Girl Scouts celebrate 75th anniversary

Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council is looking for its roots. Next year, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. will celebrate the 75th anniversary of its founding by Juliette Gordon Lowe, and in two years, our Council will celebrate its 25th anniversary. Sadly, all the Council history was washed away by Hurricane Agnes in 1972.

Sally Jervis, Executive Director of Penn's Woods, can still see the scene she found in the Council Office on Wyoming Avenue in Kingston. The flood waters had swirled through the office, undermining the building and opening a huge hole in the floor. She felt her way around the edge of that hole in the dark, to get into her inner office, where she was able to retrieve a brief case with the only financial records that existed for the Council.

Everything else—pictures, uniforms, old copies of SPLINTERS, minutes of Board meetings, newspaper clippings, correspondence, membership records, registrations etc., were all lost.

Losing all of the history makes it hard to celebrate the happy beginnings of Girl Scouting in Penn's Woods. A 75th anniversary and a 25th anniversary usually mean saluting the founders, the early leaders, and those early Girl Scouts. Penn's Woods Council has none of the records to work from, to make those salutes possible.

As planning begins for the big anniversary celebrations, Penn's Woods is appealing to women throughout the Council. Were you ever a Girl Scout? Do you remember songs, games, old uniforms, hve pictures from Camp Wildwood at Harveys Lake, Camp Onowanda near Tunkhannock, Camp JoyLo in Hobbie or Camp Springside in Port Clinton? Do you have any mome-tos of the old Wyoming Valley Girl Scout Council, Anthracite Council, Bloomsburg-Columbia County Council, or the Schuylkill Council? These were the forerunners of Penn's Woods Girl Scout Council and were combined with lone troops in different areas 23 years ago, to form the Council as we know it today. Dig in your attic, your old snapshot albums, any palce that you save your treasures. And if you find Girl Scout memorabilia, please share it with us. Help us to build the Penn's Woods Honor Role recognizing the pioneers of Girl Scouting.

Contact Ellie Kandler Rodda at the Council Office, 10 South Sherman Street, Wilkes-Barre, PA 18702, or call 717-829-2631 and let her know what you have from Girl Scouting's past.

Parking ordinance in effect

Police Chief Paul Sabol of the Kingston Township Police Department would like to inform residents that since November 1, the winter parking ordinance has been in effect. This ordinance prohibits the parking of vehicles on all public streets between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. Residents are requested to place their vehicles in their own driveways to permit the plowing of snow.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 11, through Monday, Nov. 18, the Kingston Township Road Department will be conducting a leaf pickup program. Residents are requested to place their leaves in standard garbage bags and place them on the curbs by 7 a.m. Raking leaves into the storm drains of the streets is prohibited. Placing leaves in the gutters will block the storm drainage systems and cause flooding of the streets. It is also illegal to burn any leaves in the gutters of the street due to the damage it causes to the asphalt.

begin construction until a maintenance agreement for the facility is secured.

Hasay said he felt Harveys Lake had "a past agreement to maintain the restroom" and that puts the PFC in a situation of not having to negotiate.

"Actually the businesses at Harveys Lake retain a good sum of revenue from people using the boat launch," said Hasay. "Knowing that, the PFC, I would guess, would not be too willing to offer any maintenance money."

Harveys Lake Borough Councilman Ray Jones said last week he estimates it would cost between $6,000 to $7,000 for maintaining the restroom.

Jones said he would not agree to using Harveys Lake tax dollars for the maintenance of the restroom because the PFC does not give the borough any revenue they pull from fishing licenses, boat registrations and citations.

Hasay said the PFC is an "Independent Agency" which does not receive any revenue from the Pennsylvania General Fund.

Therapy

they could play with the animals. Some of the most withdrawn and least communicative patients were selected an allowed to interact with the dogs. Forty seven of the 50 participants showed improvement and many eventually were able to leave the hospital. Use of animals for therapy increased in th 1970's, especially in New York State.

Therapy Dogs International, use of canines in institutions, a worldwide canine organization, was organized in May, 1980. Much of the credit for the organization goes to Milt Winn, president of Raritan Valley German Shepherd Dog Club in Greenbrook, N.J. He thought of the name for TDI (Therapy Dogs International), designed the logo and became executive director.

Janice Blight became interested in TDI and her poodle, Prince, became the first therapy dog in this area of Pennsylvania. In 1982, Janice formed the local chapter and for some time was the only person to visit local nursing homes with a therapy dog. Later other volunteers joined her local chapter, the fifth chapter in the United States, and with their certified TDI dogs were visiting patients in area nursing centers.

Newfoundlands, collies, pomeranians, mixed breeds, miniature schnauzers, schitzus, dobermans and German shepherds had been certified through the local chapter and were sharing companionship and affection as well as therapeutic treatment wit hresidents in Birchwood, Leader East, Leader West, Riverside Day Care, Hampton House, Summit Health Care and Heritage House.

To become members of TDI, the dogs must be trained either through courses or by the owners. They must walk orderly on a leash, sit, lie, stay or come as commanded; must have a social nature, take correction without notice and must not be over-exuberant. It is important that they react favorably to the residents, who may make sudden or unexpected movements.

Janice screens each dog and if the dog is favorable, the owner is given an application, signed by the trainer and approved by a reputable local trainer, to send to the home office in New Jersey.

Janice goes with the owners and their pets the first several times they visit an institution to make certain everything is routine. Owners must first contact the administrator, become familiar with the institution's rules, make certain their dog is in good health.

Gillespie named to Task Force

Luzerne County District Attorney Robert J. Gillespie has recently been appointed as a member of The Attorney General's Family Violence Task Force. The announcement of the force was made by Attorney General LeRoy S. Zimmerman.

Zimmerman, speaking at a news conference in Harrisburg, explained that the task force has been formed "to seek out positive, practical responses to one of the most critical challenges facing law enforcement today: Crime against children, against spouses and against the elderly.

Zimmerman said the task force will be chaired by Professor James A. Strazella, chairman of the state Supreme Court Criminal Rules Committee and professor of criminal law and procedure at Temple University School of Law.
