Program begins

Dallas resident Ann Russin is among those participating in a cooperative effort between Home-Health Services of Luzerne County and the Wilkes College Department of Nursing. Through the six week program, nursing students are able to learn firsthand about caring for patients in their own homes. Mrs. Russin, an Assistant Professor of Nursing at Wilkes College, serves as the Supervisor of the students during this field experience which acquaints them with the continually expanding role of home care in the health care industry. Shown above in the first row, from left, are Laurence McGrady, Associate Service Director and Mary Krlc, Director of Patient Services of Home-Health Services of Luzerne County; Colleen Smith, Cheryl Thornton, and Ann Russin. Second row, Teresa Miller, Linda Fritz, Terry Mulherin and Eleanor Hoover.

Funds donated

The Pennsylvania Loyal Order of Moose have donated $21,000 to the three state chapters of the Arthritis Foundation. The funds were raised in a statewide effort by dozens of local Moose lodges, each of whom has made arthritis their primary charitable concern.

The donation was presented in Philadelphia by Leonard Phillips and James Fleming, Central and Western Pennsylvania representatives of the Moose. F. Richard Hammel, Jr., Board Chairman of the Arthritis Foundation's Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter, accepted the donation on behalf of the Eastern, Central and Western Pennsylvania Chapters of the Foundation.

The money will be used to support ongoing community programs, patient services and medical research.
