

Kormas was the losing hurler for Northwest, fanning two and walking nine.

The Lady Knights lead the Wyoming Valley Conference Division II, one game in front of GAR.

Race winners

Family Service awards 48 trophies, medals

There were 48 trophies and medals awarded in the 5-Mile "Run For The Family," which honored the Family Service Association of Wyoming Valley on its 90th Anniversary. But the top prizes went to members of the Rawls family.

Mike Rawls, Mountaintop, placed first in the 5-mile race in Forty Fort, on Sunday, April 28, with a time of 26 minutes and 10 seconds. His sister-in-law, Gloria Rawls, finished first among the women, running 30:40. And Ron and Gloria Rawls, Trucksville, took first place in the husband and wife division.

In the 1-Mile Fun Run for children, the first place winner was Joe Zanta, age 14, of Wyoming, Karen Dukes, 11 years old of Pocono Trailer Court, took first prize for the girls.

Runners came from as far away as Pittsburgh to participate in the race which benefited Family Service. Whole families, with children as young as 4 years to fathers as old as 61, turned out for the "Run For The Family."

Numerous sponsors, such as Sport-Jes of Plymouth and First Eastern Bank, backed the Family Service celebration run. Even water in bottles to hand to the runners was donated, courtesy of the Endless Mountain Water Co., Tunkhannock.

Chairperson of the "Run For The Family" was Beth Ann Delaney.

STRIKES AND SPARES

With the arrival of May the leagues at Bonomo's Lanes in Dallas begin their championship rollofs for the season and members turn their attention to plans for the end of the year banquets and dinner-dances. Some of the leagues have closed out the 1984-85 season while others have only a week or two remaining.

In the Imperialette League the girls have only one week of league play and the rolloff for the league title before going their separate ways for the summer. Last week Scavone Motors took three from Hoof 'N Paw led by K. Scavone's 182 (480) to remain in competition for the championship.
