How many of you have observed "a globe labeled UNIVERSAL" flashing across your television screen at the end of a TV program or movie? If you have not yet seen it, then carefully watch, and more importantly, count the number of times you see this logo appear weekly. (Viewers, quite assuredly, will be surprised.)

Universal, at present, is the top supplier of shows for television. Universal TV offers an unprecedented 12 series and 11 hours of television programming. With the exception of Monday, it has a program on every night of the week.

WYSOCKI

From NBC, Universal has "Knight Rider," "Misfits of Science," "Miami Vice," "Amazing

Stories," "Alfred Hitchcock"; and from ABC, "The Insiders." CBS has given the nod for the "George Burns Comedy Week," "Magnum, P.I.," "Simon & Simon," "Airwolf," "Murder, She Wrote," and "The Equalizer."

Universal TV's budget is such that it will exceed the $300 million mark, not only a record for itself but possibly for any major television studio. In fact, Universal is so busy that it is even turning down some orders. Right now, the studio has an amazing 80 producers and writers who are busily under contract.

A mid-season order for Universal TV from ABC is for "He's the Mayor," a comedy that was originally on the network's fall schedule, but now is awaiting a time slot. NBC has placed an order for three midseason series. The first is "Blackie's Magic," from Peter Fischer, Richard Levinson, and William Link, and stars Hal Linden. The second is "Dalton," starring Charles Taylor as a Vietnam vet and drifter who helps out those he meets in his travels by using martial arts. Universal's third order is from Belisario Productions for an action-adventure show that will be called "The Ultimate Adventure Co."

In addition, Universal TV has two two-hour pilot telefeatures for NBC, two midseason pilots for CBS, and last of all, two midseason possibilities for ABC. Universal TV - a "busy" studio; what an understatement!

Around town

NOW THAT THE THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS are past we can concentrate on Christmas shopping. I must admit, this can be a very hectic pursuit, but it's just all part of the holiday season.

I HAVE MENTIONED BEFORE how great I think Back Mountain merchants are. With a nice variety of stores in our immediate area, you really wouldn't have to leave the Back Mountain to get the items on your Christmas list.

Last week I stopped in at Mary's Flower Garden, a new florist, located on North Main St., Shavertown. A colorful blend of beautiful flowers expertly displayed greets you when you walk into the store. Mary Wooten has lots of great ideas, and is happy to accommodate her customers wishes. If you are looking for special Christmas arrangements, Mary would be happy to help you.

CONGRATULATIONS TO local artist Sue Hand, a very talented person, who captured fourth prize in overall competition with a detailed pen and ink drawing of a Benton resident in an annual exhibit sponsored by the Florida Miniature Art Society.

Back Mountain residents are very familiar with Sue's art work, which always proves to be very beautiful, no matter what the medium.
