Plenty of room

The Castle Inn, located on the Dallas Highway between the center of Dallas and the inlet to Harveys Lake, has plenty of room to accommodate large groups for dinner.

Castle Inn popular for 50 years now

By CHARLOT M. DENMON
 Staff Correspondent

For more than half a century, Castle Inn located on the Harveys Lake Highway midway between Dallas and the inlet to the lake has been a popular spot for dining.

Residents of the local area as well as people from surrounding counties are familiar with the excellent cuisine served by past and present owners and return regularly for one or more of the specials.

The two-story, partially stone structure provides an atmosphere pleasing to everyone. For a small family or club wishing to celebrate a birthday, anniversary, or retirement, there is the fireside room where dining can be in privacy without the bother of preparation or serving. For those diners just out for the evening, there is the grill room, with its Old London lanterns, brass candlesticks and huge stone fireplace reminding one of a rustic hunting lodge. High-backed, red-leather upholstered booths along the wall afford privacy for groups of two or four while in the center of the room larger parties can be accommodated at the tables with low-back chairs.

A large diningroom with a small service bar is ideal for weddings and banquets and for groups of 200 or more the owners, Allen Roberts, and his son, Allen, Jr., can accommodate them at their Independence Ballroom, Kingston.

For years, the Castle Inn has been famous for its Italian-American cuisine and the Roberts family has continued that reputation. In addition, there are also a variety of other delicious specials as well as the regulars. All food is prepared on the premises and each entree is prepared to order under the watchful eye of Allen Roberts, Jr., who shares the culinary duties.

Beef lovers come to the Castle for prime rib where either a "his" or "her" cut is available and the meat done exactly to order, so succulent it literally "melts" in one's mouth. Veal connoisseurs will find no fault with the Veal Piccata smothered with mushrooms and blended in lemon butter sauce, or the Veal Ala Pallazzo, sauteed in mushrooms, onions, spinach and bacon and served with Alfredo sauce.

Pork and lamb are also on the menu at the Castle and offered in a variety of ways, some of the favorites being the stuffed pork loin, or the rack of fresh baked lamb.

Roast duck is still a popular entree with diners at the Castle but Allen recommends that diners call in advance for this delicacy in order to allow time for proper preparation.

There are plenty of seafood items or chicken entrees for the diners who do not want red meat. From lobster, king crab, flounder, shrimp, to Coq Au Vin, Chicken Parmagiana or Roast Turkey - there is an entree for everyone, each as delicious as the other.

Clams Casino, shrimp cocktail, stuffed mushrooms, a variety of juices, are just a few of the appetizers on the menu and to complete dinner, there are homemade desserts such as Apple Crisp, rice pudding, strawberry shortcake, cheesecake, peanut butter pie, and sometime Baklava.

Castle Inn is one of the few dining places where two vegetables are served family style with dinners as well as a condiment tray and a tray of fresh, Italian bread.

Each day specials are featured - always appetizers and entrees that are favorites and gourmet.

The Castle also caters to birthdays and if you celebrate your birthday at the Castle, you'll receive your dinner free if you have advance reservations and proper identification. Go and take your family and friends. Make it an evening of enjoyment and gourmet dining.

If you want something special, just contact the staff in advance. If at all possible, they will be happy to prepare your favorite meal for you. Just call and make reservations, Tuesday through Saturday, 5 p.m. to 10 p.m.
