Program held

The Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Our Lady of Czestochowa Assembly observed its communion Sunday at St. Martha's Catholic Church, Fairmount Springs with a corporate communion and breakfast on Sunday, Oct. 6. Rev. Richard Zavacki, pastor of St. Martha's Church, was principal celebrant of the 10 a.m. Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. After the Mass, breakfast was served by the ladies of the parish in the parish hall. Sunday, Oct. 6, also marked the beginning of the 1985-86 Respect Life program, which is a major church activity of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Our Lady of Czestochowa Assembly. The message of the Respect Life program is, as it has been, that human life must be protected at every stage of its existence. Sir Knight Stephen Wasilko served as general chairman. Shown here, from left, are Faithful Navigator Edward F. Mark, Our Lady of Czestochowa Assembly and Grand Knight Harry Beck, Father O'Leary Council, Dallas.

Eckmans appointed chairmen

Announcement has been made by Thomas P. Shelburne, President of the Philharmonic Society, of the appointment of Hanford and Phyllis Eckman to the Chairmanship of this year's Annual Campaign.

In his announcement Mr. Shelburne also stated, "The Annual Campaign is necessary to sustain current programs and ensure the artistic growth and development of the Orchestra. As is the case with all professional performing arts organizations throughout the United States, ticket income from a sold-out house covers less than half the cost of production."

Mr. and Mrs. Eckman bring to the Annual Campaign a total of 10 years of experience as fund raisers for the Orchestra. In addition, each is well known in the community for service to other philanthropic and educational institutions. Phyllis has been active with United Way for many years, and Hanford presently serves on the Board of Trustees of College Misericordia and is a member of the Advisory Committee of the Penn State Technical Center.

In accepting the Campaign Chairmanship, Mr. Eckman stated, "I believe the Orchestra is a great community asset and cultural activity. It exposes the community to fine artists and music. The community would not be complete without it."

Mrs. Eckman added, "It has been a pleasure to see our Philharmonic develop into a first rate Orchestra. Personal and community support will assure the continuation of this fine orchestra so that all of us will have the opportunity to enjoy fine 'live' music now and in the future."

Mr. and Mrs. Eckman are graduates of Purdue University. Mrs. Eckman is a retired pharmacist and Mr. Eckman is President of ENCON in Dallas. The Eckmans who reside in Dallas, are the Parents of Elizabeth Lloyd, Peter Eckman, and Charles Eckman.

Hospital participates

Employees of Wilkes-Barre General Hospital support the American Red Cross Services program by participating in 10 blood collections each year. The collections, held at the hospital, give employees a convenient opportunity to donate and to assist the Red Cross in maintaining adequate blood supplies for the region.

A number of employees have become one, two, three, or four-gallon donors so far this year. Others have earned recognition as Deca donors by donating blood five times in one year. In the first half of the year, 42 employees have been recognized for their efforts.

As the largest community general hospital in northeastern Pennsylvania, General is also one of the largest consumers of American Red Cross blood products. Area residents who have been recognized for their donation record at General so far this year include the following: Beverly Moyer, Dallas; Lamort Holdsworth, Harveys Lake; Gary McDade, Dallas; Diane Pavilikowski, Harveys Lake.

Cleaning up? Be sure to get shots

Individuals doing post-flood cleanup should have their tetanus immunization status up-to-date. There is an increased risk for these persons if they receive puncture wounds, cuts or abrasions that cause a break in the skin.

Tetanus booster shots should be acquired every 10 years.

Tetanus spores can be introduced into the body through wound contaminated with soil.

Prophylaxis in wound management is based on careful determination and assessment of whether the wound is clean or contaminated, the immune status of the patient, proper use of tetanus toxoid and or tetanus immune globulin, wound cleaning and the proper use of antibiotics.

Natural disasters, like floods, which cause many traumatic injuries in unimmunized populations will result in an increased need for tetanus toxoid for injured patients.

Individuals with wounds contaminated by soil from the flood should contact their private physician or go to the emergency room of their local hospital.
