THE DALLAS POST/Wednesday, October 23, 1985 16

Community Calendar

(Continued from page 15)

ance

The Mother-To-Be Program's services include regular monthly examinations, blood work and ultrasound procedures. An eight week prenatal education program is available to parents providing information about natural childbirth and care of the newborn. It is completed with a six weeks check-up after discharge from the hospital.

For more information on the Mother-To-Be Program, contact Nesbitt Memorial Hospital's Obstetrics Department at 288-8959.

THE DOMESTIC VIOLENCE SERVICE CENTER (DVSC) is currently running on-going, drop-in support groups in Wilkes-Barre for women who are victims of abusive relationships

The DVSC provides emergency shelter, which is a safe, confidential refuge for battered women and their children at any time of the day or night. It also has a 24-hour Hotline, providing battered women in the community with immediate access to DVSC services and information regarding spouse abuse. In addition, the DVSC offers supportive option counseling, legal advocacy, children's services and community education.

The support groups are open to any woman experiencing violence in her life. The support groups are designed as a self-help group for women to share feelings with one another in an attempt to cut the isolation and fear which are common characteristics of an abusive relationship. The groups will present women with an opportunity to explore options available to them. They will also provide women with a format for making decisions and will offer them the support needed to follow through on their decisions. Women will also learn to cope with difficult and new feelings and understand the relationship they are

These groups are run on Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Child care arrangments can be made. For further information, call the DVSC Hotline, at 823-7312. (Hazleton 455-9971).

TODAY, MANY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, as well as a growing number of adults who are planning to attend college, are concerned about costs, available programs, and financial aid eligibility.

In an effort to assist those area residents who are interested in pursuing a college education, Luzerne County Community College, in conjunction with the Luzerne County Counselors Association, will sponsor a College Night Program on Thursday, Oct. 24, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the college gymnasium on the main campus in Nanticoke.

This year's event, marking the questions about admissions requirements, distribute information on career and curriculum offerings, and outline federal and state financial aid program.s

Among those who will be in attendance are Temple University, Princeton University, Albright Col-lege, University of South Carolina, Stevens Institute of Technology, Thomas Jefferson University, Air Force ROTC, and Shippensburg University

Also Hood College, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, SUNY College of Technology, Allen-town Hospital School of Nursing, Virginia Military Institute, and Westminster College.

The College Night Program is open to the public free of charge. For more information contact the LCCC Admissions Office by calling 829-7338

Theater

FIVE PRIZE-WINNING SHORT FILMS will be featured in a two-day festival, Nov. 7 and 8 at the Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus in Lehman.

Sponsored by Arts at Hayfield, the event will feature the winner in each of the five categories of the Buck's County Film Festival's Third National Independent Film Competition. This will be the premier public exhibition of the winning films.

Showings will be at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 7, and at 11 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 8, in lecture hall 101 of the Science Building. According to the Professor Robert Merrill, who is coordinator of the program at Penn State Wilkes-Barre, each showing will take approximately two hours with none the individual prize-winning films lasting more than 30 minutes.

He said that the public is welcome to join with the campus community for the viewing and that a nominal contribution will be requested to help defray rental costs. Refreshments will be available through the campus' Kiwanis service organization, Circle K.

Concerts

THE PHILHARMONIC LEAGUE OF WILKES-BARRE and Penn State Wilkes-Barre are jointly sponsoring a series of music-appreciation lectures, preceding the concerts by the Northeastern Pennsylvania Philharmonic. The second lecture of the Fall Series will be held from 7-8 p.m., Oct. 25, at Kirby Health Center on North Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre. The lectures will be seated for the 8:30 p.m. concert in Irem Temple. Ted and Mary Lou Veremeychik, musicians with the Philharmonic and faculty members at College Misericordia will lead that evening's pre-concert lecture which pertains to the orchestra's program of the evening.

officials will be on-hand to answer contact: Tobi Grossman, Continuing Education Office, Penn State Wilkes-Barre, phone 675-2171.

Seminars

WILKES COLLEGE THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGINEER-ING and the Ben Franklin Technology Center of Lehigh University will sponsor a seminar entitled, "Acid Precipitation: Sources, Conse-quences and Solutions," on Thurs-day, Oct. 24 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Stark Lorenter Description the Stark Learning Center Room 1. Featured speaker for the event is Dr. Hans Pfeiffer, Manager, Technology Assessment, Pennsylvania Power and Light, Inc.

This seminar is the third to be offered in the Wilkes College Department of Engineering's Advanced Technology Seminar Series. The series brings individuals from the scientific community onto the Wilkes College campus to discuss current technological advancements and issues. Seminars are open to the public, free of charge.

The Advanced Technology Seminar Series continues on November 7. Scheduled to speak is Dr. Mark Kryder, Professor of Electrical and Computer Engineering at Carnegie-Mellon University. Marker's topic will be "Magneto-Optical Recording.'

THE ABC'S OF FOUNDATION FUNDING is the topic of a seminar being sponsored by the Economic Development Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania (EDCNP) on October 31, 1985. The Council was designated as local affiliate of the Foundation Center in August, 1984. The Foundation Center is a national organization coordinating research materials on foundation funding and providing a library of resources and technical assistance to help achieve success in the field of foundation sources.

