POLICE BLOTTER

A Pringle man attempting to swat a bee buzzing around inside his car Saturday afternoon slammed into the rear of another vehicle on Route 309 near the Dallas Shopping Center, Dallas Township police reported.

According to the police report, John Vasicek of 57 Cooper St., lost control of his vehicle and collided with a car operated by George Makinson of 37 Slocum St., Forty Fort. Makinson was stopped at the intersection of Routes 309 and 415 when the accident occurred.

No serious injuries were reported.

A Shavertown woman was treated for minor cuts and bruises at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital last Thursday afternoon after the car she was driving was hit from behind by a motorist near the intersection of Route 309 and Main Street, Dallas.

Injured was Theresa McCarty of Fieldcrest Road, Shavertown.

Dallas police report that Anthony Baldo of 131 Inman Ave., Shavertown was attempting to pass a vehicle and turned into the passing lane while approaching the Route 309 and Main Street intersection. Baldo reportedly applied his brakes but could not stop and slammed into McCarty, who was stopped waiting to make a left-hand turn onto Main Street.

Witness Robert Conroy of 75 West Oak St., Pittston, said Baldo passed his vehicle while approaching the intersection and that he was driving approximately 45-50 miles per hour.

No other injuries were reported and no charges were filed, Dallas police said.

Two Dallas residents were involved in a rear-end collision near the Hoagie Bar on Route 309 in Dallas last Thursday afternoon, Dallas police Chief Ed Lyons reported.

Dorothy Kolankiewicz of 16 Woodcliff Drive, Dallas was traveling south on 309 in the driving lane and applied her brakes in order to allow a car in front of her to change from the driving lane to the passing lane.

As Kolankiewicz applied her brakes, Christine Hischman of RD 1, Dallas rammed into the rear of the Kolankiewicz vehicle.

Both Dallas residents were treated at Nesbitt Memorial Hospital and released after suffering minor injuries.

A Shavertown man, traveling the wrong way on a one-way road, slammed head-on into another vehicle on an exit road on the College Misericordia Campus, last Friday Dallas Township police report.

According to the police report, John Shemo of 146 Shadetree St., Shavertown was traveling in the wrong direction along the Misericordia exit road near the college's administration building when he slammed into a vehicle operated by Nancy Dolan of 27 Center stree, Forty Fort.

No serious injuries were reported.

BAY WINDOW SHOPS

By KATHY SUDA
Staff Correspondent

If you're looking for a gift for someone who has everything, or for something unusual to add just the right touch to that empty spot in your home, then look no further than the Bay Window Shops on East Overbrook Road in Shavertown.

The Bay Window Shops is a large remodeled barn containing 10 little areas of shops stocked full of handcrafted articles and antiques. Ann Parkhurst, the owner and originator of the Bay Window Shops, found enough people interested in opening their own section of the Bay Window Shops and opened in October of 1983. She is a fine artist in her own right and sells her work at the Shops. In fact, all of the 10 shop owners are talented in their own way.

Each shop inside the three-floor, refurbished barn specializes in something different. "Nothing Fancy" stocks hand-painted country wooden pieces and lampshades. "Pennsylvania" is in the upstairs of the Bay Window and here you can find beautifully restored furniture decorated in an old Pennsylvania Amish motif.

If you're looking for a different look in clothing, the "Painted Threads" shop is something to see. Sweatshirts and more are pieces of art and are something you won't find at one of the downtown stores. "Uniquely Yours" has smocked children's clothing sporting remarkable workmanship.

In the basement, there is "Whimsy," which has handpainted wooden folk art and also gourmet foods. "The Niche" exclusively sells potpourri and herbs. A few feet away is the "Willow Tree" where you can find imported yarns and quilted articles.

"The Doll Cottage," located on the first floor, sells imported and unusual dolls, teddy bears and other toys. "Hand Painted With Love" is where you'll find antiques and beautiful hand painted articles.

Also, upstairs at the Bay Window Shops, antique jewelry is for sale.

One of the nicest things about the handcrafted items sold at the Bay Window Shops, if you see something you like but you would prefer it in a different color, or with a different design, it can be ordered and custom made to your taste.

The Bay Window Shops are holding their second annual Teddy Bear Day on Sunday, Sept. 29, from 1 to 6 p.m. Craftspeople will be on hand along with food stands. There will be a teddy bear contest with prizes. The proceeds will be used to help the Nay Aug Park Zoo in Scranton.

The Bay Window Shops are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursdays until 8:30 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

DISTRICT COURT REPORT

A Wyoming woman will face charges of recklessly endangering another person and terrorist threats on Oct. 15 before District Justice Earl Gregory stemming from an incident where the woman allegedly pointed a handgun at a Pittston man.

According to a complaint filed by Charles Iacona of 110 Searle St., Pittston, defendant Elizabeth Woolard of RD 3 Wyoming pointed a handgun at Iacona and told him to leave her property.

The parcel located on Coon Road in Franklin Township is jointly owned by Iacona and Woolard. Neither property owner allows the other on the property without permission.

Gregory said the trouble between the two property owners has been "going on for some time." Iacona reportedly has filed numerous harassment charges against Woolard at Gregory's office over the past year.

Iacona alleges in his complaint that Woolard pointed a handgun at him and she told him to get off "her" property or he would be sorry. Iacona then left the property and filed charges against Woolard at District Justice Gregory's office.

A Harveys Lake man will face a bad check complaint on Oct. 9 before Justice Gregory for allegedly writing a bad check for $634.94 to Russ Major's Cycle Shop.

According to the complaint, Conrad Hislop paid for a Yamaha three-wheel recreation vehicle with the check even though the account had been closed.

BACK MOUNTAIN HAS ITS OWN GAME

PLAYING GAMES — "Back Mountain Game" Chairman Joe Rubbico (left) looks on as Back Mountain Jaycee Secretary, Craig Tupper makes a roll of the dice while playing the new "Back Mountain Game". Back Mountain Jaycees are promoting the game, which is similar to "Monopoly". Seated onlookers are: Bill Sutton, representative for Daring's Market, purchaser of the first space on the board. Also seated next to Craig is Bob Kelley, president of the Back Mountain Jaycees.

BACK MOUNTAIN HAS ITS OWN GAME!

"BACK MOUNTAIN!" Move aside, "Monopoly". Leave us alone, "Life". There's a new game in town — "The Game of the Back Mountain".

Yes, it's true. There is a new board game stirring our fair town. Actually, its name is "The Game of the Back Mountain". The board resembles the one used for "Monopoly" except the properties aren't "Marvin Gardens" or "Boardwalk", but the names of Back Mountain businesses and industries. And the money involved is more than "Monopoly" originators ever dreamed of using.

Participants are allowed to enter the complex world of business "dealing and wheeling". You can buy and sell local properties with impunity. You can own a gas station, take over Daring's Market or get into the fashionable world of clothing.

The game is simple enough for anyone to learn in five minutes. There will only be room for 30 businesses. Any business wishing to insure its inclusion in the board may contact Craig Tupper, 675-4027.
