Staff Sergeant William H. Shane, a United States Army recruiter, is shown here as he gives a talk to fourth grade students at the Lehman-Jackson Elementary School.

Workshop held

More than 21 individuals representing area high school coaches, trainers, and student trainers recently participated in a Taping Workshop sponsored by the NPW Medical Center's Sports Medicine Department. The purpose of the workshop was to instruct the participants in the proper techniques of taping to prevent and minimize risk of injury to the athlete. Shown are a few of the participants in the recent NPW Taping Workshop held in NPW's Sports Medicine Department, from left: Christopher Bobkowski, Student Trainer, Wyoming Area High School; Margaret Schuler, Field Hockey Coach and Physical Education Instructor, Dallas Area High School; Janie Griffen, Physical Education Instructor and Volleyball Coach, Penn State, Wilkes-Barre; and Paul Slocum, L.P.T.-A.T.C., Manager, NPW Sports Medicine Department.

Everell 'Cy' Chadwick cited

Penn State Wilkes-Barre Campus was the setting for the retirement reception for Everell "Cy" Chadwick, Luzerne County Extension Director and Agricultural Agent. Over 140 friends, relatives and co-workers attended.

"I've had 100 percent cooperation with everyone in the county since I've been here," he says. "It's been a great experience. I've enjoyed working with all the folks in Luzerne."

His retirement was announced by W. Wayne Hinish, acting dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture and director of the university's extension service.

Chadwick earned his bachelor's degree in agricultural economics from Penn State in 1950. After two months work as a Clinton and Lycoming County Extension assistant agent, he became a supply officer in the U.S. Air Force in Alaska for three years.

Upon his return in 1953, Chadwick was again assigned to Clinton and Lycoming County. In 1954 he transferred to Luzerne County as a full county agent and county extension director. He was named a senior extension agent in 1980.

Chadwick was responsible for the County's dairy and farm management programs, but most of his emphasis was on farm records and tax management. He also planned farm demonstration field days and farm-city activity days to promote agriculture, and he initiated a farm pond construction program that resulted in 35 ponds and 4,000 acres of land contouring.

Chadwick is a former president of the Pennsylvania Association of County Agricultural Agents, and a former regional chairman of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents public relations committee.

Chadwick resides in Shavertown with his wife, Jean. They are the parents of three children, Kevin, Alaska; Mrs. Job (Diane) Coslett, Dallas; and Brenda, New Jersey.

Party slated

The Altar and Rosary Society of Gate of Heaven Church, Machell Avenue, Dallas, will hold a Quilt Party on Sunday, Nov. 17 at 2:30 in the school auditorium. The quilts will be on display in the school auditorium on Sunday, Nov. 10 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Twenty-one handmade quilts, which were made by women of the church, will be awarded as prizes. Six specials will also be featured. Tickets are $2 and can be purchased at the church office. Shown above completing a quilt are, from left, Shirley Farrell, Carol Sitar, Catherine Lance, Catherine Polacky and Carmella Thomas. Absent from the photo were Joan Gruver and Fran Wallo.

Ordinance is now in effect

The Winter Parking Ordinance in Kingston Township has been in effect since Nov. 1.

This ordinance prohibits the parking of vehicles on all public streets between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m.

Residents are requested to place their vehicles in their own driveways to permit the plowing of snow.

Imagery plans show

Local Back Mountain and Valley artists are working hard to complete their drawings and paintings of the 10th Annual Thanksgiving Week Art Show which is held at Sue Hand's Imagery, 35 Main St., Dallas.

The exhibit is a popular local custom for many college students and families returning home for the holiday look forward to viewing the show.

The students who study drawing, painting, calligraphy and watercolor under the direction of Mrs. Hand and Karen Shelly, will be exhibiting works in all media, including oil, pastel, watercolor, pencil, ink, gouache, graphite, acrylic and alkyd.

There are professional exhibitors as well as teachers, fine arts and commercial art people. The exhibit will include works from kindergarten age to senior citizens. Many of the teenagers have won prizes in competitions on a national scale. Some of the more professionals have their works in shows and galleries in New York City, Chadds Ford and Cape Hatteras.

The show will be open to the public free of charge, Monday through Saturday but will be closed on Thanksgiving Day. The hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. The public is encouraged to attend the exhibit which is putting the Back Mountain on the map as one of Pennsylvania's recognized art centers.

Workshop set

A one-day workshop on "Sexuality and the Physically Disabled" will award six continuing education units to all participants. The seminar, offered by Misericordia's Center for Professional Development, will be held on Friday, Nov. 22, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Sheraton-Crossgates in Wilkes-Barre.

Wilkes-Barre General Hospital, which is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education, has designated this workshop as meeting the criteria for a total of six hours of Category I Credit for the American Medical Association Physicians Recognition Award and the Pennsylvania Medical Society medical requirement.

Six continuing education credits have also been granted through the Commission on Rehabilitation Counselor Certification, the State Board of Examiners of Nursing Home Administrators, and the National Association of Social Workers, Pennsylvania Chapter.

Saul honored

Tom Rokita, left, coach of Wyoming Seminary's soccer team, recently presented Chris Saul, Wyoming Seminary senior, a commemorative team ball in recognition of three school scoring records that he established during his four year soccer career. Saul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saul, Dallas, was co-captain of this year's team. During the presentation ceremonies Rokita noted that Saul established new school records in career goals of 51, breaking the record previously held by Gerry Gunster, Dallas, with 44; career assists of 36, breaking the record of 19 held by Doug Maslow, Dallas; and career points of 138, surpassing Gunster's records of 103. Saul is a three letter varsity sport athlete who has also been a four year member of the basketball and lacrosse teams.