The seminar will be held at Convention Hall, Pittston Township and will begin at 11 a.m. and adjourn at 3 p.m. The registration fee of $15.00 will include luncheon and handouts. Please make checks payable to EDCNP

Anyone interested in further information or registration, please contact Lynne Breza of the Council staff, 1151 Oak street, Pittston, Pa. 18640-3795, or call (717) 655-5581, ext. 330.

THE POETRY AND THE MYSTI-CISM of the controversial English writer, D.H. Lawrence, will be the subject of a free seminar Thursday, Oct. 24, on the Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus in Lehman.

Deborah Brassard, assistant professor of English, will share her research on Lawrence in the first of this fall's Faculty Lecture Series. adjourn in time for participants to All the programs in the series are open to the public without charge. All lectures are on Thursday at 4 p.m. in Hayfield House. Lawrence, who wrote Lady Chatterley's Lover, Women in Love and other novels, short stories and essays, began his literary career as a poet. One collection of his poetry 'Pansies'' was banned as immoral For information and registration on its first publication but his best

Bash planned

All college students in the area are invited to a Halloween Bash Saturday, Oct. 26 at 8:30 p.m. at College Misericordia co-sponsored by the baseball teams of Penn State Wilkes-Barre and Misericordia. Tickets may be purchased a the door. The dance is the finale of a Friday-Saturday fall activity weekend that begins Friday, Oct. 25 with a hayride and bonfire on the Penn State campus in Lehman. The activities will take place on Friday from 11 a.m. till 2 p.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. that day with the hayride. The Penn State Club of Wyoming Valley is sponsoring a bonfire and party with refreshmetns at 7 p.m. Friday. On Saturday, the big activity is the Halloween Bash where dance music will be provided by The Great Rock Scare. Committee members from Misericordia and Penn State are shown here. From left, first row, Judy Major, student activities director at College Misericordia; Nancy Narcum, assistant student affairs coordinator at Penn State Wilkes-Barre; Lynn Shedlock, Cindee Burleigh, Carrie Hughes and Laura Kuczura, all Penn State students. Second row, Pete Meshinski, Ken Kachmar, Larry Wesneski in the Nittany Lion suit, all PSU students; Attorney Ed Hosey, president of the Penn State Club; Charles Mantione, PSU, and Bill Garrison, Misericordia student. Absent at the time of the photo were Jack Monick, coach of the baseball team at PSU; Dennis Fisher, coach at Misericordia; Clem Maslow, Sally Sagenkahn, Dave Crimes, Len Gavenonis, Jim Anzalone, Leo Corbett, Fred Shupnik and Dr. James Ryan, all Penn State Club members.

mals and plants. According to Dr. Brassard, Lawrence's poetic imagery is an extension of his personal philosophy which contains many Eastern mystical ideas. She noted that in his essays he is quite specific about his belief plants and animals are inherently at one with the universe while humans only obtain that "higher state of being" when they are not in a conscious state.

Exhibits

of Wilkes College will feature a new exhibit entitled "Inro, Netsuke, Oki-College through Saturday, Nov. 2. Mosque, 52 N. Franklin St., Wilkes-Barre.

feature motifs from ancient Japanese fables and myths. Following its run at the Wilkes of their works.

College Sordoni Art Gallery, "Inro, Netsuke, Okimono'' will be shown at he Bucknell Center Gallery. The exhibit can be viewed at Wilkes through December 1, Monday through Friday 12 p.m. to 5 p.m., p.m. Thursday evenings until 9 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibit is open to the public, free of charge.

W. Gildea and J. Keats Hatcher will THE SORDONI ART GALLERY be held in the Kilburn Room of the by the Ladies of Irem Temple known poems are in free verse and deal with the inner nature of ani-in the collection. Many of the pieces the artists. They said that Knarr's Bridge in Bear Creek Township serves as the inspiration for many

More information on the exhibit can be obtained by contacting

PLANS HAVE BEEN COM-PLETED for a Arts and Crafts Show to be held Saturday, Nov. 2, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 3, A COMBINED EXHIBIT OF 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Irem Temple PAINTINGS by area artists Brian Mosque, 52 N. Franklin St., Wilkes-Barre. The show is being sponsored 12th anniversasry of the program, will provide high school students, parents and adults with an opportunity to meet with representatives from approximately 90 colleges, universities, hospitals, post-secondary technical schools, and armed services.

According to Francis Curry, associate director of admissions and recruitment at LCCC, the college mono" through December 1. This collection of Japanese objects was formerly in the collection of Senator the public free of admission Andrew J. Sordoni, for whom the Gallery was named.

Inro are decorated boxes carried by Japanese men. Inro are attached days and Sundays. to sashes by small netsuke, pieces to sashes by small netsuke, pieces The exhibit will consist primarily of carved ivory or wood one to two of paintings of landscape and floral inches in length. Larger statuettes, scenes, mostly of wooded areas of

Part of the Cultural Events Series

The show is being sponsored by at King's, the exhibit will be open to the Ladies of Irem Temple. Over 70 vendors will display their wares for charges. Hours for the exhibit will the two-day affir. A Kiddie Corner, be 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays to foods and ample parking will be Fridays and noon to 8 p.m. Saturavailable. The public is invited.

> James O. Brokenshire, Chief Rabban of Irem Temple is General Chairman.

